ALMOST TOO MUCH

The tourist stopped his car in front of a cabin in the Arkansas Ozarks and climbed out.

"Could I get some water here for my radiator?" he inquired of the sad-faced man who came out to meet him.

"Sure, stranger," the man answered. "Just take this here bucket and help yourself."

As the tourist busied himself with the water he sought to pass the time of day.

"Nice little place you have here," he commented.

"You think so?" the native asked.

"Sure. Say, old man, you look kind of down-in-the-mouth; what's the trouble?"

"Trouble enough," the man replied. "Luck's all gone against me lately. I've lost my team o' mules and my wife this month."

"Well, that is bad indeed," the tourist sympathized.

"Yeah," the man agreed. "And it sure was a good team o' mules I had, too."—[Kansas City Star.

HER SENSITIVE POINT

"My son, yon's a great place," said Sir Harry Lauder recently, of a north country town he had been visiting, "and I had a great reception there. Everything was just great and the women, too—some of them. In one street while I was there a tramcar collided with a milk cart, and two milk cans were upset into the road, the milk splashing across the street. Soon a crowd gathered. A very short man — just a wee bit smaller than myself—was standing behind a very stout lady, so that he couldn't very well see what was happening. When at last he did get a glimpse of the milk flowing in the street, he exclaimed: 'Lummee! What a waste!' The stout lady turned and glared at him. 'Mind your business!' —[Argonaut.

WHAT WAS THE USE?

The two young things were very much in love with each other. They sat one night beneath the rays of the silvery moon, arms around each other, whispering soft nothings at all.

Daphne's eyes were downcast; she seemed quite incapable of raising them to meet the lovelight in Algernon's eyes.

"Why won't you look up at me, darling?" he whispered.

"You will only kiss me again if I do," she replied coyly.

"No honest, I won't," he answered her.

"Then what's the use?" asked the simple maiden.—[London Answers.

A Weakened Defense

Tommy had sprained his wrist and didn't want to go to school.

"But your wrist is nicely bandaged," urged his mother. "It won't prevent you from attending classes."

Still the boy held back. Dad took a hand at this point, too.

"Now, speak up, son," he commanded. "Let's have the real reason. Why don't you want to go to school with a sprained wrist?"

"Too many boys owe me a licking," replied the boy.—[Exchange.

Painting the Night

Impossible to paint by night. Yet one can paint the bonfire aflame in the dark, paint the smell of the corn-stalks burning and the accordion notes humming high and low, folk dancing about, lanterns swinging, vermilion reflections on the gaunt tree limbs, dark monstrous shadows; and only way we have to far distant stars blazing the high trial, the same dim lemon yellow stars — [From Escape, by Alden Brooks.

A Scriptural Bull

Even the Bible is not free from bulls. In verse 11 of chapter xxxvii of the Book of Isaiah appears the following confusion of ideas:

"Then the angel of the Lord went forth, and smote in the camp of the Assyrians a hundred and four score and five thousand: and when they arose early in the morning, behold, they were all dead corpses."—[Kansas City Star.

LA FOLLETTE SEES ISSUE

Army Maneuvers Give Him Text

Attack on Proposed 'Mobilization Day' Seized Gleefully by Radicals

Nation's World War Stand May be Exploited in Plea for German Votes

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, July 28.—The "Mobilization Day" rumpus, which President Coolidge to criticize newly pacifist groups for opposing army plans for prepared-ness exercises September 12, is likely to tumble into politics. Pacifist organizations are preparing to make it an issue and the La Follette camp is preparing to step in and get their support.

Evidence of overzealousness by the War Department has made it possible for the situation to arise. The National Council for the Prevention of War — which includes some of the extreme "no more war" pacifist groups—wrote the President protesting against Mobilization Day, he replied it should be known as "inspection day." The council said the government had planned to mobilize "mobilization day," and there was nothing tending to bear out the plans—"just a routine inspection."

Frederick Libby, secretary of the council, dug up original statements given out by the War Department during the last year, explaining the plans officially terming September 12 "Mobilization Day." The department's press agents went the limit in using the word "mobilization."

These statements explain that the army will go through the motions of "mobilizing as if for war."

The President is firm in his belief that such exercises are precautionary measures which do not enter in the La Follette campaign. The affair is hailed with glee. La Follette, who opposed the President's conduct of it, is generally antieverything and will make the battle against it, expects to make considerable use of the material thus furnished, particularly in German districts.

La Follette followers are preparing to make a campaign in pacifist sections of Wisconsin between "militaristic Coolidge" and "peaceful La Follette."

La Follette's aides expect this issue to go well in some middle western sections where the German population is heavy.

The President's attitude was, it is made clear in his letter written by Libby, and Republican leaders are not afraid that the Republicans Report Strong Sentiment for Ticket in East and Midwest

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, July 28.—The battleground determined upon by the Republican Senatorial Committee in its campaign to elect Republican Senatorial candidates was sketched for President Coolidge today by the committee's chairman, Senator Moses of New Hampshire.

It embraces eighteen States, stretches from Maine to Montana, and extending as far in the border section between the North and the South as West Virginia. Nineteen Senatorial seats will be filled in these States, and of them fifteen now are occupied by Republicans, three by Democrats and one by a Farmer-Laborite.

Senator Moses also laid before Mr. Coolidge observations on the general political situation gained during an organization tour of New England and the Middle Atlantic section.

"The morale and strength of the Democratic party in the East have been affected very detrimentally by its convention, the choice of nominees and by the La Follette movement," he said, in summing up these observations. "The conservative Democrats and independent voters of this section do not intend to take any chances which will throw the election into the House and possibly make Charles W. Bryan President. Therefore, they are going to vote for Coolidge."

COOLIDGE OR BRYAN

A somewhat similar view was taken by Senator Watson of Indiana, a member of the Republican Senatorial campaign committee, who, after a conference with Senator Moses, issued a statement saying that "as careful an analysis of the situation as can be made at this time leads to the conclusion that the Presidential race is between Coolidge and Bryan, for, if Coolidge and Dawes be not elected in November, Bryan is quite likely to be chosen by the Senate later on."

Mr. Coolidge was given surveys of the political situation in Missouri by Senator Spencer of that State and of conditions in the Southwest by Senator Cameron of Arizona. Secretary Slemp, returning from a week-end trip to New York, where he was the guest of Fred C. Hicks, manager of the Republican Eastern headquarters, reported on the progress being made toward opening these headquarters

Woman Seriously Hurt by Former State Executive of New York; Arrest Faced

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—John A. Dix, former Governor of New York, driving an automobile on Van Ness avenue, struck and injured Mrs. Nellie Keating, 55 years of age, today.

Mrs. Keating lies at the Central Emergency Hospital with internal injuries, fractured ribs, fractured collarbone and a possible fractured skull.

Dix late today accompanied Detective Harry Husted of the accident detail of the police department to the Keating home to interview relatives of the injured woman and determine whether a warrant shall be sworn. He has no California driver's license.

Dix said he had slowed down the car to permit a street car to pass and, after he started, Mrs. Keating suddenly darted in front of his machine.

The automobile is owned by Mrs. Mary McElroy Jackson, society woman of New York and Santa Barbara, and a close friend and distant relative of the Dix family.

Former Gov. Dix is touring from Santa Barbara to Victoria, B. C., and will leave here tomorrow and resume his journey.

AMERICAN AVERTS WRECK OF LONDON CONFERENCE

Col. Logan Saves Day With New Compromise Suggestion When Grave Crisis Threatens

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, July 28.—Inter-Allied conference circles tonight are crediting American intervention at the experts' meeting this afternoon with having saved the conference from what threatened to develop into a crisis that possibly would have wrecked the parleys and seriously delayed the application of the Dawes plan to Europe's economic ills.

At the meeting of the experts, prior to the plenary session, the debate between the French and British representatives on the issue which has been deadlocked in the conference for a week had reached a very dangerous stage when Col. James A. Logan, the American official observer, offered compromise suggestions which lessened the tension. As soon as he had finished his statement, which covered important points regarding American participation in the working of the Dawes plan, the French representative announced he believed that within twenty-four hours the French delegation could submit a formula which they considered would satisfy both the British experts and the Anglo-American bankers in its provisions for security for the international loan which Germany must float before the Dawes plan can be made effective.

Consequently the experts' meeting adjourned until tomorrow morning when the French proposals will be heard.

PROGRAM HELD UP

The inability to reach a settlement today, however, disrupted the program of the conference and the invitation which it generally has been expected would be dispatched to Berlin tonight requesting the attendance of German representatives, has been delayed indefinitely, but it is hoped it will be sent forward Wednesday or Thursday.

The plenary session today delegated the power of issuing the invitation to Germany to the prime ministers and the chief delegates to the conference who can act whenever their technical work is completed, without awaiting approval by a plenary session.

The delay resulting from today's session, it is believed, is likely to prolong the conference another fortnight.

Disappointment over the prospects of an extension of the negotiations was somewhat relieved by another announcement Col. Logan made to the experts. This was to the effect that the United States would not object to the co-operation of an American in the Reparations Commission for the purpose of voting with other members on August 15, to decide whether Germany has passed the necessary legislation to make the Dawes plan operative, and also whether the agent-general for reparations under the Dawes plan has taken up his duties.

RESTORES OPTIMISM

This announcement coming at a moment of seeming despair, produced a buoyant atmosphere ever among the Allied representatives who realized that they still were tightly deadlocked on reconciling the bankers on the question of the security to be provided for the German loan. The feeling among the delegates was that the United States, through her official observers, was not overlooking any opportunity to be helpful in smoothing out the difficulties among the Allies.

Col. Logan was careful to point out, as he was in making a similar announcement on the opening day of the conference with regard to the American attitude toward the appointment of an American citizen as agent-general of reparations, that the appointee should be considered merely as an American citizen without influence or directions from Washington.

The opportunity which Col. Lo-

SANTOS (Brazil) July 28.—Hoffman Phillip, American Minister to Uruguay, arrived here today on his way to Montevideo, bringing funds contributed by the Rio Janeiro chapter of the United States Red Cross for the benefit of American refugees in Sao Paulo.

A greater part of the Americans residing in the besieged city proceeded to Rio Janeiro overland.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Withdrawal of the revolutionary forces from Sao Paulo and the occupation of that city by Brazilian government forces were announced today in advices received by the State Department.

The department's advices were based upon dispatches from the Admiral commanding the Brazilian naval forces, which said all Americans in Sao Paulo were found to be safe when the city was taken over by the government forces.

American consular officials at Sao Paulo have variously reported since the fighting there began about two weeks ago, that 1000 to 3000 civilians had been killed or wounded. A heavy exodus said to have reached a total of more than 200,000 persons, also was reported and there have been intimations of considerable property damage from shell fire.

COURT TO GET CONFESSION OF BOY SLAYERS TODAY

State Paves Way for Admission With Witnesses of Leopold's and Loeb's Statements

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, July 28.—Scaling the final heights of his "mountain of evidence" against Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, Robert E. Crowe, State's Attorney, today reached the point where he could place as a peak tomorrow the confessions of the two youths to the kidnaping and slaying of young Robert Franks.

He gained his goal by placing on the stand today eight witnesses who identified statements, both written and oral, by the defendants, and also told of the presence of Loeb at the Harvard school whence Franks was enticed to his death.

BOY TESTIFIES

Relieving the grimness of the proceedings was the presence on the stand of John O. Levison, aged "nine and a half, going on ten." The boy, who came all the way from his summer home in Kennebunk Beach, Me., to "inform the court" about Loeb's visit to the school yard that fatal afternoon of May 21, wore a contagious grin. It spread throughout the courtroom, bringing kindly smiles from Judge John R. Caverly, the attorneys, defendants and spectators.

Even when the boy pointed out "Dick Loeb" as the school visitor, the friendly smiles on the faces of both defendants did not fade.

"Johnny," as he was addressed by the attorneys, seemed unaware that he had once been considered a possible victim of the Leopold-Loeb plot, and this fact was not called to his attention while he was in court.

He mounted to the witness box, clad in boyish knickers and jacket, his sport shirt open at the throat and tan stockings rolled down exposing bare, brown knees.

QUIZZED BY JUDGE

He turned to the clerk and held up his hand to be sworn, but the judge stopped him, leaned over the railing of the judicial bench and asked:

"How old are you, Johnny?"

"Nine and a half," said the boy.

"Do you go to school and do you know what it means to tell the truth?"

"Sure."

"Do you know what it is to swear falsely?"

"Yes."

"And what do they do with people who swear falsely?"

"Put them in jail," said Johnny, and he and the judge chuckled.

Then the boy took the formal oath and in a few words told of seeing Loeb in the school yard.

He was asked what Loeb said, and responded:

"He said 'hit 'er out.'"

"Why did he say that?" asked the State's Attorney.

"Because we were playing baseball," explained Johnny.

On cross-examination Benjamin Bachrach of defense counsel brought out that the boy had no other business in Chicago except to testify at the trial.

GRIM TRIAL RESUMED

Then Johnny took his boyish buoyancy out of the courtroom and the proceedings settled back to the tragic realities of a fight to save two 19-year-old college students from the gallows.

Just before Johnny's appearance there had cropped up the undecided dispute between Leopold and Loeb as to which one had actually struck Bobby Franks with a cold chisel, and then dragged him, gagged and strangling, from the front seat into the tonneau of the death car. This came out first while Wallace Sullivan, a newspaper reporter, was on the stand.

Sullivan testified that he had been with the defendants when the police took them on an automobile tour June 1, the day after their confessions, to point out the various localities connected with the crime. He said the cars had been stopped at a hospital where one of the police officials was undergoing treatment for an injury.

"I asked Leopold flatly whether he killed Robert Franks or whether

PERSIA GETS STERN NOTE

Given Warning by United States

Teheran Asked to Accord Full Honors to Slain Consul and to Compensate Widow

Failure of Authorities to Protect Americans from Attack is Rebuked

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Stern warning that continuance of American diplomatic and consular officers in Persia will depend upon action taken by the Persian government to protect adequately American nationals in that country has been served on the Persian Minister of Foreign Affairs by Minister Joseph S. Kornfeld, of Teheran.

The note, made public today at the State Department, was delivered on Saturday and deals only with the murder by a mob in Teheran of Vice-Consul Robert W. Imbrie. It was sent before word was received of the subsequent attack by "hoodlums" on the consul's widow, Mrs. Katherine U. Imbrie.

A further communication in connection with that attack was sent immediately by the State Department to Minister Kornfeld instructing him to make certain representations orally to the Foreign Minister. It is understood nothing will be made public here with reference to this statement, however, because of its oral character.

TROOPS BLAMED

In connection with the murder of Consul Imbrie, the State Department pointed out to the Persian government that the facts disclosed by its investigation "do not indicate that the police or military authorities made any adequate effort to protect the American consular representative."

"There appears, in fact," the note continues, "to be evidence which it is believed the Persian government will itself desire to investigate most vigorously that certain military elements participated in the assault."

Preliminary official reports regarding the later attack on Mrs. Imbrie by "several hoodlums" also showed a failure on the part of the Persian police to afford protection. A police official is reported to have stood idly by within ten feet of the point where Mrs. Imbrie was subjected to insult.

In outlining steps which it believes the Persian government should take in connection with the murder of Consul Imbrie, the State Department notes that the Teheran authorities on their own initiative already have declared their purpose of making redress to the widow of the slain official. That redress should extend, the note declared, to the payment of costs for the sending of an American warship to bring home the body and also the establishment of a military guard of honor over the casket containing the body and the "rendering of appropriate honors at the time of leaving Persian soil."

GUARD CALLED FOR

In addition, the Teheran authorities are notified that should the American Legation request it, military guards should be furnished by the Persian government for both the legation and the consulate in Teheran, to be maintained until the Persian government has been notified by the American Minister that the guards no longer are necessary.

The note is strongly worded in expressing "gravest concern" at the murder of the Consul and adding that the State Department "cannot overemphasize the seriousness of the view which is taken of the present situation."

The United States government, the note continues, confidently awaits the action it has outlined to supplement steps already taken by the Persian authorities.

"The maintenance of relations between countries is primarily dependent upon the according of adequate protection to their respective nationals and their official representatives," the American note says. "This government feels that the continuance of its diplo-

FLYERS OFF TOMORROW

Hop to Orkneys From Brough

Preparations Completed for Arrival of Aviators in Iceland

President Receives Protest of Governor on Change of Flight's Terminus

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

ON BOARD U.S.S. RICHMOND, ROSYTH (Scotland) July 28.—The American Army airplanes on the world flight are expected to take off from Brough Wednesday, arriving the same day at Houston Bay, in the Orkneys. This is according to detailed plans for the naval patrol of the route of the trans-Atlantic flight, announced today by Rear-Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, commanding the light cruiser divisions.

The announcement was made after a conference of Army and Navy officers on the flagship Richmond, which arrived here today from Newport.

The cruiser Raleigh, now in port here, will sail tonight for Houston Bay and will wireless the weather conditions and other information for the aviators. The Richmond will sail tomorrow night and will be at Houston Bay when the planes arrive.

OFF TO ICELAND THURSDAY

The destroyers Reid and Billingsley will guard the first leg of the flight and each succeeding hop to Reykjavik, Iceland. The Raleigh will steam for Hornafjord, Iceland, early on Thursday, and the airmen will hop from Houston Bay for Hornafjord at noon the same day.

The Richmond will proceed direct from the Orkneys to Reykjavik, the second landing place in Iceland, awaiting the arrival of the aviators there on August 1. The Reid and the Billingsley will be on patrol duty between the Orkneys and Hornafjord and between the latter place and Reykjavik.

From the second stop in Iceland to the finish of the trans-Atlantic flight the plans have not yet been definitely made.

READY AT REYKJAVIK

REYKJAVIK (Iceland) July 28. All preparations have been completed for the arrival of the American Army airmen on their world flight, both at their landing place in Iceland, Hornafjord and here at Reykjavik. Their oil and petrol stores are on the dock near this port to which the airmen will proceed after landing, and facilities for repair work and tests are available here.

"Owing to the exceptionally fine weather it is expected the flyers will be able to take off as soon as they have shipped their fuel and supplies, there being little probability of their being held up by bad atmospheric conditions.

Motorboats from the Iceland harbors will watch out for the airplanes the day of their expected arrival and tow them into the harbor, as the sheltered bay is too small to risk their alighting in it.

DESTROYERS GO NORTH

ON BOARD THE U.S.A. BARRY AT HALIFAX (N. S.) July 28.—The special American torpedo boat destroyer division under command of Commander Russell Willson, which is on its way northward to give assistance to the American 'round-the-world flyers in their jump from Greenland to Labrador next month, will leave here Wednesday and go directly to Indian Harbor, Labrador, under sailing orders received today.

The destroyers will remain in Indian Harbor until word comes from the cruiser Richmond, indicating the time of the departure of the aviators from Scapa Flow, when they will go on patrol station between Indian Harbor and Greenland. Thus far the division has had no information as to the prog-

Corn, Hogs, Oats, Rye and Provisions Stage Contest for High Selling Marks in Chicago

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, July 28.—Corn, hogs, oats, rye, and provisions left wheat lagging today and ran a neck-and-neck race for advanced price records. Corn out-did all peace-time standards at this time of year by selling at $1.00¾ a bushel for May delivery. Hogs touched $10.50, the highest point since 1922. Oats and rye surpassed any prices heretofore for either in 1924, and the provision market equalled the feat.

Reports that corn growth has failed to make progress it should have achieved in the last week started a rush of buying in the corn market and with hog arrivals scarce today at the stock yards here, the upward swing of all farm produce markets excepting wheat, while wheat prices declined. The became an extraordinary force. Predictions that certain definite high figures for corn, wheat and oats would be relieved were ascribed to James A. Patten, who at times has been a big trader in grain, but Mr. Patten declined to verify such reports. The fact that he had been active of late in the oats market, however, made that grain especially sensitive to the reports in question.

largest rye trade in months was witnessed.

December delivery of rye sold above the dollar level, and at the day's top brought $1.02 1-4 a bushel, with May delivery at $1.05 1-2.

Exceptional significance was attached to the upward course of hog values today over and above recent notable gains.

"The advance of about $3 a hundredweight in hogs and $1 a hundredweight in cattle," said Everett C. Brown, president of the Chicago Live-Stock Exchange, "means much to the corn-belt agriculture. It has already stabilized farm values and is thawing out frozen farm credits, enabling banks to liquidate paper that until recently was not negotiable. It means much more to the corn belt than the advance in grain values. In my opinion it puts an average appreciation of $25 an acre on corn-belt land.

CANADA IMPROVES

Wheat today was dominated largely by news of better weather in Canada and of heavy marketing of wheat in Kansas, where the receipts today were the largest on record, totaling 1872 carloads as against 799 a year ago. On the other hand, rye, as a cheap substitute for wheat, attracted special attention and ascended rapidly

Salt River Project Gains by His Activities

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, July 28.—Credit for foresight that has brought the Salt River Valley its greatest item of income was given to the late Judge Joseph H. Kibbey in an address made before the Rotary Club in Phoenix by C. C. Cragin, manager for the Water Users' Association. It was Judge Kibbey who obtained assent from the Reclamation Service and Congress to a plan under which hydroelectric power generated on Salt River should be considered the property of the association, to be handled as is the water flow.

If it had been left unconsidered, all revenue from power on the local project now might be going toward improvement of other projects. This personal service is placed beside the great Kibbey decision, the first American judicial utterance that affirmed that priority in the appropriation of water from a stream lay wholly in the date of beneficial use on certain lands.

REVENUE INCREASES

Ten years ago the Salt River project was receiving from its water power an income of only $100,000 a year, increased five years ago to $350,000 and this year to $650,000. Next year the income will be $1,000,000, to be doubled when the Horse Mesa dam is completed. Eventually, the system, from power sales, will pay its $10,000,000 debt to the Reclamation Service fund, will pay for its added dams and power and canal equipment and the revenue will bear the total cost of operation of the project, giving the farmers free water, with a surplus that may be devoted to extensions and betterments.

Virtually the entire irrigated expanse of the Salt River Valley now is included within the association, the last acres brought in by the demonstrated advisability of securing cheap power for drainage of waterlogged lands. This drainage is done by means of great electrically operated pumps. The cost of installation has been only $5 an acre, compared with $35 an acre figured on the Imperial project and $30 below the Elephant Butte dam.

HUGE PUMP CAPACITY

According to Mr. Cragin, the battery of pumps that covers the valley has capacity for handling in times as much water as is used by the city of San Francisco or three times the capacity of the Los Angeles Aqueduct. Much of the water pumped is being used again and offers have been made for its purchase by irrigation projects in the Salt and Gila valleys.

While the Inspiration and other mines may pay, with profit, as much as $1,000,000 a year for power furnished by the association, Mr. Cragin asked consideration of the fact that, through ability to operate at low cost, there is to be employment of about 2000 more workmen in the Miami district, giving an added population of about 10,000 that will be fed mainly from the products of the Salt River Valley and that thus will contribute toward the maintenance of the valley's farmers.

BRICK BREAKS OVER HEAVY HEAD OF HAIR

BANGOR (Mich.) July 28.—A luxuriant growth of hair prevented serious injuries to Frank Gehring when a brick dropped from the roof of the new Christian church and struck him on top of the head with such force that the brick broke into two pieces. Gehring was stunned by the blow, but was able to resume work.

have appreciated about $500 a car and cattle $150 to $250 a car. As cost of production and marketing is fixed, this means net profit to producers. It is not an ephemeral price movement, but development of intrinsic values, as both hogs and cattle have been selling below that basis.

"This advance in the price of hogs has, in my opinion come to stay. Decrease in production is estimated by the Department of Agriculture at 20 per cent, compared with the last twelve months. I doubt if we need more than a 10 per cent cut in hog production to put the industry on a profitable basis. At the present price of May corn, hogs will pay out at current prices, and unless there are enough hogs to consume it, corn may not hold current quotations.

"Appreciation in cattle and hog values at this juncture is changing the agricultural prospects, validating the advance in grains, thawing out frozen credits, stabilizing land values and creating widespread rural confidence."

COLUMBUS (O.) July 28.—Gov. Vic Donahey will mobilize the State's fighting forces on September 12, in compliance with President Coolidge's request for a national "Mobilization Day," he announced officially today.

BRYAN ALSO IN PACIFIST ATTITUDE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

LINCOLN (Neb.) July 28.—Gov. Bryan of Nebraska, nominee of the Democrats for Vice-President, today expressed unwillingness to carry out the suggestions of President Coolidge regarding "Mobilization Day," September 12, and disagreement with the President's statement that the plans contemplated did not "constitute a militaristic gesture."

"I do not favor any plan contemplating mobilization of the civil or industrial resources of the country or anything else that savors of a national holiday devoted to preparation for war," said the Governor's statement. "I do not believe the people of Nebraska or any other State would indorse any such an undertaking."

The Governor said, however, that he would issue the proclamation and general orders to assemble National Guard troops of the State for "inspection and practice in military activities."

FLAMES CONTINUE TO DEVASTATE SALONIKA

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VIENNA, July 28. — Fire continued to rage all night at Saloniki, entirely devastating that quarter of the city where important factories are situated. Handicapped by a high wind, the firemen were unable to stay the progress of the flames. It is reported that the damage will reach several million dollars, with American tobacco companies suffering heavily.

PRESIDENT RECEIVES PROTEST OF GOVERNOR

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, July 28.—President Coolidge today received a telegram from Gov. Richardson of California calling to his personal attention the desirability of stopping the round-the-world airplane flight at Clover Field, the official starting place of the flight. Other members of the Cabinet were in receipt of telegrams from the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and other bodies asking them to intercede with the officials in charge of the flight to secure a reconsideration of the decision by Gen. Patrick, chief of the Air Service of the Army, who had reached a decision to end the world flight officially at Seattle instead of Clover Field, as at first proposed by the Air Service of the Army and approved by Secretary Weeks of the War Department.

The editorial in The Los Angeles Times on this subject was wired to Washington and will be laid before the Cabinet meeting tomorrow, where it is expected an effort will be made to have the administration reconsider the decision to end the flight at Seattle and have it end where it started—at Clover Field, Santa Monica.

SOUTHLAND UNITES IN PROTESTING CHANGE

When President Coolidge and his cabinet met yesterday, telegrams of protest from Los Angeles against the decision of Gen. Patrick, Chief of the Air Service, to end the world flight at Seattle instead of Clover Field, the starting point, were before them.

Additional telegrams to the President, to Mark Requa, his campaign manager in California, and to Senator Shortridge, signed by Frank Wiggins, secretary of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, and William Lacy, its president, were sent later in the day.

Both transcontinental telegraph companies announced that they would transmit form messages at low rates addressed to the President, as follows:

"President: As loyal citizens Los Angeles, respectfully urge world flight terminate here."

Telephone subscribers who wish to sign the protest may have individual messages sent by telephoning name and address to the nearest telegraph office, where it will be charged against their telephone account.

CHAMBER'S ARGUMENTS

President Lacy based his message to President Coolidge on data, supplied by Ford A. Carpenter, manager of the department of meteorology and aeronautics of the chamber, which showed that nowhere is weather so dependable or air lanes better known than in Southern California. The text of the message follows:

"President,

"Washington, D. C.

"The round-the-world flight officially started at Los Angeles and trip will be forever clouded as a globe-encircling trip unless the race ends at the starting point. Weather conditions of Southern California are nowhere so dependable; therefore weather as a factor may be eliminated. Airlanes to and from Los Angeles and in Southern California are nowhere else so well and favorably known. It would be as sensible to conclude a horse race at the three-quarter post as to designate any other location as the finish of the round-the-world flight. Your intervention in favor of Los Angeles is respectfully solicited."—William Lacy, President Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

MESSAGE TO WEEKS

Identical messages for consideration by the Cabinet were addressed to Secretaries John W. Weeks of the War Department and Curtis Wilbur of the Navy Department as follows:

"We wish you would use your good influence toward designating Clover Field here as the terminal of the around-the-world flight. To make a correct record Clover Field should be designated as the final destination.—Wiggins, Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce."

The same arguments in virtually the same language were employed in the messages to Mark Requa and Senator Shortridge, sent to San Francisco, and also signed by Secretary Wiggins.

In his memorandum to President Lacy, Ford A. Carpenter brought out that August is an ideal month for flight in Southern California. Los Angeles, he said, averages only one cloudy August day to eight for Seattle, the average velocity of the wind is given as approximately one-third less, and the likelihood of rain four times as great in Seattle as here.

OTHER ARGUMENTS

The airplanes used by the flyers, he pointed out, were designed and manufactured locally; air-service engineers were ordered here to test them out, and all tuning up was done here under ideal weather conditions.

Frank Wiggins, secretary of the chamber, said yesterday that he had been unable to learn what consideration had prompted Gen. Patrick to designate Seattle as the terminus of the flight when, up to the moment his order was made, it had been generally assumed by Air Service officers, as well as by the public of the entire country, that the flight would end where it started. The surprise, according to his information, was as great when the announcement came at Seattle as here.

CITES NEWS DISPATCH

Bearing him out, he showed a Washington dispatch to the New York Evening Post, dated the 19th inst., eight days before the date of the order, in part as follows:

"Clover Field, on the outskirts of Los Angeles, has practically been selected as the official terminus for the army round-the-world flight.

"Air Service officials are known strongly to favor Clover Field as the finishing point, although they are reserving their official decision on the question until the flyers return to the United States and more definite information as to conditions prevailing at that time is obtainable."

It was pointed out that Gen. Patrick has not waited for the expected consultation with the flyers themselves, and that his decision is counter to the tentative plans of Secretary Weeks, who some weeks ago outlined the flight from the Atlantic seaboard, via Dayton, O., to St. Joseph, Mo., to Cheyenne, Wyo., to Salt Lake City, to Los Angeles.

STERN WARNING GIVEN PERSIANS

matic and consular representation in Persia will be dependent upon the action which the Persian government may take in this case to indicate the fundamental principle of international law and the foundation upon which international intercourse is predicted."

NO WISH TO OFFEND

The communication, while demanding that the lives of Americans in Persia shall be fully safeguarded, is careful to affirm that the Washington government has "no wish to offend a friendly government or to require punitive damages" for the attack on the Consul. That full reparations, including punishment of the guilty and demonstration of the purpose to furnish adequate protection to American citizens in the future, should be made, the Washington government is insistent, but it leaves for later discussion "further suggestions as to the action which may be considered necessary to meet the exigencies of this situation."

"The proposals that the Persian government render full military honors to the dead Consul and that it furnish military guards for the legation and Consulate are voiced rather as suggestions than as demands because of the feeling in Washington that the Persian authorities will be prompt to comply.

EMBARRASSMENT SEEN

Not only would withdrawal of the Minister and Consuls from Persia which is threatened in the note, prove a serious embarrassment to the Taharan government in an economic way, but it could not fail to have a direct and unfavorable effect on the efforts by Persian officials which have been in progress for several years to attract American capital to that country, relieving Persia of financial dependence upon either British or Russian investments. The question of such investments is understood to be now in process of discussion between Russian representatives and London banking interests.

In view of this circumstance as well as of the avowed desire of the Persian authorities to make redress for the attack on Consul Imbrie, officials here believe that there will be little delay on the part of the Persian government in complying with the suggestions advanced in the American note, thus averting the rupture in friendly relations which might otherwise result from the unprecedented spectacle of a murder of a consular official by a mob in the capital of a friendly country.

BATTLE ON FOR SENATE SEATS

and getting the campaign under way in the East.

Senator Spencer, after his conference with Mr. Coolidge, issued a statement in which he said that there was every indication in Missouri that "Senator La Follette will take a much larger percentage of votes from the Democrats than from the Republicans" and that his colleague, Senator Reed, was a factor determining to no inconsiderable extent the fortunes of the Democrats.

REED SULKS IN TENT

"Senator Reed, who is always a factor of strength to be reckoned with in Missouri politics, has announced that he is waiting to see the definite position of Mr. Davis on the League of Nations" Senator Spencer said.

"It will be interesting to read what Mr. Davis does say on the subject in view of his strong approval of the League of Nations in times past."

The eighteen States in which the Republican Senatorial Committee will conduct its campaign for Republican candidates for Senate seats were listed by Chairman Moses as follows:

Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Illinois, Delaware, West Virginia, Nebraska, Iowa, Michigan, Montana, Colorado (two seats), Minnesota, Kansas, South Dakota, Wyoming and New Mexico.

Organization work has been started in the Atlantic seaboard States and the New Hampshire Senator left for New York tonight for further conferences before starting a Western trip Thursday into Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota and probably Colorado and Montana. The new headquarters of the Senatorial committee soon will be opened under the direction of Walter J. Fahy, former Washington newspaper man, and the Western headquarters to be established in Chicago, will be in charge of Mrs. Martha R. Gold.

FUNERAL IN ATLANTA FOR EAGLE ROCK MAN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ATLANTA (Ga.) July 28.—Funeral services were conducted here today for Jasper N. Bell, former Atlanta man who was killed almost instantly Friday when he fell from his moving automobile near Demopolis, Ala. With a companion he was on his way from his home in Los Angeles to visit his mother, Mrs. W. S. Bell, and a sister, Mrs. Frank M. Stewart, both of Atlanta. The trip was to have ended in Mr. Bell's first visit home since moving to California seven years ago. His home was in the Eagle Rock district of Los Angeles.

PARLEY SAVED BY AMERICAN

gan took for explaining the government's attitude toward a United States citizen on the Reparations Commission also provided him with an opening to express his views on the differences between the bankers and the conference on the security for the German loan.

Col. Logan said it was his opinion that too much emphasis had been placed on the reported views of American bankers. He was perfectly satisfied that the only interest the bankers had was to find sound security for possible investors in a German loan and that no political issues had been raised by the American financiers.

The report of the committee on restoration of economic unity in the Ruhr which was laid before the plenary session today reserved for subsequent decision by the entire conference a highly contentious question raised by the Franco-Belgian military experts who demand that some 5000 French and Belgian railway men should be employed to dilute the German staff on certain of the railway systems west of the Rhine.

But this report, submitted by Chairman Thomas, in so far as its findings are completed, is now before the full conference as a basis for discussion by the Allies and later with Germany, after which the final conclusion will be adopted in a formal protocol, with which the conference hopes to conclude its labors. A covering letter submitted by Mr. Thomas in handing in the report stipulates that none of the governments concerned has changed its attitude toward the occupation of the Ruhr. The covering letter adds:

"The report must not be construed as implying, so far as any of us is concerned, any admission incompatible with that requirement."

The controversial question involving the military evacuation of the Ruhr which sooner or later must be faced has been temporarily sidetracked on the ground that it is outside the terms of reference to the present conference. The report then stipulates certain things that must be done by Germany and the Allies to launch the Dawes plan. It is declared that the Dawes plan will be operative when the Reparations Commission declares that the five measures prescribed by it in Paris the 15th inst. have been adopted.

PROCEDURE OUTLINED

Then follow the steps which the Allied governments must take in fulfilling the Dawes plan, and restoring the economic unity of the Reich.

Removal of all vetoes imposed on German fiscal and economic legislation during the Ruhr occupation and the re-establishment of the German authorities with the full powers which they exercised in the occupied territories before occupation as regards customs, taxes and foreign commerce, railways and all branches of the economic and financial legislation, with no limits except those imposed by the Treaty of Versailles, the Rhineland agreement and the Dawes plan. There must be full restoration of all mines and industrial undertakings exploited under Allied management during the period of occupation.

Then follows this time table:

The Dawes plan shall be in full force not later than October 15; the necessary German legislation must be enacted by August 15; all stipulations laid down by the Reparations Commission July 15 regarding the Dawes report must be fulfilled not later than October 1; the French and Belgians must fulfilled not later than the same restoration of Germany's fiscal and economic unity not later than October 15; the Allied program under the Dawes plan must be fulfilled nto later than the same date, and during a period of transition, the French and Belgian governments, not later than September 5, must have abolished the customs lines between occupied and unoccupied Germany.

During the transition period the German government must pay the agent-general for reparations payments monthly installments as the added receipts otherwise provided for and must pay the agent-general monthly one-twelfth of the first annuity under the Dawes plan.

Germany's first payment will be due August 15, and the first payment by the French and Belgians of a share of the customs collected during the transition period is due ten days later.

The concession of all the railways of the Reich will be transferred to the new company October 1, and the transfer of actual operations from the interallied railway regime to the new company must be made step by step.

Finally, holding aloft the olive branch, the committee finds unanimously that no durable settlement under the Dawes plan is possible in the absence of any agreement between the Allied and German governments to insure deliveries in kind and to effect reciprocal friendliness on the principle of mutual forgetfulness, and a provision for the arbitration of fiscal disputes by mixed commissions.

HUGHES EXPRESSES HOPE OVER CONFERENCE

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, July 28.—Secretary of State Hughes, arriving here this evening, states that he still is optimistic of the outcome of the London conference.

"The alternative of success of the conference will be so disastrous that I still believe a satisfactory solution will be reached," said Mr. Hughes in reply to a question.

Ambassador Myron T. Herrick and Counsellor Sheldon Whitehouse, and Rene Renault, Minister of Justice, who represented the French government in the absence of Premier Herriot, met Mr. Hughes.

Tonight Mr. Hughes dined with Ambassador Herrick and on Wednesday night Mr. Herrick has arranged a dinner for Mr. Hughes at which M. Poincare will be guest of honor.

It is believed Mr. Herrick wishes to get the Secretary of State and the former French Premier together to give Mr. Hughes an opportunity to urge M. Poincare not to attack Premier Herriot and to boost the London conference by warning M. Poincare of the serious economic and financial results which are inevitable if the experts' plan is not adopted and an amicable solution for the reparations problem found.

CONFESSIONS OF BOYS UP TODAY

Loeb killed him," said Sullivan. "Leopold said Loeb did the killing so I went back to Loeb's car and said 'Nathan said you killed Bobby Franks, is it true?'

LEOPOLD OFFERS ARGUMENT

"Loeb said 'no,' so I returned to Leopold's car and said, 'it looks pretty bad for you, Leopold. Loeb has the confidence of all the reporters and he seems to have convinced everyone that you are the one who really struck the boy.' He said, 'I can prove it was I who was driving that car inasmuch as Loeb admits that the boy was sitting in the front seat and was struck from behind. I was the owner of a Willys-Knight car for one thing. I hired the car for another, and the third point is that I took the car to my garage to get gasoline and oil. Isn't it likely then I would be driving the car?'

"I went back to Loeb and said, 'it looks pretty bad for you, Loeb, as Leopold has a pretty good reason to prove that you were the one who did it.' And I told him what Leopold had said, Loeb said, 'Well, you go back and tell him he admits that I knew Bobby Franks; that I introduced Bobby to him and that it was more likely he would be sitting next to me in the car than it would be for him to sit next to Leopold.'

"When I went back to Leopold with that story, Leopold said: 'Why, I can show you just exactly how he did it.' He leaned over and demonstrated in the police car just how Loeb had leaned across the car in which they had committed the crime."

CAPTAIN TELLS OF DISPUTE

The dispute also was touched on when Capt. William Shoemaker of the city detective bureau told of an inspection of the death car by the defendants and newspaper men several days after the trip concerning which Sullivan testified.

Capt. Schoemaker said the newspaper photographer suggested that Leopold and Loeb pose in the automobile. He said that Leopold ran to the driver's seat and that Loeb refused to get into the machine, claiming that Leopold was not in his proper position.

Leopold was quoted as saying that were also a part of Sullivan's testimony. The reporter said the youthful criminal had noticed that the newspaper men were not using shorthand, and had suggested that it would be a good idea for them to cultivate a memory system.

Leopold was quote as saying that he had acquired a "memoric system" and challenged the reporter to give him twenty-five consecutive concrete nouns, saying that he could immediately recite them backword and forward, or tell what word preceded or followed any one of them.

SHY ON MATHEMATICS

Sullivan said that Leopold confessed that he knew nothing about integral calculus, trigonometry, or other forms of higher mathematics, but that he hoped some time to study the philosophy of Philistics.

"He told me that he knew fifteen languages and said he could recite from memory Milton's 'Il Penseroso,'" said Sullivan. "He was interested when I said I could do the Rubaiyat."

Capt. Schoemaker also told of conversations in which Leopold had detailed the fifteen languages he had studied, but he said Nathan claimed fluency in only half a dozen.

"I know enough modern Greek to order a beefsteak in any restaurant," Schoemaker quoted Leopold as saying.

For the rest of the day, the proceedings were taken up largely with identification of handwriting exhibits and the linking, by this means, of both defendants with the activities of "Morton D. Ballard of Peoria, Ill." Both youths impersonated this fictitious personage at various times, and used the name in renting the automobile in which Franks was slain.

A court reporter attached to the State's Attorney's office was the last witness of the day, and had not finished when adjournment came. He was reading verbatim notes on the conversations the night of Decoration Day between Mr. Crowe and the defendants. It was these talks which led to their confusion, breaking down and confessions.

CONFESSIONS TODAY

Mr. Crowe said tonight that he would complete his case by tomorrow noon. About one hour will be consumed in the actual reading of the confessions, the rest of the morning session being devoted to stenographic records of the developments leading up to that culmination of the case.

The battle of the alienists is not expected to start for several days. Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for the defense, said that after the State rested, he would ask an adjournment until the following day. He said that he would introduce not more than three or four witnesses or that he thought four days would suffice for presentation of his testimony, the period also allowing for cross-examination.

Mr. Darrow characterized as "immaterial" the report by two of the defense experts which got into the possession of the morning newspapers last night. He said these reports were merely on the physical characteristics of his clients; that they expressed no conclusions, and were intended merely for the information of the real mental experts on his staff. He indicated that a rigid investigation would be made of the circumstances which brought these reports into public circulation.

Mr. Crowe explained that none of his alienists had prepared written reports and that the testimony they would give would be verbal direct from the witness stand.

He said there is no need for long-written reports, for what they will have to say can be summarized in three words.

Three Bottles of Karnak Ended Long-Standing Trouble, Says San Antonio Citizen in Astonishing Statement to Public. Gained 11 Pounds

"What the newspapers have said about Karnak is not half good enough. The medicine has freed me of sixteen years suffering and I would not be without it if it cost twenty-five dollars a bottle."

This is the emphatic way in which Mr. George Magness, 208½ North Presa St., San Antonio, expresses his opinion of the sensational new medicine which is causing such wide-spread comment throughout the country.

"When I began taking Karnak," continued Mr. Magness, "I had been on a diet for sixteen years, so you can realize what the medicine has done for me when I say that I now eat as I please, never have a particle of trouble afterward, and have gained eleven pounds in weight.

"I suppose I had as bad a case of chronic trouble and all run-down condition as any man in Texas. I could not eat even the lightest kind of food without suffering for hours with gas, biliousness and indigestion. I finally fell off to only 150 pounds and got so weak I would actually stagger when I walked. I hardly knew what a good night's sleep was and would get up every morning with pain and soreness all through my body and my back so still I couldly hardly straighten up.

"But it's a different story with me now. I eat three hearty meals a day, sleep eight or nine hours without scarcely turning over and feel fine and strong in every way. If anybody wants to know about Karnak, send them to me. It is as different from other medicines as night is from day.

Surgeons Say Operation a Veteran Senator Successful; Another to Follow

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BOSTON, July 28.—Senator Cabot Lodge, who successfully underwent an operation for a bladder ailment at the Charlestown Hospital, passed a comfortable day, attending physicians reported tonight. His condition was said to be excellent, with no alarming developments.

A bulletin embodying the facts was issued early in the evening. Unless an unexpected turn for the worse occurs, it was said, no further bulletins would be issued in the course of the night.

Senator Lodge's temperature and pulse are normal and he is cheerful. There will be a second operation, however, for the removal of the bladder obstruction, it was said. The date is to be determined within two or three days.

Coolidge Turns First Earth for Capital Church

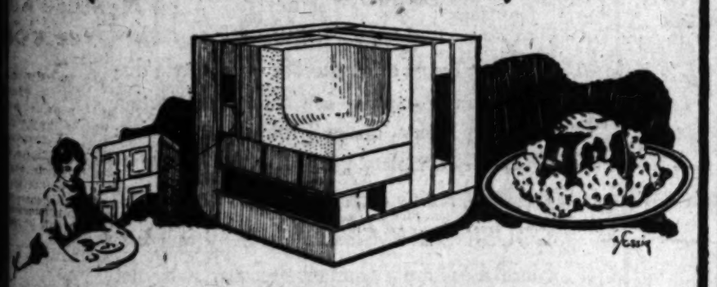
NOTASEME



The REFRIGERATOR ALWAYS ICY COOL

The Stone Lining Holds the Temperature of Ice

THE Stone lining of a Notaseme is insulated with air spaces against the outside heat. The air space is formed by building a wooden box within a box. The insides of these boxes are insulated again by heavy weatherproof paper. Inside of all this comes the stone lining. This lining is one-half and five-eighths inches thick. This stone is so protected from the outside influences that when it is once cold it will remain that way for hours even after the ice has melted in case a delivery is missed.

During the preparation of a meal the refrigerator is opened many times—this is the time that the ordinary ice box is warmed and the ice is melted. Because of the rigid construction of the NOTASEME and because of the chilled stone lining these moments of contact with warm air do not materially affect the temperature of the refrigerator.

NOTASEME SAVES ICE BILLS

Because the Notaseme is so constantly cool, ice is not subject to warm air. For this reason ice usually lasts twice as long in a Notaseme as in the old fashioned ice box.

GRAIN COMBINE OPENS BUSINESS

Properties of Five Concerns Under One Control

Market Corporation's Plans Given to Coolidge

Farmers' and Dealers' Body Refuses Indorsement

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, July 28.—The recently organized Grain Marketing Company began business today, having acquired, by contract, the properties of the Armour Grain Company, Rosenbaum Grain Corporation, Rosenbaum Brothers, J. C. Shaffer & Co., and the David Noland-Merrill Grain Company.

The company's announcement said it would provide a complete marketing system for farmer-producers of grain, local co-operative elevators and other organizations doing a co-operative marketing grain business. While the properties of these companies have not been purchased, provision has been made in the contract whereby they may be taken over upon a basis to be determined by appraisement.

INFORM COOLIDGE

WASHINGTON, July 28.—President Coolidge was acquainted with plans of the new Grain Marketing Company of Chicago at a conference today with Gray Silver of the American Farm Bureau Federation, the president of the new organization. Mr. Silver expects to discuss the subject later with Secretary Wallace.

The conference with the President was described by Silver as very satisfactory and encouraging.

REFUSE INDORSEMENT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

DES MOINES (Iowa) July 28.—The National Farmers'-Grain Dealers' Association in which 5000 grain elevators in the Middle West hold memberships, today refused to indorse the recently organized Grain Marketing Company of Chicago. The association declared it would continue to withhold its indorsement until the grain merger plan was modified to provide that all stock must be held by farmers' elevator companies and not by individuals.

The resolution was adopted at the close of an all-day session to which none but western members and a few others were admitted.

Simultaneously the association indorsed the plans and purposes of the National Farmers' Elevator Commission Company now being promoted by the Farmers' Elevator Companies of Illinois and Iowa, and commended it to all farmers' elevator organizations tributary to the Chicago market.

Failure to recognize officially the Chicago merger plan was predicated, according to John F. Gustafson, president of the association, upon the contention "that Chicago grain men are telling the farmer what to do."

BODY OF GIRL FOUND IN FALL FROM TRAIN

DEATH OF MISS GOOD OF POINT LOMA PUZZLE TO AUTHORITIES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

EVANSTON (Wyo.) July 28.—The body of Miss Catherine Good, 25 years of age, of Point Loma, Cal., was found along the Union Pacific tracks near Leroy, Wyo., last Saturday after she had been missed from her berth, it was learned here today.

Miss Good was traveling eastward with her father, Hugh Good. They had retired after leaving Ogden, Utah, Friday night. Miss Good being in an upper berth and her father in a lower berth.

The body, when found, was fully clothed except for one shoe and stocking.

Railroad officials are unable to explain how the woman fell from the train and are co-operating with county officials in an investigation.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN DIEGO, July 28.—Miss Catherine Good, whose body was found beside the railroad track in Wyoming, lived here with her parents, Hugh Good, the father, is a carpenter. Mrs. Ida Good is the girl's mother. The family home is on Wynnewood Road. The father and daughter were on their way East, it was stated by friends here.

PAIR ARE ARRESTED IN ROSEVILLE BANK "JOB"

TWO SUSPECTS ALSO SOUGHT ON CHARGES OF ROBBING KENNETT DEPOSITORY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, July 28.—Two men were taken into custody by the police this afternoon as suspects in the robbery of Railroad National Bank at Roseville, Saturday, when a lone, masked bandit forced bank employees to hand over $7299 and made his escape in an automobile. The men under arrest are booked under the names of Sewell N. Ellison and Edward Marsh.

The Burns Detective Agency, according to the police here, holds a warrant for the men under arrest on a charge of robbery of a bank at Kennett, Cal., on the 10th inst. The police claim also they have witnesses who saw the automobile the pair had when arrested in the vicinity of Roseville shortly after the crime of Saturday.

The police say the prisoners admit they were in Kennett the day of the bank robbery there.

Ellison is said to fit the description of the man who held up the Kennett and Roseville banks, a bank at Lincoln, Cal., a year ago and a bank at Westwood, several months ago. The authorities have been working on the theory that the same bandit operated in all four instances.

STATE'S PURCHASE OF LOCAL BONDS UPHELD

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—The purchase of $1,000,000 in Los Angeles municipal bonds by the Department of Finance of the State Board of Control is proper and legal in every way and the bonds form a legal obligation on the city, Atty.-Gen. Webb said in a letter to the board today in answer to an inquiry concerning the character of the bonds. The bonds are part of an issue for various city improvements.

RAIL LABOR HEARING IS POSTPONED

Adjournment is Taken to September 8 to Permit Lines to Gather Data

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, July 28.—The United States Railroad Labor Board today took no new steps to compel the appearance before it of the representatives of the engine employees of virtually all the Western railroads in their dispute with the carriers.

Instead the board postponed further hearings on the dispute until September 8 to give the railroads additional time to prepare statistics and historic data on the rules involved in the controversy.

No representative of the labor brotherhoods involved appeared before the board at today's hearing.

When the board adjourned there were indications that steps would be taken before September 8 to establish in the courts the board's authority to summon and compel parties to a dispute to submit their cases to the tribunal. It has been contended by the employees' organizations that the board held no jurisdiction in their controversy with the Western carriers in that negotiations, which were being carried on privately, did not threaten the suspension of traffic.

New Rail Lines Projected for Southern Texas

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HARLINGEN (Tex.) July 28.—Construction of two additional lines of railway in the lower Rio Grande Valley will be started as soon as the Interstate Commerce Commission acts favorably on the applications which have been filed on behalf of the projects. One of the proposed roads is an extension of the San Benito and Rio Grande from Santa Maria to Monte Cristo, thirty miles, the route traversing a broad section of the irrigated valley which is said to be in need of a transportation outlet for its agricultural products.

The other application is that of the St. Louis, Brownsville and Mexico, to build a branch line from Lyford, situated on the upper edge of the Rio Grande Delta region, to Edinburg, twenty-eight miles. The San Benito and Rio Grande is an important feeder of the Gulf Coast lines, although it is independently owned and operated. It was built several years ago for the especial purpose of serving the farmers. It has loading tracks running into many farms along the route.

Court Order Closes Gates of Cemetery

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BERLIN, July 28.—Berlin is laughing over a graveyard story. Somebody discovered yesterday that the gates of the Mariendorff Cemetery were locked and no one could get in or out. Moreover a court injunction against anybody getting in or out was posted on the locked doors.

"Is the court afraid the dead will get out?" the people are asking.

The trouble arose over the cemetery being filled so the Church bought a neighboring lot, where a score of people were buried recently. The church is in financial difficulties and cannot pay the rent, whereupon the closure was ordered.

YAKIMA INCENDIARY HELD TO BE INSANE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

YAKIMA (Wash.) July 28.—Vernon Neilan, who confessed that he set the fire that destroyed $440,000 of Yakima's fruit warehouse section, was found insane at a hearing yesterday, it was announced today. He will be sent to a State institution. Neilan, officers stated, started the fire because he was refused a job by the Roche Fruit Company. He declared to the officers that voices from heaven had directed him in setting the fire.

HUGE TIMBER DEAL MADE IN WASHINGTON

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

KELSO (Wash.) July 28.—Weyerhaeuser Timber Company today purchased 2692 acres of timber land near here, according to the County Auditor's office, where the transfer of the land was recorded. There is 240,000,000 feet of timber involved in the deal, the sale price amounting to $100,000. The same company recently purchased 3960 acres of timber land on the Toutle River with 300,000,000 feet of timber standing, involving a consideration of close to $1,000,000.

George Bullard, Former Arizona Official Buried

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, July 28.—The funeral of George Purdy Bullard, former Attorney-General of Arizona, was conducted this afternoon from Trinity Cathedral. Mr. Bullard died in Los Angeles last Friday. The membership of the Maricopa County Bar Association attended.

Pallbearers were members of the bar with whom Mr. Bullard had been closely associated. Business at the State Capitol was suspended for the afternoon, and the Capitol flag was at half mast.

ENGLAND GETS MUCH DYE FROM GERMANY

REPARATION SHIPMENTS IN PAST YEAR HAVE VALUE OF $944,300

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, July 28.—During the British financial yetr 1923-24, the British government received reparation dyes from Germany valued at par of exchange at $944,300. The gross amount received for the sale of dyestuffs, which included an accumulation from previous years, amounted to $1,672,350, while the total amount of commission and all other charges incurred in disposing of the dyes, including freight from Germany and storage, was $194,640.

The value of the total amount of dyes received from Germany since these shipments commenced in 1920 was $5,501,900. The total amount received from sales was $4,971,000. The total amount of commissions and all other charges incurred in disposing of these dyes amounted to $1,043,670, or 18.31 per cent of the sales.

UNIQUE LEGAL POINT IS HEARD ON APPEAL

MAN IN MISDEMEANOR CASE FIGHTS CONVICTION ON FELONY CHARGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, July 28.—Arguments made in the Third District Court of Appeal here today in support of and in opposition to a petition for a writ of habeas corpus were based on the unique legal question of whether a person who escapes from custody while serving a sentence on a misdemeanor charge can be prosecuted for crime on a felony charge.

The petitioner in the case is George Haines, who asserts that he is being illegally deprived of his freedom by the authorities of Shasta county. He was convicted in the first case on a charge of malicious mischief and while serving a sentence for this offense is alleged to have escaped from the custody of the Sheriff, which led to his present predicament.

GRIMSHAW, PIONEER IN BLACK HILLS, IS DEAD

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

DEADWOOD (S. D.) July 28.—E. H. Grimshaw, Black Hills pioneer and for fifty years prominent in Western South Dakota politics, died here today. He will be buried beside "Wild Bill" Hickok and "Calamity Jane," widely known Black Hills characters.

MORRIS IS WED TO BRIDE AGAIN

Author Now Has Lived Up to Law's Requirement

Informal Ceremony Seen by Close Friends Only

Couple Will Go to Spain for Belated Honeymoon

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—"And they lived happily ever afterward," is the story-book ending with which Gouverneur Morris, author, is extremely familiar.

And so—with years of practice at bringing his pen romances to the proper conclusion, Morris today wrote the "happy ever afterward" to his own unusual love affair with Miss Ruth Wightman, who used to be his secretary.

For the second time within eleven months the couple were married to each other.

The earlier wedding immediately followed the granting of an interlocutory decree of divorce to Morris and his former wife. Since the writer was not free to marry until a final decree was entered, the couple got around the California law by a journey to Mexico.

Last Saturday the final decree was handed down by the Los Angeles Superior Court, and an official copy of this document was brought north before the wedding of this morning, by Attorney Milton Cohen.

The second ceremony, which took place so that Morris and his bride might be legally bound within the State, was performed in the Spanish garden of the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Zbala in Salinas this morning. Justice Davis Wallace read the ceremony and the only witnesses were the mother of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Cohen and Mr. and Mrs. Zbala. A wedding luncheon at the Zbala home followed the ceremony.

The bride and bridegroom motored from their beautiful home in Monterey a little earlier, and the wedding was most informal, with Mrs. Morris attired in a light sport costume.

Now that the Wightman-Morris union is complete before God, man and the California law, the couple will come to San Francisco, whence they will leave shortly for a belated honeymoon in Spain.

Mother Hears From Son After Twelve Years

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) July 28.—After twelve years of waiting Mrs. Emma T. Kelly of this city, a dressmaker, has heard from her son, of whom she lost trace while she was resident in El Paso and he was an employee on construction of the Los Angeles Aqueduct.

Now she has a letter from Canada that tells that the son enlisted with the Canadian forces at the outbreak of the World War, fought through the struggle and then returned to Canada, where he married. Mrs. Kelly now learns she is a grandmother.

TUCSON CITY CHARTER SOON TO BE AMENDED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TUCSON, July 28.—The city fathers have decided that the municipal charter of Tucson, granted by a territorial Legislature in 1883, has been outgrown. City Attorney Ben C. Hill expresses belief that under the State Constitution it will not be necessary to appeal to the Legislature for amendment, but that changes deemed necessary may be made by means of an initiated measure. It is proposed to do this before the end of the year, that new city officials thereafter may enter upon their duties without complications that might affect salary increases. The law of 1883 fixed the salary of the Mayor at $20 a month, Councilmen at $10.

CALLES IS ACCLAIMED AT JUAREZ

Mexican President-Elect Greeted by Large Throng on Way to Senora

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

EL PASO (Tex.) July 28.—Mounted police and armed guards were called out in Juarez today to handle the throngs of men, women and children who greeted Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, President-elect of Mexico, on his arrival here. Gen. Calles spent only a short time in Juarez and greeted several intimate friends and newspaper men in his private car.

Despite the mounted police and guards, the crowds thronged around the private car and the air was filled with cheers when Gen. Calles greeted all with a wave of his hand. Shortly after the arrival in Juarez the car was transferred to El Paso and last night at 9:15 p.m. Gen. Calles left for his old home in Hermosillo, Son., for a short visit before leaving for a tour of Europe.

Gen. Calles expects to leave Hermosillo within several days for New York from where he will sail for Europe. He expects to remain in Europe until the latter part of October. During his European tour Gen. Calles will visit Italy, France, England and Germany.

Beer Drink Is Fatal to Pair; Viper in Keg!

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

BUDAPEST, July 28.—Martin Romler, a barkeeper in a local cafe, and one of his customers drank a glass of beer each from a freshly tapped keg today and a few seconds later both dropped to the floor dead.

When the keg was broken open the body of a viper was revealed. The snake is assumed to have crawled through the bunghole before the keg was filled at the brewery, the viper discharging its poisonous fluid into the beer during its struggle against drowning.

ARIZONA UNION MEN MEETING IN PHOENIX

MANY RAILROAD WORKERS SAID TO BE IN FAVOR OF LA FOLLETTE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, July 28.—Representatives of the Arizona labor union groups met in Phoenix today. Their sessions will continue through tomorrow. The State Federation of Labor is represented here by its executive committee and its law and legislation committee and is attending to routine business, including determination of the place for the annual convention, recommendations on initiated measures and for compensation and other bills in the next Legislature.

It is denied that the federation members, as officials, are taking any part in politics, but some of them met this afternoon with a second group of about twenty representatives of the Big Four railroad brotherhoods, with addition of the railway clerks' organization. The railroad men from Tucson, Seligman, Winslow, Prescott, Phoenix and Globe are reported virtually unanimous in their support of La Follette for President, and they will join tomorrow night at the State capitol in a meeting, headed by George U. Young, that is to place the insurgent on the Arizona ticket.

Much talk is afloat concerning the nomination of a La Follette State ticket, with Young named for Governor, but this is being fought bitterly by labor leaders who for years have supported Gov. Hunt. It is believed probable that Hunt will be indorsed at tomorrow night's meeting, with a resolution that, following the primaries, a preferential ticket be made up from the candidates named on the two major tickets. Efforts made to swing the railroad men back to their normal Democratic allegiance have proved futile.

WRECK OF JAPANESE SCHOONER IS SIGHTED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—The steamer China Arrow reported by radio to the Marine Department of the Chamber of Commerce here that on the 23rd inst. she saw an unidentified three-masted Japanese schooner submerged at a point approximately 900 miles east of Yokohama. The wreck could be seen for six miles, the radio message said. There was no sign of life on board. About ten feet of the stern was thrust above the waterline.

TEXAN FINDS TRINKETS OF EGYPT IN PIT

Relics Recovered from Supposed Indian's Grave Bear Hieroglyphics

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TULIA (Tex.) July 28.—While exploring what he thought was an Indian grave, in the depth of Tulia Canyon, near here, Ephriam Stevenson of Tulia, brought to light a number of metal trinkets, some of which are clearly of Egyptian origin. One of the most interesting of these relics is a pendant upon which are engraved strange symbols which are recognized as belonging to ancient Egyptian civilization. It is stated that several symbols upon this pendant are identical with those which are found upon the famous Rosetta Stone, which gave the first clew to deciphering Egyptian hieroglyphics.

The pendant, which is one and one-fourth inches in diameter, is made of some metal resembling copper. It is of crude design, although all figures are plain. When found it was dark blue and none of the figures was visible. Cleaning and polishing brought the figures to light.

One side shows the Sphinx in the foreground with pyramids and the sun in the background. At the base are some small hieroglyphics, all of which are seen on a photograph of the Rosetta Stone. On the opposite side is shown a figure which might be taken for Buddha, on each side of which are hieroglyphics. The figures of two fish also are shown.

A copper bowl hammered out of native metal, and several trinkets, apparently of Egyptian origin, were found with the Egyptian pendant and are in possession of Stevenson. Similar articles have been found at several places in the Tulia Canyon. The Tulia Canyon evidently was a favorite winter quarters for Indians. It runs through the center of the plains of the Texas Panhandle. The McKenzie battle ground, where the last big fight between Indians and settlers was fought in this section, is not far from the spot where Stevenson made his find.

GIRAND-GREENWAY DECREE MODIFIED

PROJECT FLOATS PENDING FURTHER RULINGS BY FEDERAL BODY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) July 28.—Federal Judge Jacobs today modified his decree against the Girand-Greenway hydroelectric enterprise on the Grand Canyon by insertion of the words "or until authorized by law." This will allow the project to float in the event the Federal Power Commission reconsiders its present determination to allow no activity on the Colorado River till determination of the fate of the Colorado River compact between the States.

In the same court was filed a government application against H. B. Stetson of Philadelphia and eight others, charged with continued assessment work on 160 placer mining claims which have been laid out along the Bright Angel trail, called by the complaint "the most accessible part of the canyon."

It is asserted that much damage thereby has been done and that the work in part has been in defiance of withdrawals of land within the canyon. The same interests have filed on a great dam site in Black Canyon, below Boulder Canyon, in the Colorado channel. For years Senator Ralph Cameron of Arizona is understood to have been connected with the Stetson interests and it was he who for a long period operated the Bright Angel trail, before it was taken over by Coconino county.

TRUCKEE RIVER WATER HELD FEDERAL-OWNED

NEVADA CHANCERY MASTER BACKS GOVERNMENT IN SUING RANCHERS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

RENO (Nev.) July 28.—The doctrine that the Federal government owns and controls all of the unappropriated waters of the Truckee River, an interstate stream, is laid down, by Judge George F. Talbot, formerly Chief Justice of the Nevada State Supreme Court, in an opinion handed down as master in chancery in the suit of the United States government against 800 ranchers near Reno. The suit was brought in the United States District Court of Nevada before Judge Farrington, to determine conflicting claims to the waters of the Truckee River upon which the Newlands reclamation project is located.

The findings which are recommended to Judge Farmington of the United States District Court, are directly opposed to the claims of the waters within their boundaries. In case the proposed decree is adopted the case will be appealed to the United States Supreme Court.

FARM BODY DECLARED NOT HIT BY ALIEN ACT

JAPANESE COMPANY OFFICER CITES ARTICLES FILED BEFORE BILL PASSED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

LODI, July 28.—The right of Lo-a, a Japanese agricultural corporation, to enter into fruit cropping contracts was not affected by the recent decision of Atty.-Gen. Webb denying such right to all ineligible to citizenship, it was declared here today by S. Takahashi, secretary of the Japanese Association of the Lodi district.

Lo-a was incorporated before the alien land law of 1920 went into effect and its articles of incorporation included the buying and selling of crops, he said.

The company is preparing to extend its business to Los Angeles where a warehouse will be acquired for the storage of grapes from this district. The crops will be distributed to Japanese fruit dealers.

RUTH CLOSE TO HIS 1921 RECORD

BY BRAVEN DYER

Babe Ruth, whose ability to swat the offerings of rival pitchers for four-base trips has brought him world-wide notoriety, seems well on the way to equalling the world record he made by pounding out fifty-nine home runs in 1921. Yesterday the Bambino registered his thirty-first 'round-the-sacks blow of the season, and at the rate he has been hitting during the past two weeks his old mark is in danger of being eclipsed.

Ruth, at present, is showing much of the form that made him the most valuable player in the American League last year. In that season, although he pounded out only forty-one homers, enough to lead the league, however, Ruth had an average of .399, being second only to Harry Heilman, who topped all batters. The New York slugger rapped the ball for a total of 359 bases.

In 1922, due to his suspension during the early part of the season, Ruth took part in only 110 games. His home run total was only thirty-five, Williams of St. Louis leading the league with thirty-nine and Tillie Walker being second with thirty-seven.

On July 30, 1921, Ruth had thirty-seven homers to his credit. Yesterday he knocked his thirty-first, which puts him well within striking distance of his record. A glance at his record, given here, shows that there are two spots where the Bambino stands an excellent chance of picking upon his old mark. From July 31 to August 6 he made only one home run, while from August 23 to September 2 he also got only one long blow.

Right now Babe is batting at a neat clip and unless he slumps it looks as if he will establish a new record when the present season closes.

Here's his 1921 mark:

MARY BROWNE WINS IN EAST

Advances in First Round of Seabright Event

Bill Johnston Conquers Fisher, 6-1, 6-4

Californians Favored to Win Tournament

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SEABRIGHT (N. J.) July 28.—The thirty-first annual invitation tennis tournament of the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club began today with an entry of forty-seven players in the men's singles and twenty-seven in the women's.

William M. Johnston, the second ranking player in the country, and Miss Mary K. Browne, former national champion, both from California, stood out as the leading contenders for the two new bowls which have been put into competition this year.

Arrayed against Johnston, among others, are Howard and Robert Kinsey, Harvey Snodgrass and Clarence J. Griffin, all of California, and Brian I. C. Norton, formerly of South Africa, runner-up to Tilden at Wimbledon in 1921.

JOHNSTON BEATS TWO

Two rounds of play were completed in both the men's and women's tournaments, with the exception of one match in the latter.

Johnston defeated in succession H. J. Fisher, Jr., of Pelham, N. Y., Williams College player, at 6-1, 6-4, and Craig Biddle of Philadelphia at 6-2, 7-5.

The Californian played easily in both matches, stroking softly and winning most of his points on position play. Occasionally when challenged he brought his forehand drive into use and sent the ball streaking across the net for placements and made his way forward to the net to the delight of the gallery with his crisp, smartly stroked volleys.

Miss Browne played one match and had little occasion to show her game. She defeated Mrs. W. H. Davis of the local club, without the loss of a game.

EXHIBITION MATCH

The California woman looked to be in the same good physical condition that she showed in 1921, thoroughly tanned and perhaps not quite as slender as on her last appearance in tournament play in the East.

As a special feature of the opening day Gerald Patterson and Pat O'Hara Wood of Australia played an exhibition doubles match with Dean Mathey and Karl Behr, one of the teams that is being considered for the United States doubles combinations in the Davis Cup matches. It was a fast, sharp-stroking engagement, marked by brilliant skirmishes at the net, but there was never much doubt as to which was the superior team. The Australians were more accurate in their volleying and Patterson's smashing was unrivaled. The Americans carried the score to deuce in the first set but a falling off in control before the deadly fire of their opponents' speed kept them behind all the way in the second. The score was 7-5, 6-3.

Brian I. C. Norton, holder with William T. Tilden of the national doubles championship, was the first to win a victory in the men's singles. He defeated Manuel Liano of Mexico, 6-2, 6-1.

In other first-round matches, in the men's singles, Robert Kinsey, San Francisco, defeated E. M. Edwards, 7-5, 6-4, 6-0.

In the second round men's singles Howard Kinsey defeated Stanley W. Wright, 61, 6-2. Howard Kinsey, defeated Stanley W. Pearson, 6-3, 9-7, Walter Westbrook, Los Angeles, defeated William J. Clothier, Philadelphia, 6-2, 4-6, 6-4, and Clarence Griffin, San Francisco, defeated Leonard Beekman, Philadelphia, 6-2, 6-3.

Other second-round scores in the men's singles were: Harvey Snodgrass, Los Angeles, defeated Bernon Prentice, Seabright, 6-2, 6-3.

MAHONEY-SHORE IN MAIN BOUT TONIGHT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

FRESNO, July 28.—Eddie Mahoney of Fresno and Jimmy Shore of Big Creek, lightweights, are topping the American Legion boxing card here tomorrow night. Barney Tooley of Taft and Joe Corby of Fresno, a pair of middleweights, will collide in the semifinal. Bobby Vincent of Taft and Joe Chaney of Fresno, 133-pounders, are booked for a row in the special event. There will be three preliminaries.

Ruth, Dempsey, Carpentier and Firpo are considered the greatest attractions in athletics.

OH, FOR CRYING OUT LOUD!

"Help! Murder! Police! Those men are killing each other," such will be the cries of the fanlettes at the Vernon Coliseum tonight when Young Nationalista and Georgie Rivers tangle in the main attraction. Last time out these youthful battlers whaled away at each other in a regular old-time bar-room brawl. Both were smeared with blood at the conclusion of the fight. Rivers took the nod over his Filipino rival, but the swarthy oriental scrapper is out to reverse the verdict tonight.

OBSERVATIONS

BY BILL HENRY

The first thing we know they'll have to build a swimming tank in the Coliseum in order to house the crowds that will want to attend. Roger Cornell and Art Margraf put on an outdoor swimming meet at the Ambassador Sunday that attracted an enormous crowd. One calloused reporter returned to state: "Ye gods! I have lived to see people turned away from a swimming meet." Of course, it's been done before, but there hasn't been very much in the way of sold-out houses recently. What's more, those who did see the Ambassador meet will be very anxious to see the next one, because this one was particularly good.

The distinguished Mr. Cornell may never have personally threatened any of Johnny Weismuller's records recently, but in addition to being a good coach he's a riot as an impresario. He had comedy and surprise events sandwiched in between the actual competitive events in such a way that were few waits and fewer delays and everybody had a lot

WESTERN TALENT IS TOO MUCH FOR STRACHAN

Loses Two Matches in First Day of Play at Los Angeles Tennis Club; Tilden Is Winner

BY BILL HENRY

The loud popping sound out in Hollywood yesterday wasn't one of those champaign parties you read about—it was merely a batch of tennis reputations being punctured in the opening rounds of the Southern California tennis championships at the L. A. Tennis Club. More good players rather unexpectedly met defeat yesterday than in any previous tournament. Tilden and all the real favorites won, of course, but a lot of one-time heroes will hate to pick up the paper this morning and look at the summary.

Donald Strachan of Philadelphia, one of Tilden's proteges, bit the dust twice during the day demonstrating the uncertainty and futility of life in the Great West. First of all he bumped into a mysterious individual named Cohn in the junior singles and was eliminated by the ample score of 5-7, 9-7, 7-5. Cohn was a sort of a human backstop and outsteadied the Philadelphia youngster. In the open singles Bill Eydalotte beat Strachan 6-3, 6-2.

HERD DOWNED

Among other heroes to be given the air in the first round might be mentioned Ed Berry, who was crowned by Roy Nelson 4-6, 6-3, 6-1. Harold Dickenson, who was smacked down by Bob Gates, former junior champ, 6-3, 6-4 and Cliff Herd, once national clay court champ, who found the voluble Mr. Robinson, late of Idaho, too steady and was beaten 6-2, 1-6, 7-5.

Tilden looked every bit his old efficient self when he crowned Beef Jones, the Eugene O'Brien of the tennis courts, in straight sets 6-2, 6-1. Jones, however, put up a real battle, hitting the ball hard and serving a couple of aces on the champ. The match was really very good and Jones did better than anybody did against Tilden short of the semifinals in the tournament last year.

Chaplin's victory over Jasper was not very convincing, chiefly because Jasper was way off his usual game. The Easterner was victorious 6-1, 6-2 but didn't show anything very startling. We'll know more about his ability after he has played Barker, Warren, Sinsabaugh and some of the other local lights.

WIENER ON TOP

Sandy Wiener, Tilden's protege who is remembered from his local appearance last year, won two victories beating La Chappelle 6-1, 6-2 in the juniors and then, after receiving a couple of million dollars worth of advice from Bro. Tilden in the dressing-room, eliminating Rosenblatt in the open singles 4-6, 6-3, 6-4. Tom Ferrandini, who looks like the best of the local hopes, won easily from Schoeman, 6-2, 6-0 while Roland Roberts of

IRON DUKE MAY QUIT PORTLAND

Rumor Has it Kenworthy to Resign from Managing Ducks in Few Days

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28. Bill Kenworthy, manager and part owner of the Portland club in the Pacific Coast Baseball League, expects to hand in his resignation as manager within a few days in favor of Sammy Bohne, infielder now with the Cincinnati National League outfit, according to a story appearing today in the San Francisco Call.

Kenworthy, Bill Klepper and Bohne own the controlling interest in the club. Bohne, whose legs are bad this season, is said to be anxious to come out to Portland if the Reds can be induced to get the other league clubs to waive on him. Sammy is not appearing in many games.

PORTLAND, July 28.—Portland baseball club officials denied absolutely today that Sammy Bohne is being considered for manager should he obtain his release from the National League and should Manager Kenworthy resign, which they said was problematical.

RICE TO ASSIST AT PENN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHILADELPHIA, July 28.—Jim Rice, the former Columbia rowing coach, who assisted Joe Wright at Pennsylvania the past season, has been re-engaged for next season, according to an announcement made today by John Arthur Brown, chairman of the Red and Blue rowing committee.

Eastern Ring Star to Make Debut Here

Matchmaker Tom Kennedy of the Hollywood American Legion Stadium, thinks he has in Bob Sage, Detroit middleweight, who makes his Coast debut at the Movie City arena Friday night, one of the biggest Eastern cards ever to fog into this city. Sage is just after decisively defeating Billy Connoley, who has shaded Young Stribling.

Sage is a likable youngster, who has gone far in the boxing racket since donning the padded mittens but a short time ago. He has boxed with success such boys as Anthony and Bryan Downey, George and Billy Shade, and Phil Krug. While not busy boxing, he practices law in Detroit.

Kennedy has selected a tough opponent for Sage in his initial start here in Mickey Rockson, who, but a few weeks ago held Bert Colima to a draw. If Sage gets over Rockson he is good for several good feature bouts on the Coast.

Hollywood Post, No. 43's championship belt, emblematic of the Pacific Coast lightweight title, which was won by Johnny Adams two weeks ago at Hollywood, will be presented to the San Bernardino boxer prior to the feature.

MINGLE IN RETURN BOUT

Young Nationalista and Georgie Rivers Will Hook up Again in Main Event at Vernon Tonight

Young Nationalista and Georgie Rivers, two of the fanciest four-rounders that the Coast arenas have seen for some time, are boxing the main event at Jack Doyle's Vernon Coliseum tonight. It is a re-match after a fight some weeks ago that caused many disputes and the Vernon management expects the little fellows to draw a big crowd.

Nationalista and Rivers are ambitious about eastern trips and now that the results of the Coast four-rounders get into the New York papers they realize that decisions in their favor help much and that verdicts the other way hurt considerably.

CLOSE VICTORY

Rivers won the last fight by a close margin. He upset the Filipino for a second in the second round and displayed a better defensive style. Both wound up tired and bleeding and it was anybody's fight had they gone on. The bout did not settle the question of superiority by any means and that is the reason why Matchmaker Wadhams has them going again. Rivers is slightly favored to win because of his previous victory and his better defense and also be

VELCOFF TO MEET MONDT

Nick Velcoff, who warped Yusif Hussane, the talkative Turk, all out of shape last week, is to provide Joe "Toots" Mondt with a little exercise at the Philharmonic Auditorium tomorrow night. Jack Anderson was first picked as Mondt's opponent, but Jack made the mistake of taking on Velcoff to see who would get to go against the cowboy. Velcoff made short work of Anderson and hence gets the match.

There is a lot of interest in the battle between Stanislaus Zbyszko and Demitry Martinoff, the giant Russian. These two men are among the largest in the game, the latter weighing 275 pounds. Just at present Mondt and "Zibby" are arguing about which man shall have the main event, and Promoter Lou Daro will get them together tonight, toss a coin and the man who calls the drop will get the main bout.

There are two other clashes scheduled. Joe Bonomo meets Charley Ackerman, and Prof. Higami takes on Jack Hunter.

Local Professional Golfers' Association May Join P.G.A. Soon

WEST SEEKING RECOGNITION

Pacific Coast Pros Ask for Places in Open Tourney

Meeting Planned to Discuss New Municipal Links

Oakmont Course Praised by U.S.G.A. Official

BY CHARLES WEST

Due to earnest efforts on the part of the three far-Western professional golfers' organizations, practical recognition of the Pacific Coast by the Professional Golfers' Association of America seems assured within the next few months. Jack Malley, president of the Southern California Professional Golfers' Association, and Harold Sampson, who holds a similar position with the Northern California body, have both been corresponding with George Sargent, presiding genius of the national organization, urging the allotment of several places for both the national open championship and the national professional championship tournaments to the West for next season.

Recently the P.G.A. gave the Pacific-Northwest two places in the P.G.A. championship for this season, which is to be held at French Lick in the near future. The fact that every member of the Pacific-Northwest body is personally affiliated with the P.G.A. undoubtedly carried considerable weight with the national officials, and within the past few months all the Northern California pros have followed suit and affiliated with the P.G.A. Such favors as Sargent and other P.G.A. officials are inclined to bestow will undoubtedly go to the North and Northwest, unless Southern California's professionals follow suit.

LIMITED

The assignment of places for the national open and national professional tournaments, while undoubtedly necessary because of the huge number of entrants in these events every year, has done away with an excellent feature. Until this year play for the two titles was open to any and all golfers, and the pros were able to meet and exchange ideas of no little value. The open and the P.G.A. championship came to be annual conventions, which afforded the pros the opportunity to keep up with the latest methods of play, club making and teaching, while the new system of qualifying tournaments, to which only a limited number of players are able to attend, keeps the big tournaments for the low scorers only.

Malley is making a determined effort to have the Southern California Professional Golfers' Association affiliated as a body with the P.G.A., and with the wholehearted support of the North, will do everything possible to convince Sargent that California's pros should have a qualifying tournament for the open next season.

NEW PUBLIC LINKS

A meeting will probably be held this week by members of the City Park Commission to discuss the plans for another all-grass municipal links at Griffith Park. George C. Thomas, Jr., who made such a signal success with the Warren G. Harding memorial course, will undoubtedly be in charge of the designing of the new lay-out, the location for which has not yet been selected.

Originally Thomas had in mind a 36-hole system, the start and finish of each eighteen being near the clubhouse. This unit took in the greenest grass course and the old dirt links, but the arrangement of holes was considerably different. Instead of putting the old course in grass and carrying out the original plan, there seems to be a very general opinion that the old course should remain as it is and a third course be built at some other location.

A third course would be still farther from the clubhouse, and while it has been suggested that the location could be changed, it would be an exceedingly difficult matter to leave the present courses as they are and still have a clubhouse in a central position. It seems to us that to carry out the original idea and complete the 36-hole unit Thomas designed several years ago is the most logical move.

NOTABLE ON VISIT

Dr. Lyman Carrier, former chairman of the green of the U.S.G.A. and for several years head of the experimental work of the United States Department of Agriculture, spent last week-end visiting friends in Los Angeles.

Dr. Carrier is probably the world's greatest authority on the culture and maintenance of fine turf grasses, especially for golf course work. He developed vegetative or stolon method of planting creeping bent, the finest turf and putting green grass known today.

Dr. Carrier is now engaged in the growing of the famous Washington strain of creeping bent, having farms at Minneapolis, South Bend and Chicago. This fall he expects to start farms in Oregon and a very large one in the Los Angeles district. This will mean that our local courses will have an abundant supply of the finest putting green grass always at hand. Dr. Carrier personally supervises the planting of all the grass he sells.

In his opinion Southern California is an ideal spot for the growth of creeping bent. To date there are only two greens in California planted to creeping bent by the vegetative process, No. 13 at Wilshire and No. 6 at Annandale, but they are so much superior that there is hardly a fair basis for making a comparison with the old type of green. These two greens Dr. Carrier thinks are equal to any in the country.

Dr. Carrier was wonderfully impressed with the character and condition of the Wilshire greens as a whole. He praised the painstaking and intelligent work Charles Orr has given the Wilshire Club greens and said they will compare most favorably with the best in the East.

Dr. Carrier also paid a magnificent tribute to Max Behr's work at the Oakmont club. In his opinion this is one of the finest pieces of golf architecture in the country. He was particularly impressed with the beauty of the work. Mr. Behr has not only produced a course of magnificent character from a golfing standpoint but has so blended his molding into the natural topography of the land that the result is a rare piece of landscape work as well.

Although his time was very limited and his visits confined to but four courses he thinks that we need not be ashamed of our local work and that the future both as to turf and architecture was very promising.

HILLCREST

Eddie Meyberg and Ellis Elkeles are in the finals of the Golfers' Magazine trophy tournament, as the result of their victories Sunday in the semifinals. Meyberg vanquished Larry Lewin, 6 and 5, while Elkeles was carried to the nineteenth hole by George Germain.

In Class B, J. Cohn defeated Sid Barth, 1 up, nineteen holes, and W. Philips downed Ross Lewin, 3 and 2. L. Listner won the Class C finals by a victory over Leo Altman, 4 and 3.

LOS ANGELES

First-round matches were played in the President's cup tournament at the Los Angeles Country Club last week end, with the following results:

FIRST ROUND

George H. Barnove defeated Harley J. Earl 4 and 2.
W. F. Horner defeated E. B. Young by default.

BROWNS BLOW

ST. LOUIS, July 28.—Robertson's double in the ninth inning tied the score for the Browns, but the Boston Red Sox came back with a five-run rally in the tenth, winning today's game, 10 to 5. Manager Sisler announced that he would protest the game because Umpire Owens ruled that Rego should precede McMillan in the batting order in the ninth, which, the Brown's manager declared, violated the rules. McMillan had run for Severeid in the eighth, remaining in the game at shortstop. Score:

SEMIPRO RESULTS

FREMONT WOODMEN DOWN ARCADIA NINE

Playing their first independent game, the league-leading Fremont Woodmen defeated Arcadia at Glendora by a score of 13 to 1. According to reports of the by-standers, the game was close and hard-fought. Arcadia got their lone tally in the ninth inning, when half the Fremont team was in the showers. The only interesting feature of the game was the hitting of Fitts, Fremont infielder, who got five hits and four runs in five trips to the plate. The score:

WATTS C. OF C. DROPS GAME TO PARCEL TEAM

The United Parcel Service baseball team pulled an unexpected sprint at Watts yesterday, and defeated the hard-hitting Watts Chamber of Commerce team by a score of 3 to 5. The winners were behind, when the eighth inning started, but ran wild in this frame and banked out four hits and five runs. This is one of the few games the Watts nine has lost. Bachant had a perfect day at bat, lining out three singles in three times at bat, while his team-mate, Workman, worked hard and got a double and two singles in four times at bat. Archer got three out of five for the losers. The score:

ECHO PARKS DEFEAT CELAS BASEBALLERS

Wally Knox allowed but four hits and four runs at Echo Park yesterday and the Echo Park Athletic Club defeated the C. Celas team by a score of 10 to 4. Neither team could get started until the fourth inning, and the Celas team only got one run until the eighth, when Knox weakened and allowed three runs to cross the plate. Smith, Lorensi and Knox starred with the bat for the winners, and Smith did most of the work for his team, getting two hits and scoring both times. The score:

AZUSA IS WALLOPED BY PASADENA PAINTS

The Pasadena Painters kept up their winning streak by defeating the Azusa baseball team, 7 to 1, at Azusa yesterday. The winners banged out eleven hits during the course of the afternoon's events. Goslin and Wolfe starred at the firing line, each getting two hits out of four times at bat. Or thrilled the assembled thousands by spearing with one hand, a hot fly in deep left field, that would have been good for a homer if missed. The score:

FORMER COAST LEAGUE BALL PLAYER RETURNS

Pep Young, formerly a member of the Los Angeles and Portland baseball teams in the Pacific Coast League, and later a member of the Kansas City Blues in the Western League, has been released and returned to Los Angeles yesterday. Young states that he will not leave the city unless recalled. He plans to join some semipro ball team.

In modern Olympic games, the decathlon is a composite event which includes 400-meter runs, a broad jump, a running high jump, putting the shot, throwing the discus, a 160-meter hurdle race, pole vaulting, throwing the javelin, and a 1500-meter run.

Montebello Is Victorious in Snappy Battle

Scoring all runs in the second inning, the Montebello Merchants defeated the Vernon Park Art Shoppe, 10 to 5, at Montebello yesterday and thereby tied for first place in the Pacific League, with the Fremont Woodmen. The play-off will take place next week.

Montebello only got seven hits but the Shoppe boys made so many errors they practically donated the game to the Merchants. Montebello was unable to score after the second inning. Hank Cruse was on the mound for the winners and pitched his sixth straight win. Vogel, Montebello first baseman, helped his team to win by making a double play unassisted and figuring in another. ROSS GARCIA OUTFIT BEATS INFANTRY NINE

The Ross Garcia nine, formerly the Simon Brick team, defeated the One Hundred and Sixtieth Infantry baseballers, 8 to 6, in an exciting game played yesterday on the Simon Brick diamond. The Ross Garcia crew won out in the seventh inning, which was the last, by scoring three runs and overcoming a one-run lead hung up by the Infantrymen. Courney, Infantry third-sacker, hit a home run. Garcia, winning pitcher, struck out twelve men. The score:

Distarci Wins Championship in Boxing Bout

One of the biggest crowds to ever witness a newsboy show went home with smiles on their faces last night as a result of a wonderful show at the Newsboys' Athletic Club. Eight high-class bouts were held, and every one was a corker. There were several honor guests on hand to witness this stirring show, and included "Deacon" Pyle, Dusty Rhoades, Mickey Rockson and Bert Colima, middleweight champion of the Pacific Coast.

The main event was won by Dick Lafan, who defeated Kid Al, and as a result was awarded the 105-pound cup designating the championship. Tuffy Jiggs defeated Red Hurley in the semi-wind-up. A bout which proved to be the most exciting of the evening was that for the eighty-five-pound cup, and was won by Dominic Distarci. He defeated Jimmie Olivas in a wonderful exhibition of boxing. The other bouts were as follows:

Morris Tcatch defeated Gilbert Gallego in a very close and interesting bout. Abie Miller beat Augie Petrangello in a grudge battle. It was a pip. Foro Reyes lost to Frank Martinez in a close bout. Another high-class bout that took the fans off their feet was the first fight between Angel Rodriquez and Peter Patapoff. Angel won by a very close margin.

Along with the boxing came several selections from the champion newsboy violinist, Billy Mitnick, who he played and cracked a few jokes for the crowd, and he went over big.

NEW BALL LOOP FOR HOLLYWOOD

Floyd Carleton to Form Studio League; Play Will Start in September

A new Hollywood semipro baseball league is being planned by Floyd Carelton, president of the Hollywood Twilight League. The new league will be called the Studio League, and will be composed of eight teams from Hollywood motion-picture studios.

The Twilight League Schedule ends in August, and Carleton says the Studio League will begin to play the first Saturday in September. Double-headers will be played on Saturday and Sunday, on the Allan Hancock field. Several of the studios have their own diamonds, Carleton stated.

Studios that have already signed for entrance into the league are Famous Players-Lasky, William Fox, Pickford and Fairbanks, Universal, Hal Roach, Warner Brothers and the United Studios. Carleton said the Hollywood Merchants would probably be the eighth team, but would represent a studio.

At a board meeting to be called August 16, Carleton will read the rules governing membership and eligibility in the league. At present the only rule pertaining to eligibility states that a player must have been employed by the studio for which he plays for seven days.

The Twilight League has proved to be more than successful, causing a lot of excitement and interest in the movie capital, and the new league should be even more so, since a few movie stars may grace the diamond with their presence.

Casey Victor in First Tilt in Far North

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VICTORIA (B. C.) July 28.—The British Columbia provincial lawn tennis championships started here today with a strong California contingent engaged, headed by Ray Casey. Fresh from winning his third championship, Casey is here after the British Columbia provincial honors. Also Neal Brown, E. Chandler, Miss Winnifred Suhr, Miss M. Thorne, Mrs. William Henry and Miss Brunn.

During this afternoon most of the Californians made their appearance on the courts. Casey won his first-round match from Hurd, a New York player of no mean ability. Brown, Chandler and Suhr all won their matches with ease, all of them showing excellent form.

Among the ladies the most interesting match was the one in which Miss McDonald, one of Toronto's best players, managed to beat Mrs. Verley of the home club. The finals of the British Columbia mainland mixed doubles, which could not be played on Saturday owing to length of time taken by other finals, will be played here Wednesday. Miss Suhr and Casey meet Mrs. Henry and N. Brown.

BELLFLOWER WARDS OFF CUB CLAWINGS

The L. A. Cubs banged the onion all over the Bellflower lot Sunday, getting thirteen safe blows, but nevertheless lost a ball game to Bellflower, by a score of 8 to 7. Bellflower got only seven hits, but made them all count. Hence the score. There were no errors, however. Norton, Cub second base, led the attack on Bellflower with four hits in five times at bat. None of the Bellflower players got more than two hits. The score:

LOCAL LAUGHS

Each week The Times produces a film entitled "Local Laughs," consisting of the fifteen best jokes submitted by local people. Weekly prizes are paid of $5, $3, $2, and twelve of $1 each. A list of theaters showing the film, together with rules for submitting jokes are given daily in a coupon in The Times. Prize-winning jokes, and names and addresses of winners, appear only on the screen. Jokes receiving honorable mention will be given a place of honor on The Times' comic page each week-day, and each of these contributors will receive a souvenir of acknowledgement.

Crystal Creek Fire—Siskiyou county, State Forester M. B. Pratt in charge of the fire. Scott Valley reports that prospects are good for complete control today. One hundred and seventy-five men are on fire line. State Forest Inspector A. E. Frost left for scene of fire yesterday to assist Pratt.

Fines for leaving camp fires burning: J. J. Pallow of Portland, Or., was arrested the 25th inst. by State Ranger R. E. Roach for leaving camp fire about two miles north of Willits, and was fined $50 by Judge E. M. Whitney of Willits. George Bishop of Fort Bragg arrested by State Ranger R. E. Roach for leaving camp fire in Jameson Canyon, Napa county, was fined $50 by Judge C. H. Snow of Napa. Sentence suspended.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

RENO (Nev.) July 28.—A forest fire raging in Lassen county, California, today entered the city limits of Susanville and destroyed two houses. The fire is burning on a mile front, with approximately 1000 men endeavoring to check it.

All business houses and the two large lumber mills were closed this afternoon.

Patients from the County Hospital were removed as sparks continued to fall about the building.

Stored lumber was saved from the flames by constant pumping of water from the mill ponds. The supply of water, however, is low and in certain places has been completely depleted.

WIND DECREASES

Lessening of the force of the wind this evening has decreased the present danger.

A second fire in Lassen county is reported near the Shasta county border, burning toward Eagle Lake. The fire is in exceptionally valuable timber owned by the Fruit Growers' Supply Company of Susanville. Almost 400 men are fighting the flames. Telephone wires are down from Susanville to the Eagle Lake fire and dispatches from Susanville say it is impossible to obtain detailed information.

SITUATION IN OREGON

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PORTLAND, (Or.) July 28.—With cooler weather and higher humidity, the forest fire situation in Oregon continued to show much improvement over the week-end. Today the worst condition existed in Douglas country where eleven new fires were reported, the result, forestry officials say, of careless campers and malicious settings. Eight fires were set along Tom Folly creek near Drain, and rapidly burned together, forming one blaze.

This is the only fire that is considered serious.

A total of 654 forest fires have been reported so far this season in the national forests of Oregon and Washington.

FOUR INCENDIARY FIRES

SACRAMENTO, July 28.—Four fires which occurred last week in the northwestern part of Shasta county all were of incendiary origin, according to a report received today at the office of the State Board of Forestry from C. E. Fowler, inspector for the board. The fires occurred about the same time and burned over an area of approximately 400 acres. Fowler is continuing his investigation in an effort to definitely fix the responsibility. The inspector expressed the belief that three or four people are involved.

State Forester M. B. Pratt is still directing the force of men engaged in fighting the forest fire in the vicinity of Greenview, Siskiyou county. The latest word from him is to the effect that the fire will be brought under control today unless there is a high wind or other adverse conditions to contend with.

The Greenview fire started several days ago and has already swept a large area, destroying timber, a sawmill and a number of buildings in its path.

No estimate of the money loss was made by Pratt in his report, which was received this morning by W. B. Rider, assistant State forester.

CLEVELAND FOREST FIRE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—A big fire in the Cleveland National Forest, reported today, is continuing the string of highly destructive and far-flung conflagrations in Federal timber preserves in this State.

The Cleveland fire is on both sides of Bautiste Canyon, in the San Jacinto district, and is sweeping through wide acres of dry chaparral. The Cleveland is California's southernmost forest, its southern extremity lying close to the Mexican line.

The absence of a report from the fire on private land near the Klamath National Forest indicated, according to the United States Forest Service here, that the fire was well under control.

FIRE IN CUYAMA VALLEY

Reports that a fire was burning over a large area in Cuyama Valley in the Santa Barbara National Forest, twenty-five miles west of the Los Angeles county line, were received yesterday at the office of Stuart J. Flintham, county forester. The valley, which is heavily wooded in parts, runs through the western end of Ventura county into the eastern end of Kern county. The local forestry office has not been called upon to aid in fighting the flames, although Deputy Turner said all precautions would be taken to see that the fire did not spread into Los Angeles county.

LOBBY BANDITS ROB HOTEL

Youths Escape With $2500, But in Needless Speed in Auto Fall Afoul of Traffic Squad

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, July 28.—Four young men disturbed the mid-afternoon quietude of the Hotel Hayes lobby today by pulling revolvers, threatening more than a score of clerks and guests, and dashing out with four cash boxes containing $2500.

Then the bandits engaged in a terrific cross-town motor getaway which was a complete success until a flivver squad mistook them for speeders and gave chase. Three minutes later, after a few bullets had been fired by the pursuers, the automobile and the money and one of the robbers were in the custody of the police.

The hold-up was preceded by the entry of two young men who had been seen lounging about the lobby the night before. They strolled up to the cashier's cage and asked Mrs. Alice Jones to change a bill. Then two other youths came into the hotel, an exclusive residential hostelry at 4345 University avenue. Like musical-comedy chorus men, all four of them drew revolvers in unison.

The plan of procedure had been carefully worked out. One robber stepped over to the telephone switchboard and covered Miss Grace Nelly, the operator.

Meanwhile a companion was threatening Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Sylvia Beecher, assistant cashier. The gun of the third robber swung in an arc to include Clerk E. L. Roman and some twenty guests seated about the lobby.

Bandit No. 4's task was to rifle the opened safe behind the counter.

The robbers might have escaped with their plunder if they had taken more time. But they drove about fifty miles an hour and this unseemly haste aroused Policeman Murphy and his flivver squad.

RADICALS AND UNIONS INDORSE LA FOLLETTE

CALIFORNIA FACTION MEETS, NOMINATES ELECTORS AND CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—The State committee of the California Conference for Progressive Political Action, representing the California State Federation of Labor, the four railroad brotherhoods and the Farmers' Educational and Cooperative Union of California, met here Saturday night and nominated thirteen Presidential electors after indorsing the candidacy of Robert M. La Follette for President, it was announced today.

Those elected electors are as follows:

Stanley Arndt, Stockton; Mrs. Addie Benedict, Lodi; L. H. Bohnett, San Jose; George W. Downing, Los Angeles; W. R. Edwards, Chula Vista; A. P. Entenza, San Francisco; R. V. Garrod, Saratoga; Gordon F. Irvine, Dunsmuir; M. A. Koch, Los Angeles; Mrs. Elma F. Smith, Napa; Rudolph Spreckels, San Francisco.

The following were elected members of the State campaign committee:

John C. Thorp, San Francisco; Harry See Tracy; R. W. Robinson, Long Beach; Franklin Hichborn, Santa Clara; Paul Scharrenberg, San Francisco.

Four of the electors, it was announced, are ex-service men. Steps were taken at the meeting to establish headquarters for the campaign here and to place a branch office in Los Angeles.

The Socialist party of California, the anti-Communist wing of the Farmer-Labor party of California, and the Nonpartisan League of California, also were represented at the meeting.

SLIGHT INCREASE IN LIVING COST IN MONTH

SURVEY SHOWS TWO-TENTHS OF ONE PER CENT RISE FOR PERIOD

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, July 28.—Slight changes in the retail cost of food and clothing caused an increase of two-tenths of 1 per cent in the cost of living in the United States between May 15 and June 15, 1924, according to a survey just completed. Between July, 1920, when the peak of the rise in the cost of living since 1914 was reached, and June, 1924, the cost of living decreased 20.9 per cent. The increase in the cost of living since July, 1914, was 61.7 per cent.

The purchasing value of the dollar, based on the cost of living in June, 1924, was 61.8 cents as contrasted with $1 in July, 1914.

GIRL IN TOWED AUTO RUN DOWN BY TRAIN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NAPA, July 28.—Struck by a freight train while riding in a towed automobile, Miss Lucy Wheatley, 21 years of age, daughter of Henry Wheatley, Napa fruit grower, was taken to a hospital here, where doctors said she had little chance of recovery. She was suffering from a fractured skull. The accident occurred at Salvador Crossing, near here. The automobile was carried 200 feet. Miss Wheatley is a student at Mills College, Oakland.

RHODE ISLAND MAN BANS PAIN WITH A BARREL

Rhode Island Fittings Co.,
Hillsgrove, R. I.,
June 14, 1923.

Strong, Cobb & Co.
Cleveland, Ohio.
Gentlemen:

I have just returned from a fishing trip in the State of Maine and wish to say that the pleasure enjoyed on this trip was increased immensely by the use of the bottle of Noburn which I bought on trial.

I am enclosing my check for $5 and wish you would send me five bottles of this Noburn and if you should at any time contemplate giving up the manufacture of this, I hope you will set aside about a barrel for me, although I am getting along in years and probably would not be able to use the entire quantity, still I would have the satisfaction of knowing that I had something in my possession that would certainly relieve me of very much suffering.

Yours very truly,
C. P. CLOUGH,
President.

Just one application of "Noburn" applied before each exposure and you are sunburn proof. You get the tan, but not the burn. An invisible, odorless, harmless liquid, quickly applied, easily washed off.

Made and guaranteed by Strong Cobb Co. of Cleveland, who have been in business for ninety years. "Noburn" is sold at all good drug stores.—[Advertisement.

ST. LOUIS PEOPLE NOT BUYING COAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ST. LOUIS, July 27.—With coal production in this territory showing a heavy decrease, the usual summer drive to induce consumers to buy is in progress. P. H. Greelaw of the Coal Operators' Association has issued a statement showing 1,500,000 fewer tons of coal have been mined in the six months ending June 30 than in the same period for 1923. In June, according to Greelaw forty-nine mines were idle, and most of them worked for only a few hours.

The slump in production is attributed to these reasons: The public has failed to buy its usual stock at this time of year. There was a stock of 62,000,000 tons on hand in the country in March, and it has not been used up, and the public believes that the agreement between the miners and operators for a three-year contract has removed the possibility of any interruption in the source of supply through union labor troubles.

BOY SCOUT SAVES LIFE BY FIRST-AID METHOD

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

COSHOCTON (O.) July 28.—By the skill and prompt action of one of his own first-aid students, Scout Executive Jack Hammill of Coshocton was recently saved from bleeding to death. Hammill was working with a crosscut saw at the Boy Scout camp on a recent morning, when his hand slipped and an artery in his right wrist was severed. Frank Games, an Eagle Scout, making use of the first-aid training he has received in his scout work, applied a tourniquet to the wound, stopped the flow of blood, bandaged the wrist and brought Hammill to Coshocton, where a physician dressed the injury.

Heat Spell in Chicago Takes Its First Life

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, July 28.—Fred Tesnow, 314 Harlem avenue, Forest Park, was today's first victim of the present heat spell, which the weather forecaster predicts will last until Tuesday night. Tesnow entered a drug store for the purpose of getting relief from the high temperature and died shortly afterward.

Fair weather for the next forty-eight hours, with a probable maximum of 90 degrees or possibly more, is the weather man's prediction.

LEACH OUT TO DARE NIAGARA

Elderly Stunt Man Plans Leap in Rubber Ball

First Attempt Resulted in Serious Injuries

Life Bet Against $50,000 on Film Rights

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NIAGARA FALLS (N. Y.) July 28. — Secretly guarded in some ramshackle barn or other unsuspected place near here is an immense rubber ball. It is to bounce 65-year-old Bobby Leach to added fame and fortune or to death when he attempts his second trip over Niagara Falls. This is scheduled for August 5.

Though several have tried and failed, Leach is one of the only two persons who have ever gone ovr the falls and have lived to tell the tale. The other was Mrs. Anne E. Taylor, who accomplished the feat in a steel barrel in 1905. She died a few years ago.

"Aw, I can do it," scoffs Leach on the eve of his second perilous undertaking. "I made it the last time in a steel tube. It'll be a lead-pipe cinch to do it now in my rubber football. She'll ride the big plunge just like a bubble, and I won't even get a jar."

LIKE FOOTBALL

The rubber ball on which Bobby bets his life against $50,000 for motion-picture rights is shaped exactly like a Rugby football. It measures seven feet four inches from end to end, and has a width of four feet at the center. It is made of the stuff that balloon tires are made of, according to Bobby, and cost him $3400. Its weight, without passengers, is 334 pounds.

In the interior is a compact, oblong space, just large enough to accommodate a man of Mr. Leach's diminutive proportions.

It is here Bobby will repose on a hammock, suspended at each end by swivel fixture, so that old mather grawity will keep him right side up, no matter which way the ball turns in its mad flight. Air compartments are at each end of the ball. Just like its smaller brother and sister footballs, the opening is laced up from the outside.

"Everything's all set," gleefully confided Bobby to the correspondent. "But s'help me, I've had a time. Now there's the authorities. They'll try to stop me. But I've outsmarted them every time before and I'll do it again. Then that airplane company, where I engaged a pilot to tote me out and drop me into the rapids above the Horseshoe Falls. You'd think they was being asked to be a party to a murder plot.

. . . TO DROP IN RIVER

"Well, we drew up my 'death warrant.' I sign my own name, 'Bobby Leach,' and they sign 'John Doe' from China. And I hand 'em $1000 in cold cash when I get sewed up in my rubber ball. And that's that.

"Now, here's the way it's going to work. At the head end of the ball is a big ring, to which it will be attached to the bottom of the airplane by a rope. A cutter, operated from the pilot's seat by a lever, will release the ball at the right place. I'll tell them to drop me in the rapids near the Toronto powerhouse. Then for the ride. There'll be enough air inside the ball to keep me alive for an hour. But if I am not picked up below the falls within twelve minutes I'll never be."

There is another obstacle besides the duly appointed authorities that stands between Bobby and his plans. That is his family—"the old girl" and the little girl, as he calls them.

"He won't have any home any more," threatens Mrs. Bobby. "If he hadn't already done it once I wouldn't say anything. Let some one else do something he hasn't done and let him do that."

"The little girl" is Bobby's 15-year-old daughter, Pearl. Tall and stately for her age, she dresses like a grown-up. A wealth of jet-black curls, that are as famous in Niagara Falls as Mary Pickford's are in the movies, hangs down over her shoulders.

"Money—you know that long green stuff—that's why I went over the falls the first time, and that's why I'm going again," says Bobby.

"And did you cash in at the box office the first time?" asked one.

"Did I?" retorted Bobby. He put both thumbs under his suspenders and swayed back and forth on his heels. Finally he said:

"Well, now, that first time was thirteen years ago, and you don't see me working yet, do you?"

Bobby Leach made his first successful trip over the falls on July 25, 1911. Though he escaped with his life, he suffered serious punishment. His jaw was broken and both knee caps crushed. He was in the hospital for twenty-three weeks following his adventure.

The last man who attempted to ride the falls was Charles Stephens, an Englishman. He went over in a wooden barrel, August 15, 1920. Both barrel and occupant were dashed to pieces on the rocks.

"I warned the man he'd never get away with it," said Bobby. "But now, take my rubber ball, there's absolutely no danger at all."

Besides going over the falls on one previous occasion, Bobby has these other daredevil stunts to his credit:

A parachute descent from a balloon at an altitude of 12,000 feet, or more than two miles.

A dive from the steel arch bridge into the river below the falls, a distance of 202 feet, the highest dive in the world.

"There is only one thing I haven't done," commented this aged daredevil. "I haven't gone up the falls yet."

Tribesmen Afraid of Joker Somewhere in Newly Acquired Right

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

GLOBE (Ariz.) July 28.—Walter Stevens, Apache interpreter for the county courts, expresses belief that, though Indians are being registered, few votes would be cast this fall on the San Carlos Reservation. One Indian, asked whether he would vote, answered in colloquial English: "I'm not a sucker yet. There's a joker somewhere." Some complaint is made by the redskins that they still are bound down by reservation rules, especially by one that forbids the sale of their live stock except through agency channels.

BOY IS LOST THREE DAYS IN MOUNTAINS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SUPERIOR (Ariz.) July 28.—Tony Moreno, 10 years of age, has been restored to his parents here after being lost in the mountains for three days and nights. He found water in the canyons, but had no food till he stumbled, exhausted, into a ranch house, where he was cared for and later sent over to the Superior Miami Highway. He had gone with his father into the mountains after firewood and was lost when he tried to follow and bring back a couple of burros that had stampeded.

EL PASO STILL HOPES AID HERE

To Present More Arguments on Espee Merger

Would Shift Federal Hearing to Los Angeles

Law Against Consolidation of Parallel Lines Cited

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

EL PASO, July 28.—Seemingly defeated in their efforts to obtain the assistance of Los Angeles in fighting against the proposed merger of the Southern Pacific and El Paso and Southwestern Railroads, members of the merger protest committee decided at a meeting today to make one last effort to gain the assistance of the Southern California city. Attorney Fullbright of Houston, expert on traffic matters, has been employed by the El Paso committee and will leave today for Los Angeles to present additional facts concerning the proposed union of the two railroads.

Former Mayor J. U. Sweeney urged the committee to take immediate action and requested that the proposed hearing before Commissioner Mahaffie at Phoenix in September be transferred to Los Angeles instead of El Paso. Mr. Sweeney pointed out that even though it was within the power of the commissioner to adjourn the meeting to El Paso it would be of considerable aid to El Paso in her fight if the hearing were transferred to Los Angeles.

Mayor Dudley was inclined to be of the opinion that perhaps it might be better to have the meeting in Los Angeles instead of either El Paso or Phoenix.

HEARING IS ORDERED

The following telegram was received today from Washington with regard to the hearing to be held in Phoenix:

"The Interstate Commerce Commission has fixed September 3 as the date for the hearing on the merger of the Southern Pacific and El Paso and Southwestern. Meeting will be held in Phoenix before Commissioner Mahaffie. The latter has power to adjourn the meeting to El Paso if sufficient evidence is presented to justify his action in doing so after hearing starts at Phoenix."

Mr. Sweeney contends that sufficient evidence can be presented to justify the change of the location of the hearing from Phoenix to Los Angeles instead of to El Paso. He advised the committee to get in touch with the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce at once to secure their assistance in having the hearing transferred to Los Angeles.

Mr. Sweeney, who charges that the proposed union is a "colossal attempt to stifle competition," stated that the Los Angeles jobbers are for the merger and seem to be afraid to be against it.

"The Los Angeles Times is practically the only paper which is not silent on the matter and they have to definite stand," said Mr. Sweeney. "The greater number of the Los Angeles people are not acquainted with the facts in the merger case and if they were El Paso could easily count on maintaining their assistance in their fight against the monopoly. In the event that Mr. Fullbright is unable to secure assistance from Los Angeles to fight the merger El Paso will go into the fight single handed, the committee members state.

With no definite line of action as yet planned in their fight against the consolidation the El Paso committee will probably not overlook the fact that the Texas laws forbid the consolidation of parallel and competing lines.

In this case the statutes are quoted which permit an outside concern to lease Texas mileage extending across the border not to exceed thirty miles in this State for periods not exceeding ten years and with the approval of the Railroad Commission.

According to members of the committee only four miles of one line and nineteen miles of the other line, the El Paso and Southwestern, are in Texas and competition could not under these conditions be alleged, but the four miles which parellel the Southern Pacific from El Paso to the Rio Grande may constitute a prohibited parelleling for merger purposes.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has been requested, however, to settle this question.

NEW TRIAL SOUGHT BY MURDER CONVICT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

MARYSVILLE, July 28.—A motion for a new trial was made today by counsel for John Connelly, convicted of murder in the first degree for the slaying of Francis Heafion, a policeman. Hearing on the motion was set for Wednesday.

Restaurant Man Didn't Eat His Own Food

"It's pretty tough for a restaurant man to have stomach trouble. My customers were always telling me I ought to eat in a good restaurant. The fact was I couldn't eat a thing that didn't bloat me up and no medicine or doctors helped me. I tried everything recommended and at last Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, and I assure you I didn't have to look any further. Since taking it I have been a well man." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists.—[Advertisement.

The Affair at Othman's

BY WILL PAYNE

"On the steps to the front door?"

"Yes, on the steps."

"But didn't you stop somewhere else, too, for half a minute? Try again."

She did try, but shook her head. "No, I'm certain, captain. From the steps I went straight on to the sidewalk, bearing west. Then I turned on the sidewalk when I heard the horn. I stopped nowhere after I left the steps. I'm positive."

Still the charm worked. She looked so lovely one almost had to believe in her in spite of reason. For reason simply overwhelmed her. Not even Welbasky knew that she went to Othman's house in a black and white taxi until Mrs. Littleton said so, nor that she had started west, heard a horn, and turned east. Mrs. Littleton could have got these details only by being an eye-witness to the scene; not even the police could have supplied her with them.

But there was one more test. Therefore, Flora was required to wait half an hour. At the end of that time she was put in line with four other young women and marched through a room in which sat Mrs. Littleton, Capt. Welbasky and Inspector Schulz, who was a particular friend of Roger Muldoon.

When the little procession filed out Mrs. Littleton said, "It was the next to the last one. I'm sure about it."

The next to the last one was Flora Marsden. In the face of evidence so conclusive as this the police could no longer withhold their hand. Flora was locked up.

THE NEW WITNESS

Mid-afternoon of that Saturday following the murder of Frederick Othman, Marsden was called home by a telephone message. Oftener than not, on week days, he breakfasted alone, his wife and daughter having breakfast in their rooms. This morning he was alone at the table when he unfolded the newspaper and saw Othman's name in big black letters.

There had been a loathness in his mind from the moment he heard of Flora's engagement. She must be free to make her own choice, and the money was mighty welcome; yet there had been a secret shock and recoil. Now, as he read the newspaper, a sort of half-transparent mask fell off; the fellow stood revealed. On the day before, the engagement having been definitely fixed, Othman had put a sum of money at the disposal of the shipping concern and said the word for a bond issue; for the present, at least, the concern would float. Marsden thought of that business aspect of the matter almost at once. And he wondered how Tops really felt; how much she had cared for the man and how much for the money. Well, it was done now; she and her mother might as well have their morning sleep out. The notion that Tops might already know of this murder never occurred to him. He told the maid to send the newspaper up to her when she called for her breakfast, and so left the matter.

Flora was already wide awake, a self-confessed coward. The sleepless night had not helped her to face it, so she lay still, like hunted game in a thin cover. The newspaper was taken up to her, and she sent it on to her mother. Mrs. Marsden read it, and understood why Flora was keeping to her room that morning—a great shock to her, of course. Thus the morning passed. But this hiding in bed was the sheerest cowardice—and childish, for the thing had to be faced. Sometimes her father came home to luncheon on Saturdays. Flora got up and dressed, preparing herself. This Saturday, however, he did not come home and, presently, she telephoned for him.

Only then did she try to prepare her mother, saying: "Mother, dear, I've sent for father." I want to tell you both. I was at Mr. Othman's last night just before he was shot. Don't be afraid, mother, I had nothing to do with the shooting. It will all come out right in the end, but you and father ought to know. We'll wait a few minutes until he comes, then I'll tell you both."

She had put it off partly because there was something in the story that she could not tell her parents: something she had not told Philip Kendall, and would not disclose to anybody. And in thinking of the matter that forbidden part kept intruding; it was always weaving itself back into the drama in spite of her effort to keep it out. In her thinking about it, that suppressed part cast a tinge of falsehood on what she was going to tell. But what she could disclose she told clearly, beginning with Kendall's letter, which she had burned.

That letter, she said, cast her into a great doubt and dismay, so she sent for Nelson Barlow and showed it to him. He told her she should not marry Othman. Then she telephoned Othman's house and went up there to get the engagement announcement. Othman seized her, she struck him, and ran out. There was a sound; she didn't identify it as a pistol; it seemed too dull a sound for a shot, more like a door slamming. She hurried on out of the house and came home. Phillip came later to tell her Othman had been shot. Then two detectives came and questioned her. She was the woman whom the newspapers mentioned as having visited Othman just before he was killed. Nelson Barlow was the man who was in the house at the time; evidently Nelson had gone up there soon after leaving her.

"I suppose they may come for me again—any time. I think Phillip is working all the while, trying to find out who did it. I know nothing about the shooting itself. That's the way it stands, father."

What Marsden chiefly felt was a frightful helplessness, as though he had received a message: "We're coming in a little while to drag your daughter through the streets at a cart's tail," and was powerless to prevent it. He believed Flora's account, as a matter of course, but he saw in how dangerous a situation it left her. With all of a father's pride and sensitiveness, he shrank in every fiber from the ruthless publicity that impended—soiling her name in this muddy water, like setting her up in a cage to be gaped at ribaldly. But what could a man do? Of course, he could engage a lawyer, set some private detectives at work; but meanwhile they might be after her at any moment.

He felt baffled, like a strong man immersed in an element against which his strength is useless. And he was reluctant to make any move, as though, by making a move he tacitly acknowledged that his daughter's name needed protection. Besides, it was Saturday afternoon; law offices would be closed. At a loss, with a demoralizing sense of helplessness, he sat speculating about the murder. The conversation fell into a pointless drift, disjointed, half absent, until Jennie came in to say that Mr. Kendall wished to speak with Flora on the telephone.

The message was brief: "They've taken Nelson Barlow into custody. They have some new evidence against him. They're holding him without bail as a material witness at present. It's bound to come out right for you."

She went back to her parents with the shock of that in her mind and a quiet natural selfish relief, too. "Poor Nelly," she added, after giving them the message; and in sudden confidence: "I was afraid of it. He really hated Othman."

Her father and mother could repeat "Poor Nelly" with a perfectly natural selfish relief, because it seemed to withdraw the sword from over Flora's head. The police must have evidence against Nelson and that would divert them from her.

Welbasky, in fact, had sent those four pieces of pale blue paper to the president of the cartridge company. When the president heard that Nelson Barlow, for whom he had little regard, was the man who was in Othman's house at the time of the murder and that he had attempted to get possession of these pieces of paper when Othman lay dead, he explained candidly that they were evidence of forgery committed by Barlow.

Here, then, was a perfectly clear cut, plausible motive for murder. These pieces of paper meant penitentiary for Barlow. That a man in his position might kill in order to get possession of them would look credible to any jury. After a consultation at headquarters, therefore, Welbasky ordered Barlow taken in custody and cut off from all outside communication. The official statement of the newspapers said merely that new evidence had been discovered and Barlow was held for the present as a material witness; but formal arrest of one or more persons on a charge of murder might be expected soon.

Kendall also felt relief. As one might say, the wolves had got their victim. The sensation of Nelson Barlow's detention would relieve the pressure on the dam for a day, especially as tomorrow was Sunday. But he felt in his bones that it was only a temporary relief. Flora Marsden was still in the trap. She'd been so close to it, fairly brushing it with her skirt, that she would be in danger until the puzzle was finally solved.

And when he turned to the solving, Jenks kept bobbing up in his obstinate head. All the servants had been checked up. In a general way Welbasky's judgment about the sufficiency of the evidence in regard to them must be trustworthy. Only three of them were, so to speak, on the stage, or within the scope of the affair. Two of the three—namely: Willitts, the respectable butler, and young Fritz, the footman—fairly disarmed suspicion at a glance. Beside, their whereabouts and movements were accounted for. That left Jenks of the lank jaw and narrow eyes. By a sort of chemical affinity suspicion attached to him as naturally as it slid off from the other two. But Jenks wasn't in the house at all; he was outside coming from the florist's or falling down on the snowy sidewalk. Again, Welbasky had checked that up and his judgment as to the sufficiency of the evidence must be given great weight.

Well, that cleared everybody from the stage except Flora and Nelson Barlow. To Kendall's mind Flora was out of the question. "Truly, Phil, that's all I know about it," she had said. So there was only Nelson Barlow left, and he was already in custody, with sufficient evidence to warrant locking him up. And yet, somehow, Nelson Barlow didn't look the part; it didn't seem in his character.

With a lugubrious little laugh at himself Kendall admitted that Welbasky was justified in taking him for a blockhead who mulishly ignored positive evidence and stuck to the irrational point that one man named Jenks looked the part while another man named Barlow didn't.

Six o'clock and darkness found him opposite Othman's house. As methodically as though he were proceeding upon the most exact reasoning, he began patroling the block. It was rather difficult, especially to a novice, because in this short and eminently respectable residence block between Madison avenue and Fifth there was almost no cover, no shop to loiter in, nothing to get behind, and one couldn't stand still long without attracting undesirable attention. He made the best shift he could—strolling, stopping, moving on, turning back. Shortly before 6 he had fortified himself with food, so as to be on guard promptly at 6, for Welbasky had told him that any of the servants who wished to leave the house on parole after 6 o'clock would be permitted to do so. Yes, he said, Jenks would be searched if he went out; but he said it with so much derision that Kendall was ashamed to ask him to have Jenks shadowed also. He proposed to do the shadowing himself.

TEMPORARY PERMIT ISSUED TO POSTAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, July 28.—A temporary permit to enter the city has been given the Postal Telegraph Company, but the City Commission refused permission for operation of a long-distance telephone line by the corporation, even without a local exchange. Telegraph service is to be inaugurated about August 1 from Los Angeles. Lines east of Maricopa still are under construction. A permanent franchise within the city will be placed on the ballot in the spring election next year.

PAPER MADE POPULAR BY TWAIN DEAD

Littered Storeroom Now Marks Site of Journal in Nevada Town

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VIRGINIA CITY (Nev.) July 28. The old office of the Territorial Enterprise, where Mark Twain won his first literary laurels, is now a neglected storeroom, crowded with broken hand presses, cases of old type and marble-top tables once used for forms. Glaring posters, prints and advertisements litter the walls, while cobwebs and heavy dust are over all.

The Territorial Enterprise was the first newspaper in Nevada and was issued in Virginia City in November, 1860, after previous publications in Genoa and Carson City. It was conducted by Joe Goodman and Dennis McCarthy, and Goodman was so impressed with some stories sent in by Twain that he invited the humorist to become a member of the staff.

With his blankets on his back, Mark Twain walked to Virginia City from Aurora, a journey exceeding 100 miles through the sterile desert, and became a reporter. When he was not tramping the steep streets of Virginia City, writing copy or playing practical jokes he wrote stories for the paper and soon became one of the leading writers in the West. He complained in these early days his activities brought him little money and it was not until many years later that he scored his first profitable literary success.

The Territorial Enterprise for twenty years was one of the leading Republican newspapers in the West and many of its writers later on won distinction in the literary world. It ceased to exist in 1916, when it was absorbed by the Virginia City Chronicle.

Sugar Famine Is Threatening Soviet Russia

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

MOSCOW, July 28.—Soviet Russia is confronted with another famine, in the form of acute sugar shortage, due to the failure of the beet-root crop in Ukraine. While it is not of the same proportions as the threatened wheat famine, seven of the largest factories in the Kiev and Kursk districts have had to suspend work.

The government has arranged to receive large quantities of refined sugar from abroad, including the United States, and, to safeguard the public interest the government will regulate the supply and price of the sugar.

The re-establishment of sugar refineries such as existed before the war in contemplation by the government for some time, has been abandoned until next year.

WELLS FARGO AGENT IN PHOENIX IS DEAD

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, July 28.—James M. Williams, who came from El Paso to be manager of the Wells Fargo express office here, died of spinal meningitis, due to mastoid infection. For a number of years he was Wells Fargo route agent along the Mexican West Coast line of the Southern Pacific, transferred to El Paso in 1911 when the railroad was wrecked by revolutionists. A widow and son survive, and a brother and sister in Santa Cruz, Cal., and two brothers in Milwaukee, Wis.

We've Done This—
Introduced a new Standard in Roofing to the Home Owners of the Pacific Coast—

CERTAIN words carry with them a definite significance of high quality — of sturdy dependability. This is good will — an asset that can only be acquired by merit — by proved value.

Since 1858 The Barrett Company has been building good will for the name Barrett — making roofings of distinctive worth. The acknowledged leadership of The Barrett Company today rests squarely upon the reputation earned by Barrett Roofings and Roofing Materials during these 66 years.

Today, for the first time, Barrett Roofings can be secured on the Pacific Coast without delay — ordered with definite certainty of prompt delivery.

Lumber, hardware, or building supply merchants will gladly show you Barrett Roofings. If your dealer has none in stock, write to us. We will send you descriptive booklets and tell you where to see these quality roofings.

Maintenance Pays!

Barrett Liquid Elastigum
A fibre roof-coating for making old worn-out roofing of any kind lastingly watertight. Its heavy waterproof body and asbestos fibres provide a thick, durable coat. Ready for use. Easy to apply. Low in cost.

Barrett Plastic Elastigum
The "waterproof cement of a hundred uses" stops roof-leaks, repairs flashings, gutters, cisterns, etc. Acid-resisting, waterproof, and sticks tenaciously. Ready for use, low in price.

Barrett Everjet Paint
Seal all metal surfaces against rust with an elastic film of Everjet Paint. Highly resistant to acids and alkalies, it never cracks, rubs, peels, or scales. Easy to apply, low in cost.

Hydronon
Keep your cellar dry and healthful! Hydronon—a permanent damp-proofing paint—prevents moisture on interiors of brick, stone or concrete cellar walls. Easy to apply. Low in cost.

There's a Barrett Roofing for every type of building, dwelling, garage, office structure or industrial plant. Be sure the roofing you buy bears the Barrett label.

POLICE SHOT IN RUM GANG FRAY

Three Wounded in Fight at Wharf in Monterey

Liquor Runner Also Hit in Battle at Daybreak

Chief and Deputy 'Captured' by Muddled Posse

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

MONTEREY, July 28.—Three members of a police posse running down a party of rum-runners were shot severely, and a fourth man, one of the hunted party, also was a possible bullet victim, in a pistol battle before dawn today on the wharf of the Monterey Boat Works in New Monterey. One of those shot is Capt. Frederick R. Lafferty, U.S.A., Presidio of Monterey. He suffered two severe wounds.

The other known wounded are Police Officers Tom Moore and Tom Jones.

One of the rum smugglers was hit, and is believed to have been badly wounded. He was dragged into a boat and escaped with a number of companions.

More than 100 shots were exchanged, the police said. At the height of the battle, Chief of Police M. A. Cording and a deputy from Monterey were surrounded and forced to give up their rifles by what they thought to be a band of the bootleggers. It was learned a few minutes later that their captors were a posse from the Pacific Grove Police Department. Explanations were made and Chief Cording and his deputy returned to the attack.

Eliado Vietes and Frank Valdez, truck drivers, were arrested at the beginning of the fight on suspicion that they were on hand to transport the smuggled whisky away. Fifteen cases were found on one of the trucks.

Making Money Less Timid

CONFIDENCE is the basis of active investment. When people have confidence in a good bank and deposit their money in it, that opens up a source from which good loans may be made, and necessary development continued.

The confidence which the thrifty people of Los Angeles have in the careful judgment of the Security Bank has been a potent factor in the building up of this community.

This Bank, at this time is well supplied with funds for high-class loans.

MISSIONS IN PERSIA FACE NEW DANGER

American Workers Said to be Menaced Because of Imbrie Case Feeling

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

[Copyright, 1924, by New York Tribune.]

PARIS, July 28.—Grave fears for the safety of American missionaries in Persia following anti-American riots in Persia, which have resulted indirectly since the murder of American Vice-Consul Imbrie, were expressed here today by heads of American missionary boards in Europe. The Presbyterian missionary board has a considerable number of workers operating two hospitals in Persia, one at Teheran and the other at Urimea, North Persia.

Prior to the death of Vice-Consul Imbrie, missionaries believed that the display of the American flag was ample protection, but it is openly stated by heads of missionary boards here that the American colors are no longer a guarantee of safety for foreigners, particularly in Northern Persia. Due to anti-Christian feeling 40,000 Nestorian Christians were forced to leave Northern Persia some time ago. They migrated to Mosul and founded a colony.

American Christians, however, remained and it is for their safety that fears are expressed.

Scandal Likely in Egypt Over Suez Contract

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CAIRO, July 28.—The prospects of a first-class scandal have been opened by the publication of a ministerial order referring three senior foreign officials and the Minister of Communications to trial by the Council of Discipline on charges of conniving to defraud the government of sums aggregating $1,075,000. The affair rises out of a contract concluded in 1918 between the Egyptian government and the Bos dredging firm of Dordrecht, Holland, for the enlargement of the Suez harbor. The Bos company claimed and received the amount mentioned in addition to the original contract price, because of an alleged discovery of hard rock, where only sand had been anticipated.

The Egyptian government now asserts that the rock never existed and that the officials deliberately neglected to verify the Bos company's claims.

SUSPECT BELIEVED TO BE ESCAPED CONVICT

TUCSON, July 28.—"Ted Lewis," charged with burglary, is believed to have been identified as Colvin Crider, who escaped March 30 last from a convict road gang near the California penitentiary at San Quentin. He had been convicted on two charges of highway robbery at San Diego, with sentence of twelve years on each charge.

MURDER SUSPECTS PLEAD NOT GUILTY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

RED BLUFF, July 28.—Earle Williams and Fred Johnson, asserted to have murdered Sam Hermanson and to have robbed the Tehama county bank the 10th inst., pleaded not guilty to the charge of murder in Superior Court here today. The trial has been set for August 25 and will be conducted before Judge Herzinger of Shasta county.

AMERICAN PRODUCTS FOR CHINA

Artful Selling Ideas Used in Tickling the Palate of the Chinese

That the purchasing power of the Chinese masses is higher than generally supposed seems to have been effectively demonstrated in the successful and profitable introduction into China of a number of foodstuffs, as well as other articles of commerce, purely American, says Commercial Attache Arnold of Peking in a report to the Department of Commerce.

Several decades ago the idea was conceived of educating the Chinese to the use of tobacco in the form of cigarettes. Through enterprising methods of advertising and salesmanship, the cigarette consumption in China has increased to between 40,000,000,000 and 50,000,000,000.

A California firm manufacturing a certain dried fruit has demonstrated the fact that it is possible to market its products to a very large degree in China. In fact, it is understood that a large percentage of the production of this manufacturing firm is now marketed in China, the aggregate sales being nearly $1,000,000 gold a year. This dried fruit in penny packages is finding its way into the shops of the interior cities throughout the country, notwithstanding the fact that it is not a necessity.

An American firm manufacturing a cereal product is also meeting with considerable success in marketing its product among the Chinese. It has prepared cook books in Chinese and also much other Chinese illustrated material helpful to the introduction of their product in such a way as to meet the peculiar demands and ideas of the Chinese people. Probably no people on the face of the earth have so varied a dietary as have the Chinese, and probably no other people have such an extensive menu as has China. This dietary is the development of the work of thousands of years and the Chinese cook is more of an artist than an artisan. The Chinese people are, therefore, distinctly receptive to new ideas in connection with food products. It must be borne in mind, however, that these products must be served in such a way as to be pleasing to the palate of the Chinese. For instance, a breakfast food would make no headway in China if it had to be served with milk and sugar the way it is consumed in the United States. The success of its introduction in China depends upon adjusting it to meet the taste of the Chinese, and this is being successfully done.

Hence it is necessary if one is to make any headway in the introduction of American food products in China, to work with full knowledge of the peculiar conditions obtaining in that country. This means that the field must be investigated at first hand by competent persons and the distribution must be in the hands of those who are peculiarly fitted for work of this character and a modern advertising and salesmanship campaign adapted to Chinese conditions is necessary.

BONDS HAVE APPEAL FOR INVESTORS

Chamber of Commerce Head Tells Why They Are First Class Security

Subscribers to the $2,000,000 first mortgage 6 per cent bond issue with which the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce will complete its new home on Twelfth street, between Broadway and Hill street, will have an opportunity to help promote the general welfare and prosperity of Los Angeles, declares William Lacy, president of the chamber.

"The chamber, in issuing these bonds," declares President Lacy, "is seeking no donation, but rather is offering safe and conservative investment to the public.

"The bonds are exempt from personal-property taxes in California and they are certified as legal investment for savings banks. The combined value of land and building, when the latter is completed, is double the amount of bonds authorized to be issued.

"The money to be raised by this issue is to be used in financing construction of the eight-story, Class A building now nearing completion and which will be the home of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce—the biggest organization of its kind in the nation.

"As security the bonds have a first closed mortgage on the property located at Twelfth, Broadway and Hill street, having a frontage of 250 feet on the former and 202 feet each on the two latter thoroughfares, and also on the building now being erected there at a cost of $2,500,000. The value of the real property alone is conservatively appraised at $1,500,000, giving a combined valuation on the property and building at not less than $4,000,000, or twice the total bond issue.

"Based on construction estimates the gross annual income derived from the rental of stores, offices and other sources will be approximately $560,000, which, after the deduction of $174,000 for operation, taxes and contingencies, shows net annual earnings of $386,000 available for interest charges on this issue. Net earnings will thus be in excess of three times the maximum interest requirements on this issue and about two and one-half times interest and sinking-fund requirements. More than 50 per cent of the total space in the building has already been leased, and it can confidently be anticipated that the entire building will be occupied immediately upon its completion.

"The bonds may be subscribed for either at the offices of Secretary Frank Wiggins of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce or at practically any local bank."

From coast to coast there seems to be a movement against billboards. Some States have enacted laws against them. In Colorado progress has been made not only in abolishing the billboard, but ending the practice of decorating rocks and cliffs with painted announcements.

LOVE AND HATE FOR BIGAMIST

Wife Finds Husband With Second Mate

Says She is Through With Him Forever

Girl Victim Will Wait for Him Until His Release

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DETROIT, July 28.—When Julius Rosenman, self-styled victim of the "lure of feminine pulchritude," is taken to the Michigan State Prison at Jackson to begin serving a term of two and a half to five years for bigamy, imposed on him in Recorder's Court by Judge John Faust, he will leave behind him two young women of widely divergent outlooks on life.

One of these is Sally Sherkovitz Rosenman, his first wife, whom he married in New York in June, 1923. The other is the 18-year-old Toledo girl he married last May under the name of Lyons. Faith Greene is her name.

The first wife says she is completely disillusioned about love. Faith, however, refuses to believe she will not yet be happy with her husband and says she will be waiting for him when he is released at the end of his term.

Rosenman and Faith were arrested recently at the Morris Hotel, where his first wife found them after several months' search.

DESERTED BY HUSBAND

"Julius disappeared soon after we were married," the first Mrs. Rosenman said. "I came to Detroit, and, by chance, learned he had married again and was living with his second 'wife.' What else was there for me to do but have them arrested if I were to retain my self-respect?"

The first wife said that, while she still loved Rosenman, she was through with him forever.

"One's love cannot be divided with another and remain the idealistic thing it is supposed to be," she said.

Faith sees a silver lining to the cloud that overhangs her matrimonial venture.

"Do I love him?" she repeated. "Of course, I do, or I would not have married him. His sentence to prison will only defer our happiness. Wait and see—everything will be straightened out all right and then Julius and I will begin all over again."

Rosenman smiled in the County Jail when told Faith still professed her love for him and had said she would wait for him until he was freed.

"She's the most wonderful girl in the world," he said. "Words cannot do her justice. You can understand what a little brick she is when, after all the trouble I have caused her, she says she will be loyal to me."

Rosenman pleaded guilty last week. In passing sentence, Judge Faust recommended the minimum term.

COTTON SPINDLES IN USE SHOW DECREASE

FIGURES FOR JUNE ARE LESS THAN FOR ANY OTHER MONTH OF YEAR

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, July 28.—The Department of Commerce announces that, according to preliminary figures, 37,803,946 cotton-spinning spindles were in place in the United States on June 30 last, of which 29,216,486 were operated at some time during the month, compared with 30,493,165 for may, 31,871,665 for April, 32,392,171 for March, 32,683,786 for February, 33,329,806 for January and 34,855,520 for June, 1923.

The aggregate number of active spindle hours reported for the month was 5,336,401,848. During June the normal time of operation was 25 days, compared with 26¼ days for May, 23 2-3 for April, 26 for March, 24 2-3 for February, 26¼ for January and 26 for June, 1923. Based on an activity of 8.74 hours a day, the average number of spindles operated during June was 24,425,592, or at 64.6 per cent capacity on a single-shift basis. This number compared with an average of 25,506,973 for May, 30,177,468 for April, 31,125,530 for March, 33,379,600 for February, 36,476,177 for January, 40,165,861 for May and 36,926,860 for June, 1923. The average number of active spindle hours per spindle in place for the month was 141.

SIX HAVE NARROW ESCAPE FROM FIRE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

MARYSVILLE, July 28.—Mrs. Gerald F. Roach and daughter, Mary Jane, 9 years of age, of Tulare and S. J. Rogers and wife and son Billy of Porterville, visitors at the country home of Ed Strain in District 10, narrowly escaped with their lives early today when the Strain home, ten miles north of this city, was destroyed by fire. Strain was first to be awakened. He was forced to make his escape from a high window overlooking a one-story addition by aid of a ladder, which he procured just as Mrs. Roach was about to drop her child to the ground. Strain carried all his visitors to safety.

NEW WAR VETERANS ASSOCIATION FORMED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, July 28.—To uphold and maintain the Constitution of the United States and the State of California and to further the welfare of injured and disabled war veterans of the country are among the aims of the Associated War Veterans, which was incorporated with the filing of articles today in the office of Secretary of State Jordan. About a dozen residents of San Francisco, which will be the headquarters of the association, including Phil Katz and State Assemblyman Walter J. Schmidt, are named as incorporators and directors.

Perdió su Empleo por Obedecer a la Disciplina Militar

NUEVA YORK, Julio 28. — Por haber obedecido ordenes del Ministerio de la Guerra en vez de las instrucciones de su patrono, el Teniente Francis A. Brown, de 54 años de edad, se encuentra el día de hoy sin su empleo, a la terminación de sus días de campamento en el campo de instrucción militar de Plattsburg.

El Teniente Brown es un oficial de infantería de reserva agregado al 305 Batallon, de la 77a. División. Estaba empleado como investigador de reclamaciones por la Compañía de Siniestros de los Estados Unidos, y fue despedido porque pidió una licencia para ir a Plattsburg, después de que su superior, John Hunt, le había advertido que eso significaba su cese.

El referido militar se alistó hace veinte años en el 3 de Infantería de Nueva York, y desde la guerra mundial ha estado en el cuerpo de reserva. Durante la guerra, dos de sus hijos estuvieron en la infantería de marina, y su esposa estuvo en el servicio de hospitales de la Cruz Roja. En la página 2 de la Primera Parte de este periódico puede vérsele con un tercer hijo, Edward, que fue a Plaitsburg con los jóvenes del M.T.C.

Se Cierran las Puertas de un Cementerio por Orden Judicial BERLIN, Julio 28. — Berlín se está riendo de buena gana de una historia de cementerio. Alguno descubrió ayer que las puertas del Camposanto de Mariondorff, estaban cerradas y que nadie podía entrar en la necrópolis ni salir de ella. Además, había un interdicto judicial anunciado en la verja de entrada, que prohibía la entrada o salida de la gente.

¿Tendrá el tribunal temor de que se salgan los muertos?, preguntaba el público.

La disposición tuvo por origen que ya el cementerio se había llenado, y que la Iglesia hubo de comprar un solar vecino, donde hace poco fueron enterradas veinte personas. La iglesia tiene dificultades económicas y no puede pagar la renta; de allí que se ordenara la clausura.

Méjico Abre Puertos Libres

SANTA LUCRECIA, ISTMO DE TEHUANTEPEC (Méjico) Julio 28. Al crear la comisión de los puertos libres y abrir los de Puerto Méjico y Salina Cruz al comercio libre mundial, el Gobierno Mejicano se ha apartado de un modo radical de la rutina, y el resultado de la medida va a ser observado con interés, según declaran los navieros y hombres de negocios.

La comisión de puertos libres ha recibido amplios poderes de administración. Su director o gerente es Modesto Rolland. No sólo están los dos puertos libres bajo la jurisdicción de la comisión de puertos libres, sino que ese mismo cuerpo va a encargarse de la administración del Ferrocarril Nacional de Tehuantepec. Esta vía herrada atraviesa las 180 millas que tiene de ancho el istmo de Tehuantepec, y es Salina Cruz su terminal en el Pacífico. Puerto Méjico es la del Atlántico.

La referida vía férrea pertenece al gobierno mejicano, y por muchos años la manejó la compañía contratista británica, a cuya cabeza está Lord Cowdray. Tiene el propósito la comisión de puertos libres de desarrollar el tráfico del ferrocarril y los dos puertos libres al mayor grado posible, haciendo competencia al tráfico del Canal de Panamá. La zona libre de cada uno de los citados puertos es de 200 acres aproximadamente. Las industrias que se establezcan dentro de los límites de estas zonas no estarán sujetas a impuestos, y podrán reembarcarse toda clase de efectos desde los dos puertos, sin derechos aduanales ni otras formalidades administrativas, según se asegura.

Se ha adoptado un avanzado programa de tráfico de cabotaje del gobierno con motivo del esfuerzo que se va a hacer para lograr un renacimiento del ferrocarril y los puertos. La Comisión de los puertos libres piensa establecer líneas de vapores en las costas del Atlántico y del Pacífico. Ya ha arreglado poner un servicio regular con dos vapores, el Bolívar y el Washington, entre Salina Cruz y Vancouver, Colombia Británica. Tres vapores: el Méjico, el Jalisco y el Moctezuma, harán viajes entre Puerto Méjico y Nueva York, vía Veracruz y la Habana.

Batalla entre Cuadrillas Rivales de Bandidos

La policía que les sigue la pista a los bandidos que tuvieron el sábado un combate a balazos en la esquina de la avenida Ocean View y la calle Park View, declaró ayer que tiene informes de que el sensacional encuentro no ha sido la primera acción de guerra entre bandas rivales de bandoleros, cada una de las cuales lucha por el privilegio exclusivo de hacer presa de los "bootleggers", atracadores y jugadores.

Dicen asimismo los policías que han sabido que una y otra cuadrilla comenzaron hace poco a operar aquí, y que una de ellas viene de San Francisco, en tanto que la otra procede de Cleveland. Las dos están bien organizadas, con un jefe a la cabeza y toda una "flota" de rápidos autos.

DEPORTES

Boxeo

Young Nationalista y Georgie Rivera, dos de los más lucidos boxeadores a cuatro asaltos que se han visto en las arenas de la Costa desde hace algún tiempo, van a boxear en el número principal del programa de esta noche en el Coliseo de Jack Doyle en Vernon. Es un nuevo match, después de la pelea de hace algunas semanas, que originó tantas disputas, y la gerencia del establecimiento de Vernon espera que los chicos atraigan a numeroso público.

Tennis

SEABRIGHT (New Jersey) Julio 28.—El trigésimo primer torneo anual de tennis de invitación del Club de Tennis y Cricket de Seabright, comenzó hoy con una inscripción de cuarenta y siete jugadores de nones masculinos, y veintisiete jugadoras de nones femeninos.

William E. Johnston, el segundo jugador del país, y la señorita Mary E. Browne, ex-campeona nacional, ambos de California, descollaron como los principales competidores por las dos nuevas copas que van a disputarse este año.

Baseball

En el primer turno del partido Chicago contra Nueva York jugado hoy en Chicago, y en el que los yanquis hicieron diez carreras en que pisaron goma, Babe Ruth logró un homerun con dos a bordo. Con este tiene ya treinta y uno en la temporada; pero va cinco atrás de los que llevaba por esta misma fecha en el año de su record famoso de cincuenta y nueve. Muchos peritos creen, sin embargo, que el "Bambino" tiene buenas probabilidades de igualar este año su gran record pasado, pues ha estado realizando últimamente muchos "tiros vivos".

MRS. F. C. PORTER WILL MEET COOLIDGE TODAY

LOS ANGELES REPUBLICAN LEADER IN CAPITAL ON SHORT VISIT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Mrs. Florence Collins Porter of Los Angeles, one of the most active of the delegates from California for the nomination of Calvin Coolidge and the first woman to second his nomination at Cleveland, is in Washington for a few days. Today she conferred with Secretary Wilbur of the Navy Department and he has arranged for a conference with President Coolidge before the Cabinet meeting at the White House tomorrow morning. Mrs. Porter will tell him of Republican conditions in California. Tonight the distinguished California Republican woman leader was a guest of Asst. Atty.-Gen. Willebrandt of Los Angeles at dinner.

Mrs. Porter has been visiting her old friends in Maine since the convention and will not start for California until Friday of this week. As a pioneer in obtaining the ballot for women and long active in Republican politics, Mrs. Porter believes that the State of California will contribute greatly to the election of President Coolidge and expects to see his plurality there several hundred thousand over his nearest competitor.

A Word of Thanks— And An Apology

To the big, good-natured public that thronged the store yesterday and helped us roll up the greatest volume of sales in the history of this establishment, we wish to convey our sincere thanks.

More than this: we wish to offer our regrets for the failures in service which occurred in spite of what we thought were ample preparations. Many departments were simply swamped under the deluge of selling---and in no case did the service come up to our standards. For all this, we are sincerely sorry.

It is possible that, in some departments, deliverie will be delayed---again as a result of a volume of business far exceeding our expectations. We ask your indulgence.

And to those who could not be waited upon yesterday, or who hesitated to brave the crowds on elevators and escalators, we offer an invitation to come today, when service will be better and there will still be a vast assortment of Forty-Third Birthday Sale offerings.

Again celebrating our Thirtieth Anniversary with unusual value-giving

NOW extraordinary value-giving
Clothing, Furnishings, Hats, etc.

Who said "people are tired of sales"? They certainly are strong for this one. We've never known a time when men didn't respond to unusual values; here, at least. Nobody is ever going to get tired of getting more for his money than usual. That's our idea. Thousands seem to agree with us. Now is the psychological time for us to sell goods in a big way—and for you to BUY goods in a big way. COME, today!

ALHAMBRA ROW NOW AT CLIMAX

Injunction Suit Filed Against Recall Election

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ALHAMBRA, July 28.—Developments in the local political situation have reached a climax with the resignation of City Commissioner William P. Battelle and the filing of an injunction suit against the commissioners and City Clerk to prevent the calling of a special recall election.

Battelle has been a member of the City Commission since July 6, 1924, representing the Third District. Recall petitions against Battelle and Commissioner Charles C. Garrison were filed with the commission last week. The commission will appoint a successor to Battelle, but no action has as yet been taken.

The injunction suit was brought by twelve prominent Alhambra citizens and the case will be heard in the Superior Court on August 1. The plaintiffs are represented by Attorneys Fred B. Peterson and Lois S. Kershner of Los Angeles. City Attorney Thomas C. Gould will appear for the city of Alhambra.

In the complaint to prevent the recall election it is contended that the recall petitions were not in proper form and that sufficient reasons for the recall of Battelle and Garrison were not given.

If the injunction is granted the present recall movement will come to an end and it is unlikely that the Committee of Sixty, the recall organization, will take any further steps, as it was announced today by A. M. King, a prominent member of the committee, that nothing would be done by that body to fight the suit.

Management of San Diego Navy Base Is Praised

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

SAN DIEGO, July 28.— Praise for the efficient manner in which the affairs of the Eleventh Naval District have been administered was voiced today by Rear Admiral Luther E. Gregory, chief of the Bureau of Yards and Docks, Navy Department, upon the completion of his four days of inspection of the numerous naval establishments here.

"Rear Admiral Ashley Robertson has one of the most efficient organization under his command of any naval district in the country," Admiral Gregory said. "To him and to the splendid corps of officers under his command must be attributed the really remarkable supervision of the naval establishments which I inspected."

Admiral Gregory declined to say what appropriations might be expected for further development of the work of the Eleventh District. It is understood, however, that the inspecting officer and his advisers are impressed with the urgent need of a navy pier at the foot of Broadway. Expansion of the submarine and destroyer bases also is expected to receive much attention in Admiral Gregory's report.

The admiral left this afternoon for San Francisco where he will inspect the Mare Island Navy Yard and other naval units in the bay region, and then will go to Astoria and the Puget Sound Navy Yard.

ATTORNEYS BATTLE IN PFAU SLANDER ACTION

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

SANTA ANA, July 28.—Attorneys for Law Wallace, city treasurer of Newport Beach, former secretary of the Orange County Harbor Commission, president of the First National Bank of Newport Beach and Vice-president of the Orange County Harbor Chamber of Commerce, having rested their case in their client's $50,000 slander suit against Lee Pfau of Balboa, counsel for the defendant this afternoon began a heated cross-examination of Wallace, in the face of repeated objections to argumentative questions generally sustained by Judge R. Y. Williams of the Superior Court, before whom the case is being tried.

ADVERTISING PLANNED AT MANHATTAN BEACH

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

MANHATTAN BEACH, July 28. As the beginning of a campaign to raise funds for advertising Manhattan Beach the Chamber of Commerce will give an entertainment and dance in the Lion Tamers' pavilion on Saturday evening, August 16. An interesting program and good music have been arranged for. It is the plan of the chamber to carry on an extensive advertising program through intensive newspaper advertising it was announced today.

MEXICAN HELD ON BURGLARY CHARGE

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

OWENSMOUTH, July 28.—Jose Manteca, Mexican laborer, is being held in Los Angeles to await a charge of burglary following his apprehension Sunday after an alleged foraging expedition in which he is said to have visited the tent of a fellow-workman, donned a suit of clothes belonging to S. Ortiz and then started out to have a good time on the latter's money. It is reported that Mexican women in the camp saw Manteca leave the tent with the loot in his hands and proceed to his own quarters where it later was recovered.

GLENDALE LEGION TO HAVE HOME

Large Stadium is to be Built at Corner of Los Feliz and Central

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

GLENDALE, July 28.—A building permit for $120,000 was issued today to the Glendale Amusement Company for the erection of the American Legion Stadium at the northwest corner of Central avenue and Los Feliz Boulevard. The completed structure will cost $300,000.

The company recently purchased the site for the proposed coliseum for $150,000. The building will have a seating capacity of 5000, said Benjamin B. Unger, manager of the company. Ground will be broken inside of three weeks, Unger said today, and the structure will be the largest of its kind in the State. It will be so arranged that the entire building can be emptied of its audience in three minutes.

Besides being headquarters for Legion activities, the building will be used for conventions and similar gatherings. Ten stores will be built along the Los Feliz front and if these prove profitable additional stores will be erected along the Central-avenue frontage.

The Legion plans to stage first-class boxing shows and other attractions. The building will embody many novel features, including a suspended orchestra platform in front of the balcony.

Unable to Swim But Saves Sweetheart from Drowning After She Taunts Him

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

SANTA ANA, July 28.—Faced with certain death, because he never before could swim, Edward P. Dillinger of Redlands, plunged into the ocean at Newport Beach yesterday and brought safely to shore the unconscious form of his fiancee, Miss Muriel Wishart, 19 years of age, of Redlands. Dillinger had to swim several hundred feet to effect the rescue. The young woman was resuscitated. Her hero for life, though exhausted, escorted her home.

Previous to going into the water, Miss Wishart was said by other bathers to have taunted her sweetheart for his timidity in preferring to remain on the sand. Daring him to follow her, she dashed out into the surf.

A few minutes later those on the beach saw a young woman waving and screaming in distress. Simultaneously a youthful form was disrobing and hastening to the water's edge.

Dillinger was said to have swum to her side and to have effected the rescue of the girl he is to marry next month very much as a veteran of the sea.

MECCA FOR SHOPPERS

New Department Store Addition Open to Public

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, July 28.—Throngs of women shoppers crowded the magnificent new six-story addition to Buffums' department store today on the occasion of the formal opening of the building to the public. The structure, located just south of the original three-story building where the Buffums began a general store business several years ago, is declared to be the most modern and completely equipped department store building in Southern California.

The two units, the old building and the new, form a mammoth emporium evolved from the rural general store of their other days and now constitute a place where nearly every human requirement can be met. Building from the nucleus of the old establishment the firm has constructed additions which now with the original structure fill the larger part of the quarter-block on the southeast corner of Broadway and Pine avenue.

The new store has been built entirely with an eye to the future needs of Long Beach rather than because of the present needs for more room. In years to come, the firm visualizes two additional stories on the new six-story addition. An eight-story building covering the fifty feet south of the new structure, and an eight-story unit on the seventy-five feet frontage on Pine avenue now covered by the original three-story building.

The basement of the new Buffum's store was planned as a model of its kind in general merchandising world. One of its features is the system of huge ventilator fans which pump 23,650 cubic feet of pure washed air into basement per minute. Two hundred and forty horsepower is being used to operate the elevators, ventilating fans, fire pumps, air washers, conveyors, compressors and machines throughout the establishment.

Many new merchandising and service features have been adopted by the firm since the opening of the new addition. These include a barber shop for women and children, a beauty shop, fur storage vaults, an "Ask Mr. Foster" travel service bureau, postoffice substation and many other features of the stores found in metropolitan centers.

ROAD SIGNS POSTED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

REDLANDS, July 28.—The sign posting crew of the Auto Club has done some great work in Redlands the past week. Danger signs have been placed at Olive and Cajon, Highland and Alvarado, direction signs on Beacon and Brookside and on Colton avenue and San Bernardino avenue. New signs for Cajon and Cypress directing travel over the new Beaumont road will also be placed in a short time.

KINSHIP TO OLD HERMIT IS CLAIMED

Philadelphian Writes He is Relative to Late "Old Jim" Michael

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PORTERVILLE, July 28.—George Michael of Philadelphia, declares he is an heir of the late James "Old Jim" Michael, who was found dead in a field near his home west of here early in the summer, according to a letter received by J. M. Hadley of Visalia, public administrator. The Pennsylvania man claims to be a nephew of "Old Jim," who was a hermit of considerable means and who is reported to have left a large sum of money as well as stocks and bonds, real estate, etc. No trace of any heir outside of a Miss Lena Michael was thought to have been living.

"Old Jim" was found by neighbors one Sunday morning who went in to take him his breakfast. Cause of his death was not ascertained. His body was lying beside a roadway leading to his home. Foul play was first suspected in view of the fact that he was in his underclothing and an old shotgun was in his hand. Investigation by officials did not reveal sufficient evidence to hold anybody responsible for his death.

He was said to be 103 years of age and came from the Isle of Man in his youth.

VALLEY GUARDS GAME

Drive to Protect Wild Animals And Fowls is Indorsed

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

VAN NUYS, July 28.—The campaign instituted here last week for the protection of wild game in the lands adjacent to the new Mulholland Drive is receiving enthusiastic indorsement all over the Valley, and strict penalties will be meted out on all pothunters who slaughter deer or bird life in the vicinity.

The road is within the confines of Los Angeles city, where the ordinance against the discharging of firearms and the State game laws should be a barrier against killing of game. It is reported that during the last week crews of workmen on the road encountered a yearling doe that had been shot and so badly wounded by some wanton hunter that recovery was impossible.

Motorists who traverse the route say it is not an infrequent sight to see antlered bucks and does stand fearlessly at the side of the road while their cars pass and quail and other fowls are abundant.

UTILITIES COMPANIES VICTIMS OF ROBBERS

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

HERMOSA BEACH, July 28.—The offices of both the Southern California Edison Company and the Southern Counties Gas Company were burglarized last night. The gas company's office was entered by sawing a hole nearly three feet square in the floor of a closet back of the office. Nothing of value was taken. A loss of $150 in cash was reported by the Edison Company, the miscreants making away with a small safe.

PASADENA CHIEF BACK

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, July 28.—Charles H. Kelley, chief of police of Pasadena, returned today from Montreal, where for the past two weeks he has been attending a chief of police convention. Many changes will be made in the local department, the chief announced, to make it more efficient and to conform with plans as laid out at the convention.

BELL, July 28.—The Bell Water Company has installed gasoline power and now announces that there will be a plentiful supply of water for the consumers, according to the management of the company. New fire hydrants are being installed by the company.

REVEAL HUGE CHURCH GIFT

Donation of $1,000,000 Announced as Disciples of Christ Open Long Beach Meeting

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONG BEACH, July 28.—The Thirty-sixth Annual Convention of the Disciples of Christ, Churches of Southern California, opened here today in the auditorium of the First Christian Church, Fifth street and Locust avenue with scores of delegates in attendance.

A gift of $1,000,000 has been made to the women's missionary society of the Christian Church during the past year, it was revealed at this morning's general session by Miss Daisy Jane Trout of St. Louis, national secretary of the United Christian Missionary Society. The money will be used for the erection of fifty new buildings throughout the United States, Miss Trout announced.

The principal speaker at the afternoon session today was James Small of Los Angeles, who spoke on "The World's Unacknowledged Debt to Christ." The feature of the night meeting was the golden jubilee pageant in celebration of fifty years of missionary work by the women of the denomination.

The regular schedule of the convention until its close Sunday will include the church-wide training school, religious and missionary education and the regular business sessions in the morning, afternoon and evening.

Prominent among the leaders in the church convention are Charles C. Chapman of Los Angeles, president for the eighteen years of the Southern California Christian Convention; S. J. Chapman of Los Angeles, member of the state board U.C.M.C.; Dr. F. W. Burnham of St. Louis, president of U.C.M.C., and Rev. George P. Taubman, pastor of the First Christian Church of Long Beach.

HOLLYWOOD MAY GET PRESBYTERIAN SYNOD

MODERATOR WILL SELECT COMMITTEE ON 1925 MEETING PLACE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

GLENDALE, July 28.—The 1925 meeting of the California Synod of the Presbyterian Church may be conducted in Hollywood, if efforts now being made to take it there are successful. The First Presbyterian Church of Hollywood is suggested as the place for next year's meetings.

Rev. G. A. Briegleb, Moderator of the California Synod, will name the committee to submit recommendations to the conference before close of the synod Thursday. The filed council report, read by Vice-Chairman Jed W. Burns, outlined the program and organization plans for the coming year. A committee of fifty ministers and elders will be named by the Moderator to assist in organization work.

VAN NUYS SECRETARY WINS CHAMBER PRIZE

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

VAN NUYS, July 28. — George W. Bunton, secretary of Van Nuys Chamber of Commerce returned from Palo Alto today where he has been in attendance at the fourth annual convention of commercial organization executives, bringing with him the silver trophy presented by the Oakland chamber to the State's leading orator on a topic of community interest. Commercial secretaries from all sections of the State entered the contest and in the finals fifteen men delivered three-minute addresses from which the judges' decision was rendered. In the annual baseball game for the United States Chamber of Commerce trophy the Southern California secretaries nine won from the northerners by a 9-7 score.

Redlands Man Held on Bad Check Charge

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

REDLANDS, July 28.—W. H. Du Bois, former owner of a cafe in Redlands, arrested in Imperial Valley about ten days ago on a bad check charge, is being held in jail as he has failed to furnish bail in the sum of $500 for his appearance in court.

Du Bois is facing a charge of giving a bad check to the Costello Furniture Company here. J. Costello, in filing the complaint, stated that Du Bois gave him a check for $75 and asked that he hold it from June 28 to July 1. He did so and there were no funds in the bank. The day the check was given Du Bois had $145 in the bank, it is said, but drew it out.

Du Bois says that he expected receipts from his restaurant for the last three days of the month to more than cover the checks he gave before leaving the city.

INGLEWOOD ZONING IS HELD IN ABEYANCE

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

INGLEWOOD, July 28.—Inglewood's proposed zoning ordinance will not be adopted, but instead will be held in abeyance pending the handing down of a decision by the higher courts as to the legality of such measures. Following the final hearing on the ordinance today before the City Trustees this action was taken by them on the recommendation of G. Gordon Whitnall, Los Angeles city planning expert, and advisor of the Inglewood City Planning Commission in the framing of the proposed local ordinance. Comparatively few changes were made as the result of the final hearing, one of these being the placing of a few lots on Grevillea and Pimiento streets in the business zone.

REPLENISH SAND OF VENICE CITY BEACH

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

VENICE, July 28. — Work of replenishing the municipal sands between Ozone and Rose avenues will be started tomorrow, it was announced this morning by Dana Burk, former Mayor of Venice, who is sponsoring the project. The beach also will be carefully cleaned and raked and all debris removed. The work of replenishing is being done in the one block as a test of the cost and the result of the work. Should it prove practical, the beach will be replenished wherever needed. The expenditure will be met from sums created by a park and music fund set aside by the Board of Trustees each year.

OFFICER GIVEN DEATH LETTERS

Capt. Lowe of Long Beach is Told to Leave

Three Notes Sent to Him Through Mail

Believes Authorship Lies in Bootleg Ring

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, July 28.—Capt. W. S. Lowe, former revenue officer, Long Beach police officer, and one-time body guard for the late President Roosevelt, has been the recipient of three crudely written letters threatening his life, it was revealed today by local police following conferences between Capt. Lowe and Capt. J. B. Worley, head of the local police detective bureau.

All the letters have been received by Capt. Lowe within the past two weeks. One of them has been turned over to the State authorities but the second and third of the so-called death notes were given to local police today.

"Unless you leave California before July 20th you will be shot. Take warning and keep your mouth shut." The second note read. "You have chosen to remain. Take your medicine," was the terse language of the third note.

All the messages were crudely printed in lead pencil on cheap wrapping paper and sent to Capt. Lowe through the United States mail. Lowe expressed the belief today that the letters were written by members of a Long Beach bootleggers' ring. He was active for several months while a member of the local police department in rounding up violators of the Volstead law.

YOUTH HELD UNDER BOND FOR FRAUD

Admits Obtaining Thousands of Dollars from County by Illegal Means

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

FRESNO, July 28.—Tony Calzazza, 18-year-old court reporter and transcriber, who confessed to the District Attorney that he had secured thousands of dollars of county money by filing fraudulent claims against the County Treasurer, was indicted by the Fresno county grand jury here this afternoon charged with making false claims against the treasury. Judge C. E. Beaumont set bond at $10,000.

Calzazza refused to testify when summoned as a witness today. The auditing firm which has checked the county records, reported today that the shortage in county funds was $8511, with justice courts outside Fresno city unchecked.

MOTHER BELIEVES SON VICTIM OF SEA

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

VENICE, July 28.—Reading accounts of the drowning of an unidentified youth from Redondo, when he fell from the Venice fishing barge, located two miles off the pier, yesterday afternoon, in Los Angeles morning papers, Mrs. H. O'Connor, 2334 Redondo Boulevard has notified police here that her son failed to return to his home last night. The youth who lost his life when he suffered a fainting spell and fell from the side of the barge was presumably Leo M. O'Connor, 17 years of age.

Young O'Connor, according to his mother, came to the beach yesterday to fish. Although the name of the youth who fell overboard was not known at the time of the accident, he told other fishermen that he was from Redondo. When the lad was seen to topple overboard in view of several other fishermen a report of the accident quickly spread among those on the boat. Capt. E. P. Smith dived after the youth, but his body never reappeared on the surface.

Owing to the depth of the water at the point where the youth fell in a search for the body was virtually impossible.

ZELZAH WOMAN IS RUN DOWN BY AUTO

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ZELZAH, July 28. — Mrs. Mary Rausky of Zelzah had a narrow escape from death late Sunday when she was walking along a highway near here, accompanied by her husband. She was struck down by an automobile driven by A. L. Woodin of Atascadero. The injured woman was removed to her home, where it was found she was suffering from severe bruises about the shoulders and hips with possible internal injuries.

INGLEWOOD BUSINESS SHOWS BIG GROWTH

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

INGLEWOOD, July 28.—A remarkable growth in the number of Inglewood business licenses was shown in the report made today to the City Trustees by the license bureau. The total for the first half of the year was 592, as compared with only 377 for the first half of 1923. Ninety per cent of the fees have been collected to date, realizing for the city $4283.49. The report shows an increase of 215 over the first half of last year.

JUDGE GETS TRAFFIC TAG

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

SANTA ANA, July 28.—Judge Z. B. West, veteran of Department 1 of the Superior Court here, can't seem to get away from court circles though he has begun a month's vacation, according to word brought here by his friends at Corona, who reported that the jurist was given a ticket at the latter city by a traffic officer who accused him of speeding.

PASADENA BOY TO GO TO NORWAY

Donald M. Palmer Named Member of United States Consular Service

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, July 28. — Donald M. Palmer, Pasadena youth, today received notice from the State Department that he had been appointed a member of the United States Consular Service, and assigned to service in Norway. Palmer, who is a graduate of Pasadena High School and Occidental College, was one of the twelve young men selected from 3000 applicants for the position.

Donald Palmer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Palmer, 165 North Catalina avenue. He graduated from Occidental last June, where he took a four years' course in consular and diplomatic service.

He made a brilliant record while attending Pasadena High School, and was the president of the senior class at the time of his graduation. Besides that he was one of the student commissioners of the school and editor of the high school paper.

During vacation periods young Palmer has worked in a clothing store as clerk. According to information received this afternoon, Palmer was told to be in instant readiness to depart for Norway.

NEW FRUIT PRODUCTS PLANT IS INSPECTED

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

INGLEWOOD, July 28.—The latest addition to Inglewood industries is the Southland Fruit Products Company. The new three-story plant was inspected by Eugene Lewis, president; W. W. Hodgkins, vice-president, and G. W. Ewing, a director of the Maring-Lewis Corporation, owners of the industrial tract along the Santa Fe Harbor Extension line on which the building is located and who financed its construction. It will be turned over to the Fruit Products Company on August 1 and production will begin September 1.

SAN DIEGO VOTERS READY FOR BALLOT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, July 28.—Registration for the August primary will exceed 60,000 in the city and county, it was estimated today by County Clerk J. B. McLees. This is the biggest registration on record here. Republicans predominate by a large majority in the registration. Exceptional interest in the contest between State Senator Ed Sample and Congressman Phil D. Swing for the Congressional nomination from this district is given as one reason for the high registration.

SCOUTS TO ATTEND CAMP

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

INGLEWOOD, July 28. — Boy Scouts who will attend the final session of the Crescent Bay district Boy Scout camp near Saugus left here today to swell the contingent of about 100 lads who will spend ten days there under the direction of Assistant Scout Executive D. COPPER MARKET WEEKLY REVIEW

Deliveries Once More Exceed Production; Price Up

Highest Half-Year Average of Shipments on Record

Market in Stronger Position for Expected Advance

BY CHARLES F. WILLIS,
Editor "Arizona Mining Journal"

The anticipated condition that the stocks of copper would show a material increase when the announcements of June deliveries were made and that this would cause a further weakening of the price and probably a lower quotation, failed to materialize when the statement of June production and deliveries showed that the production fell short of deliveries by about 2,000,000 pounds.

Instead of a weakening of the price there has been a steady advance since the production and consumption figures were given and within a few days the price increased from 12 3-8 cents to better than 13 cents. However, there was not enough optimism in the 2,000,000-pound decrease in the surplus to have caused that condition but it has been caused by several other features; heavier buying from European countries, particularly England, France and Germany; an improvement in orders of the brass and wire manufacturers, and the first evidence of the effect of the general slight curtailing of production as shown in the production figures.

The production figures for June showed that they dropped to 205,000,000 pounds, a 20,000,000-pound reduction, which is something for the buyers to think about and places the production at a figure where the producers will soon be able to tell what they will sell copper for rather than be told what the consumer will give for it.

Shipments of copper of the North and South American producers for June are estimated at 208,000,000 as compared with 222,000,000 pounds in May, 234,000,000 pounds in April, 271,000,000 in March, 234,000,000 is February and 221,000,000 in January. This is a total of 1,390,000,000 for the first six months of 1924, or an average of 232,000,000 pounds monthly. This is the highest six months' average of shipments in the history of the copper industry, and a very substantial improvement over the records of 1923, when the average for the first six months was 195,000,000 and for the last half of the year, 192,000,000 pounds.

DROP IN PRODUCTION.

It is not to be understood that the drop in production from 226,000,000 in May to 205,000,000 in June is entirely a drop in mine production but the figures are for refinery production and may be a greater or less drawing on stocks.

The reduction in the surplus copper in the first six months of 1924 was 82,000,000 pounds or an average of 14,500,000 pounds monthly, a substantial amount and placing the surplus at a very low figure, 222,000,000 pounds

The deliveries of copper for the first six months of 1924 were at the rate of 2,780,000,000 pounds annually while the refinery output was at the rate of 2,610,000,000, a spread of 170,000,000 pounds, thus indicating that consumption exceeded production at a rate which would, in the course of a year, eat up the surplus provided there was no improvement otherwise.

The present price movement is upawrd and, while it may not make the buyers stampede to place orders, it cannot help but give them something to think about in protecting themselves on their future requirements. An upward price movement begets orders and orders force additional price increases. The purchaser cannot help but realize that the copper market has stood on the edge for a long while now and that it would not take extensive change in buying to cause an active market.

The actions of copper stocks during the last couple of weeks have also been indicative of better copper conditions for they have advanced materially and rapidly and are in a strong position. While the period of low copper prices has been beneficial to the industrial development which would be injured by high prices, it seems that fairer average prices would be better all around.

PURCHASING ACTIVITY

The Credit Clearinghouse weekly report shows a marked increase in purchasing activity over last week, which appears to indicate that summer purchasing is already under way. The increase for the country as a whole is 4.8 per cent. The largest increase, 7.4 per cent, is in the north agricultural section. The mountain section stands second, with an increase of 6.8 per ment. The south agricultural section is third with an increase of 6.4 per cent. The middle agricultural section comes fourth with an increase of 5.2 per cent. The east section is fifth, reporting an increase of 2.8 per cent. The Pacific Coast shows an increase of 2.2 per cent, with the largest increase in California.

As compared with the same week of July, 1923, the present week shows a slight increase, equal to 0.8 per cent. The east section is even with the same week last year. The north agricultural section shows the greatest increase over last year, equal to 5.6 per cent. The south agricultural section reports a decrease of 4 per cent below the same week a year ago.

Payments throughout the country show improvement, though there is slowness in the north and south agricultural sections.

DAILY TRADE TALK

Market Trend Buoyantly Upward; No Sign of Dullness; Grain Situation; European Conditions

There has been nothing about recent markets to suggest that they were going through the usually dull period of midsummer. In practically all important divisions the trend was buoyantly upward last week, and the advances of such unmistakable fashion as to suggest that constructive factors are actively at work. It is becoming trite to say that "new high records" for the year were established. Yet that is exactly what happened in such important markets as stocks, in wheat, oats, corn and hogs, and in the foreign exchanges. In other commodities, among them cotton and copper, while the prices reached were not the highest of the year, yet they approached that point very closely.

It is a rather peculiar situation that although these markets should be influenced in measure by the general industrial, financial and political situation, yet each had its own particular market factor, which, considered with the background, tended to brighten and tinge with cheerful color the complete picture. In the grain markets this factor was represented by alarming crop news from Canada and our own Northwest; in cotton it was drought and the government's low-condition report which proved to be the main factors; in the exchanges, optimism was derived from the possibility that obstacles in the path of the interallied conference would be smoothed out, and that success would crown the efforts of the negotiators; in the stock market it was the continuance of easy money and fanning of the speculative flames by recurring reports of railroad mergers.

Each factor has been of particular influence to the market it controlled, and, oddly enough, all of them were ranged on the constructive side. There is generally evident a disposition to gloss over and minimize developments which would interrupt the established trend. Thus last week the fact that bankers who will be obliged to interest investors in the proposed German loan offered strenuous objections to the alignment of the loan and its security, passed almost unnoticed in the foreign exchange market. In fact, on the very day emphatic bank objection was made to the loan in its present form, sterling forged ahead to its best price of the year. Similarly and closer home, the announcement of the passing of its common stock dividend by the largest of the independent steel corporations, because of poor earnings in the second quarter of the year, did not appear to dampen the ardor of the stock market opinion. The stock exchange appeared to take this as a matter of course, and securities continued their advance.

Possibly the action of the major markets in the face of current adverse news developments and with the general knowledge in mind that industrial operations are at low ebb, may be construed as the outward manifestation of a change in sentiment toward autumn activities. It is quite plausible that such an appreciation as the grain crops have experienced during the last month should increase optimism in the agricultural districts and aid business generally. It does not entirely follow, however, that industrial activities will develop a normal rate. Our trade barometers do not all prophesy an immediate lifting of the clouds, and buyers have not completely shaken off the hesitant mood which has gripped them since last spring. About the best that can be said at the moment is that business is a little better than it was a month ago.

Wheat prices have advanced to a point where the market is strained, but the impression is that they are to go higher later. It is a market that has surprised its best friends in the last few weeks by advancing farther and faster than expected, as the wheat situation is such that comparatively few men in the trade have ever seen a similar one.

It is a big, broad, world proposition, with conditions changed so radically from a year ago that the trade is as enthusiastic in favor of higher prices as it was pessimistic six months ago in expectation of extremely low prices. It has been a wonderful change and wheat producers the world over are getting the benefit.

EUROPEAN CONDITIONS

The Brookmire Economic Service says: Progress or the lack of it in the European deadlock will be of prime importance in determining the character of our next business upswing. For this reason the conferences which started in London last week should receive careful attention, as their results will do much to determine how and when European conditions are to improve.

The conferences started with the favorable factor that both sides realize that something must be done and done soon. They have the unfavorable aspect that, in spite of long negotiation, the views of England and France on the question are fundamentally divergent.

France desires the Dawes settlement to be handled by the Reparations Commission, in which she holds control, and that penalties for default be fixed in advance. England desires the direction to be under the League of Nations, deciding upon the penalities when such default occurs. England takes for granted Germany's good faith, France, the reverse. England desires settled trade conditions irrespective of reparations. France desires primarily reparations.

These views are fundamentally opposite, but not hopelessly incapable of reconciliation. The logic of events is in favor of a settlement, but political considerations have in the past upset the logic of events and may do so again. The progress of these conferences is a matter of deep concern for the business of this country.

INVESTMENT FUNDS

A business reorganization expert has entered the Los Angeles field in the person of Howard Throckmorton, who has opened offices in the Great Republic Life Building.

Mr. Throckmorton, who has been closely associated with a number of important western interests, said yesterday that he was receiving inquiries from the East regarding opportunities for investment or the establishment of industrial enterprises on the Pacific Coast at the present time. In his opinion there is a greater volume of idle funds now lying dormant in the East than at any period for many years.

This condition has resulted in the Federal reserve banks reducing the rate from 3 to 4 per cent within six months, and his advices are that there is a strong probability of a further reduction to 2½ per cent within the next thirty days. This situation, Mr. Throckmorton says, is being recognized by financial interests and the general investing public, resulting in the best inquiry for bonds since early last fall, supplemented by stock-exchange activity in the better grade of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

UNION OIL SHAKE-UP

Royal Dutch Shell Interests Retire from Board; Stock To Be Listed in New York Soon

Indicative of the national character now assumed by the company through the recent country-wide distribution of a large block of its shares, and significant of the actual passing of the danger of foreign domination of its affairs, the board of directors of the Union Oil Company of California yesterday announced the resignation of the four directors representing the Royal Dutch-Shell interests and the election of four new members from New York and Chicago.

The new directors, who acquired their stock interest by the purchase and underwriting of 233,064 shares of Union Oil owned by the Shell Union Oil Corporation are George W. Davison, president of the Central Union Trust Company of New York; James C. Brady, capitalist of New York; Clarence Dillon of the investment banking house of Dillon, Read & Co., and F. J. Bermingham, of the Chicago office of the latter firm.

Resigning from the Union Oil board are Henry W. O'Melveny, A. C. Balch, F. W. Allen and F. Gober. They have been generally recognized as the representatives of the Shell Union Oil Corporation, a subsidiary of the Royal Dutch-Shell combination, and until recently the owner of slightly over 26 per cent of the outstanding capitalization of the Union Oil Company of California.

The new directors represent the entrance of strong financial interests into the affairs of the Union Oil Company, and are regarded as the representatives of the company in sponsoring the early movements of the latest California petroleum neophyte on the New York Stock Exchange. Application will be made to list the stock and it is expected that active trading will begin soon.

ASSOCIATES TO DISSOLVE

Although it has not been officially announced, it is generally conceded that the successful distribution of the Shell Union's holdings and the consequent removal of the danger of foreign control will mean the dissolution of the Union Oil Associates. This company was formed after a dramatic struggle with the opposing forces to circumvent the efforts of the Royal Dutch-Shell group to obtain control of Union Oil. The American interests were successful in gathering 51 per cent of the stock into the voting trust which automatically eliminated any future possibilities of control beyond the sea.

The Royal Dutch-Union Oil fight for supremacy began in 1921 when the Dutch-English group purchased the Union Oil Company of Delaware which owned 26 per cent of Union Oil of California. Immediate indications of open market operations to increase their holdings warned the executives of the Union Oil Company of California of the determination of the foreigners to firmly intrench themselves in the American oil fields, from that time agitation against foreign domination waxed in growing heat until the decision was made to organize Union Oil Associates as a voting trust. The enthusiasm of the campaign and the importance of the issue at stake from one of the most interesting chapters of the swiftly moving oil history of Southern California.

Emerging from this phase of its growth, Union Oil now enters upon its "big board" career as one of the largest oil companies in the United States, combining in the activities the producing, transporting, refining and marketing of petroleum and its products. In its expansion from a company incorporated in 1890 with a capitalization of $5,000,000 to a giant corporation in 1924 with an authorized capitalization of $126,000,000 there is a marked tribute to the building of the late Lyman Stewart, who with W. L. Hardison, founded the company, and to W. L. Stewart, son of the founder, who now heads the Union Oil Company as president.

FAR FLUNG HOLDINGS

Beginning in a small way in the California fields, the Union now extends its operations to Colorado, Wyoming, New Mexico, Texas, Utah, Colombia, S. A., and Mexico. Including California its holdings in these fields now total 614,906 acres owned in fee and 193,904 held under lease. Marketing of petroleum and its products extends throughout the Pacific Coast and into Western Canada, Alaska, Hawaii, Chile and Canal Zone.

With the inclusion of its controlled companies, the Union produced in 1923 in California a total of 18,741,633 barrels of crude oil. Total receipts of California oil during the year, including oil purchased, amounted to approximately 19 per cent of the marketable oil produced in the State. Net earnings available for depreciation, depletion and dividends expended from nearly $10,000,000 in 1916 to $20,243,884 at the end of 1923. For the first six months of 1924, earnings are at the rate of $13.50 on the outstanding stock.

In connection with the assumption that the dissolution of the holding company, Union Oil Associates, is coming in the near future, holders of Union Oil Associates would benefit through the distribution of the 80 per cent stock dividend of Union Oil shares which was paid early last year.

BUSINESS NEWS

California Bank, for the convenience of its patrons and the public, has arranged with the American Express Company to maintain a completely equipped travel bureau in their Eighth and Broadway downtown bank. This bureau will be opened to the public August 1 and will offer a free service to travelers. Literature and information regarding rates, time tables, accommodations for all points, resorts, cruises, etc., are available. At this bureau reservations may be made, railroad tickets procured for any point, steamship tickets and reservations may be listed for personally conducted tours to Europe, the Orient, West Indies, South America, South Seas, Mediterranean and Honolulu.

Hotel reservations are made anywhere and hotel coupons furnished which insure accommodations at rates desired. Baggage is checked direct from home, and complete information is furnished and assistance given in obtaining visas, passports and sailing permits.

EXPRESS RECORD

A new record in the campaign by the carriers of the country to prevent loss or damage to shipments in transit has just been established by the American Railway Express, according to announcement made yesterday by F. C. Rockey, agent in charge in this city. Figures just tabulated for the month of June show that only 2.26 shipments in every thousand are involved in claims, giving the express service a performance record of 99.8 per cent. The June claim ratio is the lowest in the history of the express company since its formation six years ago. It is an improvement of over 35 per cent, compared with June, 1923.

Agent Rockey states that he is much gratified by the progress made in solving the claim problem. Local shippers have co-operated by giving more attention to the careful preparation of their shipments. Local employees are holding monthly "right way" meetings to study and discuss various problems of the service and the best methods for handling the current traffic.

BOND SALE

A syndicate composed of the Anglo London Paris Company, First National Bank, Detroit Trust Company, William Cavalier Co., S. D. Eldredge & Co., and Heller, Bruce Co., has been awarded $900,000 Pasadena City high school district 4 3-4 per cent bonds on a bid carrying a premium of $21,258.

Other bids were submitted by R. H. Moulton & Co., and Harris Trust and Savings Bank, $19,620; Peirce, Fair & Co., $13,140; Bank of Italy, E. H. Rollins & Sons, and Dean, Witter & Co., $11,867; California Securities Company, First Securities Company and Hunter, Dulin & Co., $10,260; Blyth, Witter & Co., Security Trust and Savings Bank, and William R. DECEMBER CONTRACTS MAKE BEST SHOWING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, July 28.—Cotton futures moved irregularly in the week's opening session today and at the close prices were 1 to 10 points net lower for the nearer months, except December which was up 5 points. The opening, under the influence of early reports of crop damage, was 23 to 30 points net higher and on active buying by New Orleans and Liverpool interests, the list was advanced from $2 to more than $3 a bale. The market's absorptive power then weakened on realization brought by the advance and the early gain was wiped out. Some selling was induced by midday reports that the crop was better fortified than had been thought, but at the bottom good bull support was shown and the close was several points up from the low. Spot cotton closed at 33.55, down 115 points.

Brazilian Issues Rise

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, July 28. — Bond prices forged slowly ahead in today's moderately active trading, which was featured by a rally in Brazilian issues on the reported crushing of the Sao Paulo revolution. An active demand for public utility and several individual industrial liens developed, but rail issues encountered profit taking after an early display of strength.

The day's most significant development in investment circles lay in the ready subscription of new issues, which totaled more than $50,000,000, a figur exceeding the entire volume of last week. Offering of two Canadian national railway issues aggregating almost $56,000,000, brought a good response.

The 6 per cent bonds of the Public Service Corporation of New York, of which a $30,000,000 issue was sold today, commanded a premium on the open market. The 8s, which recently were strengthened by alteration of the company's financial structure, added another 2 points to their gain.

Advances of Brazilian issues ranged from 1 to about 3 points. Included were the Rio de Janeiro 8s, Sao Paulo 8s, Brazilian government 8s and Central Railways 7s, all of which are expected to benefit by the quelling of the insurrection.

Improvement in agricultural conditions resulting from the rise in grain and cotton prices was reflected in a better demand for obligations of the fertilizer companies. American Chemical 7½s mixed up 1½ points.

Following are closing quotations on bonds listed on the New York Stock Exchange, furnished to Logan & Bryan, 639 South Spring street:

BY ROBERT J. PRITCHARD

Considerable surprise and a good deal of excitement was created among oil men over the week-end when it became known that the Calivada No. 1 well of Section 34, 32-24, Maricopa flats, had been brought in as a 1500-barrel producer at the 3652-foot level. The Calivada was drilled in a district that virtually had been abandoned and where there has been no development for some years. A gas pressure of 340 pounds was registered and the oil test showed 26 gravity, with no water.

Oil men believe the Calivada has picked up the same sand encountered on the Transport (Bush) lease on Section 4, 12-23, about three miles to the northeast, one of the biggest producers on the Maricopa flats. E. G. Lewis has been drilling a number of wells in the immediate vicinity of the Transport, hoping to pick up the gusher sand, but so far has been unsuccessful. Pacific and Shell are two companies which own a large acreage in the vicinity of the new strike. The Shell has gathered in leases aggregating about 4000 acres since the first of the year, according to reports, but oil men generally had regarded the territory as unfavorable for commercial production.

Get Two Wells

The Superior Oil Company completed two wells in the Torrance field over the week-end, according to official reports.

Torrance No. 41 was placed on production at 3811 feet, doing 600 barrels per day. No. 37 was brought in at 3785 feet, flowing about fifty barrels per day. It will be allowed to flow for a few days, but will be placed on the pump when the flow stops, it is said.

Start New Well

The Pasadena-Puente Oil Company will drill a new well in the Newport Beach field, according to official reports. The new project will be located in the city of Newport Beach on Thirty-first street, near Central avenue, on a tract comprising seventeen lots, belonging to Levy & Culp, and about 1000 feet southeast of the Pasadena-Puente No. 1. Work on building the rig has already begun, it is said.

New pumps are being installed in the Pasadena-Puente No. 1 to induce a greater flow, according to official reports.

Get 260 Barrels

The Brookshire Oil Company has completed its No. 12 well in the northern part of the Midway field, according to operators interested in that area. The well was completed at 2400 feet, with an initial production of 260 barrels per day, it is said.

Two New Wells

The White-Behr Petroleum Company has completed its Jackie Coogan No. 5 in the Huntington Beach field, according to field reports. The well is pumping about 125 barrels per day. It originally was drilled to 4773 feet, but lost several stands of drill pipe, and stood idle for several months. It is located on Garfield street at Crystal avenue.

The Associated Oil Company completed its Miley-Keck No. 12 at 2610 feet, pumping 100 barrels per day. The well was drilled to 3773 feet, but was plugged back.

Drill New Hole

The Southern California Drilling Company will drill a well on the Wilson lease in the Huntington Beach field near the Shell Company's Davenport No. 6, according to field reports. The lease comprises thirty-two lots and was acquired from the Holly Development Company.

Reports from Huntington Beach indicate that there is a brisk demand for leases in this district since the Shell's Davenport No. 6 was brought in last week.

Find Oil Sand

With the Padelford and Maxwell wells on both sides of it beginning to flow, the Barnsdall Oil Company's Rosecrans No. 1 in the southeastern area of the Rosecrans district, yesterday picked up the oil sand at 4093 feet, according to field reports. The well is about 100 yards north of the Maxwell, which made the discovery at 4125.

Near Completion

The Union Oil Company expects to complete its Hellman No. 6 in the Dominguez field within the next two weeks. The well is standing cemented, and will be drilled into the sand within a few days, it is said.

The Union's Hellman lease is producing about 6000 barrels of oil at the present time. Hellman Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4 are yielding about 4450 barrels, and the latest producer, Hellman No. 5, which came in at 3000 barrels, has dropped to 2450 barrels per day.

"Well, no—only my husband imagine he is the head of the house."—[Exchange.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Speculative attention was directed mainly to General Petroleum common in yesterday's trading on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange. A good buying movement carried the price to 44 before profit-taking set in and forced the final price down to 43 3-4, where it was up 1-2 over the closing quotation on Saturday.

Other petroleum shares were sluggish. Union Oil Associates declined 1-8 to 58 1-4, while U. S. Royalties was up 1-2 at 7 cents. Los Angeles Investment sold at 3.50 on a firm demand. Julian Petroleum preferred lost 1-8 at 13 5-8 and the common was off 1-4 at 7 1-2.

Sales were made in United Eastern at 40 cents. Richmond Consolidated sold at 8 cents. Telluride at 11 and Tom Reed at 30 cents.

A buoyant tone was evident in the bond list. Los Angeles Gas 6s of 1942 climbed 1-4 to 100 1-8 and Edison 6s of 1944 advanced 1-8 to 102 3-8. Los Angeles Railway 5s of 1958 were up 1-4 at 93, while steady levels were maintained in Sierra and San Francisco second 5s of 1949 at 72 and General Petroleum 6s of 1928 at 99 3-4.

Following are the closing quotations and sales:

FINANCIAL CONDITIONS REVIEWED

Trade Conditions More Stabilized; Wall Street Reflects Confidence

Moody's Weekly Review of Financial Conditions in its current issue says:

"While no important fundamental changes have taken place in the financial situation, and general business conditions remain at a standstill, the activity and strength in the security market seem logical enough. With interest rates continuing low, and with the wave of optimism which is being created by the outlook for a successful settlement of the European problem, and with the more constructive prospects in domestic politics, a far-reaching return of confidence is naturally first reflected in Wall street.

"Trade conditions are becoming more stabilized, but the progress in laying foundations for a business revival is not likely to show itself above the surface until the latter part of August, as there is no great industry which does any heavy buying at the present season.

"Traction companies have been making gradual progress in recovering their earning power and the existing outlook is good, subject only to the effect of unemployment upon the traffic. Fares are showing a slightly upward trend, and material costs are down almost to the level of 1921. Prospects for investors in this field are therefore more encouraging."

"In the grain States sentiment already has improved in response to higher prices, and it is reported that the buying of merchandise, hardware and building materials is beginning to pick up a little."

MARKET SUMMARY

CATTLE—This market is still unable to absorb the liberal share of common steers that has been arriving and demand for these kinds was very narrow, with several loads without a bid up to a late hour. However, the small supply of medium and good steers met moderate demand at prices generally 15@25c higher than last week's close. No good steers were offered today, several loads medium steers, however, sold from 7.00@7.35; these averaging 1000 to 1080 pounds; common steers sold largely from 5.50@6.50; yesterday's sales included a load of good 1015-pound Imperials at 8.00, with several loads mediums from 7.00@7.50. She-stock sold in line with steers, better grades being sought for, while fewer grades were hard to move; heifers were scarce and most fat cows cleared from 4.00@5.25; odd head going over upward to 5.75; canners and cutters held about steady; the price spread of 1.50@3.00 taking the bulk; bulls ruled steady, with most belognas from 3.25@3.75.

CALVES—Good and choice light and handy weight vealers sold readily at steady prices, however, weighty calves and kinds lacking quality and condition were slow sellers; good and choice 165 to 215-pound vealers cleared from 8.00@8.50, with desirable kinds carrying a little more weight downward to 7.50; medium to good 310 to 375-pound range calves turned largely at 6.00.

HOGS—Good and choice, 180 to 190-pound butchers in comparatively small supply sold early at fully steady prices, bulk and top of these kinds being 11.25; few less desirable kinds were sold downward to 11.00; packing sows cleared largely from 7.50@7.75; extreme top Sunday was 11.35, with the bulk of good and choice 160 to 220-pound butchers at 11.25.

SHEEP—Fairly liberal supply of lambs sold rather slowly at prices around 1.00 lower; several decks good 74-pound lambs sold for 10.25 without a sort, while two decks good 56-pound wool skins went over for 10.25, sorted 25 out at 7.50.

INSURANCE NEWS

LOSSES DECREASING

Fire losses in the United States and Canada during the first six months of 1924 were lower than for the first half year of either 1923 or 1923, as shown by the records of the New York Journal of Commerce." The following table is a comparison by months for the last three years:

	1924	1923	1922
January	$41,282,300	$35,035,000	$34,400,000
February	30,650,000	29,110,000	26,610,000
March	37,450,000	35,470,000	34,250,000
April	31,375,000	31,050,000	28,400,000
May	28,813,000	32,940,000	27,440,000
June	34,525,000	25,700,000	25,200,000
	$174,564,300	$189,535,000	$177,440,000

America's fire loss in 1923, according to estimates of the actuarial bureau of the National Board, amounted to $508,000,000. This sum reduces to a daily average of $1,391,780; to $57,990 an hour; and to $966 a minute. Such losses as these have never been recorded before in a normal year in this or any other country, it is asserted.

A fire watch tower at the summit of the highest peak of the Berkeley, (Cal.) foothills, has been completed. The tower is a link in the plan evolved by the Contra Costa Hills Fire Protection Committee to protect the hills and adjoining cities from fire.

"HIGH" RATES

The man who growls and grumbles about the inordinate profits insurance companies are making, and declares that rates should be reduced, is not well informed. He must be shown. For example: The underwriting profit of the insurance companies doing business in the United States for a ten-year period that ended with 1921, was less than 1 per cent.

Eighty per cent of the companies doing business in 1871 had failed or gone out of business by 1921, according to a chart prepared by the Spectator Company. The expenses of impregnable positions eat their good fortune to pieces and expert management. Dividends are paid not because rates are high, but because capital and surplus have been wisely invested. Rates are at the lowest possible point consistent with safety.

PYROMANIA

People will rush to a fire where they can do nothing but get themselves and their automobiles in the way, while upon their own premises at home is duplicated the cause of the fire they are watching.

END COMES TO BOTH OF OLD COUPLE

Woman Dies Forty-eight Hours After Mate; Double Funeral Planned

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DETROIT, July 28. — Funeral services for Mrs. Cora Webster Lane, who died forty-eight hours after the death of her husband, William P. Lane, will be held at the same time as services for her husband in SS. Peter and Paul's Cathedral Adelaide and John R. streets. The couple will be buried together in Mt. Elliott Cemetery. Mr. Lane was 64 years of age, and his wife, 60.

Mr. Lane's death followed four years' illness in St. Joseph's Hospital, Ann Arbor, where he was taken when he became an invalid.

Mr. Lane, who was born in this city, started his career in the public service in 1880 as librarian of the Bar Library in the Newberry Building. He was later appointed deputy county clerk in the Enright administration and then succeeded William May as County Clerk, which office he held for two terms.

Mr. Lane was admitted to the bar in 1881. Following his retirement from public office he entered the practice of law. In 1897 he graduated from the Detroit College of Medicine with the degree of M. D., and thereafter devoted himself to a medico-legal practice, being one of the few lawyers of that type in the United States.

Mr. and Mr. Lane's family includes two daughters, Mrs. Alvan H. Bixby, of New London, Ct., and Mrs. R. M. Fennessy, of Detroit.

Whisky is Not Allowed With His Chop Suey

NEW YORK, July 28.—"Where you think-ee you be—the Ritz?" was the query that Sam Chink, proprietor of the New Idea Restaurant, Brooklyn, asked when a patron named Gibbon uncorked a pint of whisky to wash down his chop suey.

"What's the world come to?" Gibbon demanded. "It's a pretty note if a fellow can't use his own flask in a chop suey joint."

Chink was obdurate. Hhe continued: "Me afraid padlock law. Bill Anderson he get Bill Bryan to get Bill Haywood to close me up if me let you drink Scotch tea. Only Chi-nee tea you drink-ee here."

Chink summoned Patrolman Burlis of the Grand-avenue Police Station, who arrested Gibbon.

STAGE STAR OPENS SHOP OF ANTIQUES

Mabel Taliaferro and Her Husband Start Business in Greenwich Village

NEW YORK, July 28. — Mabel Taliaferro, diminutive star of vaudeville dramatic sketches, who is best remembered as Polly in "Polly of the Circus," and film actress, is in business. She has opened to the world, as she puts it, an antique shop at 30 Charles street, Greenwich Village.

"I have always been crazy to start a ship like this," said Miss Taliaferro, "and now I have had my wish gratified. See, the things I have accumulated for many years are all about me."

Mabel and her husband, J. P. O'Brien, noted sculptor, have started the antique business together as partners. They will not desert their life work entirely, but will give much of their time to the brought little shop.

The little actress showed many antiques of historic association. While being photographed, she fanned herself with a "Fontainebleau fan" which she acquired in France, and which had been used in Napoleon Bonaparte's court, and then she pointed with pride to her platypus rug, the only one in existence, composed of 200 platypus skins, soft long fur as fine as silk. A platypus is a now extinct little fur animal of Australia. Miss Taliaferro's rug came directly from the wilds of Australia as a gift. Eventually, she thinks, it may go to the Museum of Natural History.

PIONEER STUNT FLYER DANNY DAVISON DEAD

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—Word of the death in Hong Kong of "Danny" Davison, pioneer stunt flyer, was received in cablegrams reaching San Francisco friends of Davison today. Davison, learned to fly in San Francisco, his teacher being Silas Christopherson. He was licensed in 1904, when he was but 18 years of age. He was the first aviator to land a plane in the Yosemite Valley. During the war he was a civilian instructor. Davison was in the service of Villa in Mexico in 1915, and last year went to China as an aviation instructor for the Chinese government.

"Steel"

"Bill," the poet gasped to his friend, "I wrote a poem about my little boy and began the first verse with these words, 'My son, my pigmy counterpart.'"

"Yes, yes?"

The poet drew a newspaper from his pocket. "Read," he blazed. "see what that compositor did to my opening line."—[Exchange.

LOVING CARE EVEN AFTER DEATH

Retired Business Man Provides For Disposition of His Body So Wife And Children Shall Not Have That Duty

"I have looked after them all my life, and tried to make things smooth and easy for them. Why shouldn't I arrange now for my proper entombment, when my time comes, and also provide a fitting place for them?" Such was the remark of a retired business man who purchased several adjoining crypts at our Hollywood Mausoleum recently.

He had arranged his investments on a sound basis, made his will and put all his affairs in order—so that his wife and children might be provided for safely whatever the future might bring to him. And he was unwilling that the burden and responsibility of securing the final resting place for his body, after his passing, should fall upon his loved ones—upset and disturbed as he knew they would be at such a time.

He selected Mausoleum interment because he realized, after careful investigation, its great advantage over earth burial or cremation. The permanency of care and surroundings appealed to him, as it must to any intelligent person. And the superiority of construction of the buildings of the California Mausoleum Company—he is a retired builder—left no doubt in his mind as to "which mausoleum?"

Illustrated booklets will be sent free upon request by this Company. Its beautiful buildings at Hollywood and Inglewood are open daily to visitors, under careful restrictions. Information may be had by telephoning the offices, MAin 1534, 206 Harris Bldg., 110 West 11th St.—[Advertisement.

TWO ROSECRANS WELLS COME IN

Test Producers Climax Hot Race for Oil

ity Excels Any Within Los Angeles Basin

ushing Strikes Pay Sand Short Time Before Superior

Crowded race for oil in the Rosecrans district on Harbor Boulevard, south of the city, reached a climax yesterday when two wells within a few hundred yards of each other flowed oil of a higher quality than any yet produced in the Los Angeles basin. One, which was almost a dead heat, was won by the Union Oil Company, whose Padelford No. 1, on the corner of the boulevard, flowed at the rate of seventeen barrels an hour for one and one-half hours. The Union Oil Company was only a few inches behind in its Maxwell No. 1, which flowed irregularly in the morning, its rate of flow not being estimated.

According to field reports, which were confirmed by officials, the gravity of the Maxwell product was 38.7 degrees.

Due to the lack of tanks the well was shut in immediately and will not be allowed to produce until storage facilities are installed. The Padelford well sanded up after 4 hours, but will be cleaned out and placed on production as soon as possible, officials report.

PERFECT SHUT-OFF

The two wells began to flow while they were being bailed for a production test, and the final work of completion, including setting the casing, will have to be done before the well can be properly brought under control of the Union Oil Company. It is the belief that a perfect water shut-off has been made, and Superintendent officials believe that they have achieved great success in the Maxwell. Although this will not finally be demonstrated until the well is allowed to burn and clean itself out, the achievement of the Union Oil Company comes more than two months after the Rosecrans No. 1 struck oil and sand last February. The Rosecrans discovery was made at 3918 feet, the Maxwell at the same sand at 4125 feet. The Padelford discovery was at 3720 feet. The Rosecrans was a sensation in the petroleum industry when its find became known. The Union Oil Company has never succeeded in completing the Rosecrans due to the sanding in which many operators believed was insuperable about the district.

FIELD PIONEER

The Union Oil Company was one of the first operators to enter the field following the Rosecrans strike, and started its Maxwell well a little east of the Rosecrans. The Union began drilling a mile and a half west of the Rosecrans, east of Rosecrans Boulevard. Among those in the Padelford, Maxwell and meantime the Union took over the Potter well about one mile to the west, and subsequently drilled it to 4900 feet, flowing at the rate of 25 deg. gravity oil from the Rosecrans sand. The completion was interesting to many geologists as connecting the southern area around the Rosecrans, on the ground that the Rosecrans district was in the center of the field. This theory was to be confirmed by the difficulty in shutting off the water in the Rosecrans No. 1, in which numerous cement jobs were made and in the Maxwell No. 1, which was cemented twice, but the attempt failed both times.

PICK UP SAND

The Maxwell first picked up the sand four weeks ago at 4146 feet, eight-inch casing was set, but two attempts at water shut-off failed, and the well was drilled to 4295 feet. A six-inch casing was set on Sunday. During the night yesterday morning, drilling began to flow, and according to observers, the test indicated that the water was shut off.

The unusually high gravity of oil in both the Maxwell and Padelford first picked up sand at 3720 feet. It was considered one of the significant features of both wells. The Athens No. 1 is flowing at 35 degrees gravity, and it is said that all the oil in this district is of such high grade as to interest most operators to install all three of the wells on the same structure, which has been disputed by some geologists.

CHARTING A NEW COURSE

When public resentment for governmental inefficiency, or worse, has arisen from time to time to such a pitch in the past as to threaten the sense of security and to disturb the somnolent complacency of a succession of inadequate officeholders in the city government of Los Angeles, the favorite excuse has been—the charter. Mere mention of the antiquated document, under which this city has been expected to meet modern conditions and overcome difficulties undreamed of when the ancient plan was drafted, has been deemed sufficient explanation of incompetence, indifference and indulgence.

It is not to be denied that many forward-looking enterprises have been retarded by the old charter; not to be denied that greater efficiency in city affairs has been seriously handicapped by the old charter; not to be doubted that better and bigger men might have been induced to enter public service if the weaknesses and contradictions of the old charter had not existed.

Very fortunately for the future of this community, or, at least, most promising in the opportunities afforded for improvement and progress, a new city charter has been drafted by a board of freeholders and adopted by vote of the people.

The new charter does not in itself, of course, guarantee a new order of things nor does it automatically assure improvement in the public service, but it places directly in the hands of the people the means for better government, for a higher standard of public official, for a quicker and more certain response to the people's demand for ability, honesty and vigor in public affairs.

Charters are valuable things. When human rights were not so commonly recognized or so highly regarded among certain classes, men fought and shed their blood and died either to obtain them or to defend them. The new Los Angeles charter will be effective, therefore, according to the measure of intelligent attention and support it receives from those whom it is designed to aid and protect.

The new charter must not be permitted to fall into improper hands; it must be intrusted to men who are honest and men who are able—men who embrace an understanding of the privilege of serving. There are such men, many of them, who, assured of public support and sympathy, will be willing to make personal sacrifice to the public good and make personal contribution to the advancement of public interests.

In virtually all of the important city offices, the new charter not only fixes responsibility and authority more definitely, but provides for a substantial increase in remuneration for public service. This is a desirable improvement in both instances, as capable men depending upon their salaries for a livelihood are entitled to adequate compensation whether in private or public enterprises, and a public official should, first, be clothed with proper authority for carrying out his duties, and, second, be held strictly responsible and accountable for the manner in which he exercises authority.

Under the new charter the Mayor will be definitely responsible for the financial policy of the city and of its various departments. He will be aided in his investigations and conclusions by a properly constituted agency for gathering and interpreting figures and statistics relating to municipal finance. The Mayor will have direct responsibility for the character and ability of the men and women whom he places in charge of the various functions of government controlled by his office.

The City Council, having the power to confirm or reject the Mayor's appointees, will exercise a check upon the executive which should result advantageously to the community. The Council will be shorn of its semiexecutive powers and will become a legislative body. The creation of a purchasing department by the new charter, with further provision for a properly-trained purchasing agent, will take away from the Council this fruitful field for political manipulation and will remove a troublesome source of temptation for favoritism.

Greatly-needed improvements in police administration are promised by the new charter and will become immediately available to those intrusted with placing the new plan into effect. The new charter further recognizes the need for and provides a workable plan for obtaining a modern system of rail and electric transportation in the city and adjacent territory.

The new charter, in other words, is a modern document designed to meet modern needs. Undoubtedly it can be and will be improved as developments occur to demonstrate the desirability of such changes. But right now it is the best medium offered the people of Los Angeles for ridding themselves of the three big factors that have retarded better government in this city, the aforementioned incompetence, indifference and indulgence.

Those who voted for the new charter and made it a reality are now charged with the duty of safeguarding it and of enforcing it. Success for the new charter will bring immeasurable benefits in which every citizen will participate in a most direct and tangible manner.

In concluding the present series of editorial discussions of the Los Angeles city government, The Times takes occasion to repeat its original declaration that they have been prompted by no other motive than a desire to call forcibly to public attention conditions which The Times believes cannot continue in Los Angeles itself is to go ahead. The Times believes that the coming into operation of the new charter next year, simultaneously with the election of a new set of city officials, presents an opportunity for bringing these conditions to an end—an opportunity which we must not neglect.

Beginning next Sunday The Times will publish a series of articles dealing in turn with the various departments of the city government for the information of those who have only a vague idea where their millions in tax money go. From time to time these articles will be supplemented by further editorial discussion.

FAKE DROWNING INQUIRY TODAY

Four Face Insurance Plot Quiz by Grand Jury

Man Pretends to Fall from "The Catalina Flyer"

Officers Then Take Quartet; Confessions Given

The county grand jury will begin today an investigation of an asserted fake drowning plot declared to have been entered into to collect $20,000 life insurance held by John Dexter Wiley, real estate salesman.

Those under arrest are Mr. and Mrs. Wiley, W. N. George, claim adjuster of the Great Republic Life Insurance Company, who is said to have written Wiley's policy, and W. J. Hughes, real estate salesman, declared to be a friend of the Wileys.

According to Investigators Riemer and Ramsey of the District Attorney's office, the quartet were taken into custody after Wiley is asserted to have attempted to carry out the fake drowning while riding on the Catalina Flyer Sunday afternoon. Details of the asserted plot, the investigators declared, make a tale that has all the elements of a modern thriller, with the drowning incident as the central figure, and with speed boats, airplanes and automobiles and a flight to Detroit as side lights.

TELLS ASSERTED PLAN

The first intimation of the asserted plot came to Dist.-Atty. Keyes and Chief Deputy Fitts when Capt. Joseph McAfee, master of the Catalina Flyer, flying fish boat at Avalon, reported that he had been offered $2000 by George to enter into the plan. Mr. Keyes was informed that the plan was for Wiley to fake a drowning, to hide on the launch, leave it secretly, board a steamer to Los Angeles and then disappear. The crowning part of the plan, it was disclosed by the young wife in a full statement to the investigators, was that she was later to meet her husband, who was to go to Detroit, at Toledo, O., and there he was again to wed his wife, as the widow of John D. Wiley, under the name of Richard V. Stone. Then, with the insurance money as a starter, they were to begin over again as Mr. and Mrs. Stone.

According to the statement of Mrs. Wiley, she first met George at the Wiley home, 1356 South Bonnie Brae street, on March 26 last. At that time George is said to have stated that if they would take out a policy for $10,000, he (George) would pay for most of the premium, that the drowning could be faked and that the Wileys would get $4000; George, $4000, and $2000 would be paid to Capt. McAfee. George is also said to have stated that last year in one month in Missouri his company lost $500,000 through the fake deaths and the manipulations of crooked doctors and agents.

WATCHED CLOSELY

From the inception of the asserted plot investigators were watching the Wileys and George. It was asserted that Wiley, George and McAfee, through information furnished by the latter, were watched in a hotel on Eighth street on the 20th inst. while the plans were made. The day before Wiley is said to have gone to Avalon and made a trip on the Flyer to complete his plans. He picked out a spot where Zane Grey, writer, recently captured a devilfish as the place for the fake drowning. It is on the west side of the island.

During his tour to lay his plans Detective Lieutenant King and Mrs. King were on the launch watching Wiley and learning his plans. They obtained photos of him on several occasions.

On Sunday afternoon, the time of the supposed drowning, Detective King and his wife were on the Flyer near Mr. and Mrs. Wiley. Investigators Riemer and Ramsey waited at Avalon. The investigators had learned that Hughes had taken Wiley's grips and personal belongings and was to meet him at Wilmington and then drive to El Centro.

Shortly before the sensational affair, Capt. McAfee, through an un-

MAN JAILED FOLLOWING BOY'S DREAM

Suspect Arrested After Youth Visions Father's Defrauder Captured

The fantastical story of a youth's dream that came true yesterday sent Jack Daley, a Los Angeles automobile salesman, to the San Bernardino Jail as a suspect in a fraud case at Utica, N. Y., almost six years ago.

At Glen ranch Sunday night, Albert Jordan, a Venice youth, dreamed of the capture of the man who defrauded his father, Frank P. Jordan of venice, out of $500 by representing himself to be Dr. Douglas, an army physician, who saw service in France.

As Jordan sat under a tree at the mountain resort watching the vacationists arrive, a fastidiously dressed motorist of middle age drove up and stopped at the hotel.

Jordan jumped to his feet and rubbed his eyes. Cautiously he approached the stranger.

"Hello there, Doc," the youth said. "I guess you don't remember me, do you?"

The motorist turned quickly and replied: "I guess you are mistaken. I am not a doctor. You have the wrong man."

But the youth was convinced of the identity of the stranger. He called a forest ranger and told his story of recognizing the stranger as Dr. Douglas. The latter is said to have swindled a score of Utica residents in 1918 while posing as a World War hero with indorsements on Canadian bank drafts. The youth's father, Frank P. Jordan, was one of the victims.

The ranger called deputy sheriffs who arrested the motorist when he was unable to prove his identity as Jack Daley. The officers took an automatic pistol from Daley.

The elder Jordan will arrive at the jail today in an attempt to identify the suspect. Sheriff Shay last night forwarded telegrams to Utica notifying officers of the suspect's arrest.

TO KEEP PHONES READY

Effective today, the telephone switchboard at the District Attorney's office will be open from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m., Chief Deputy District-Attorney Fitts announced yesterday. Heretofore the board has been opened at 9 a.m. and closed at 5 p.m. The new hours are announced as a part of the plans of Dist.-Atty. Keyes for reorganization of his office.

COMMITTEE FAVORS SUM FOR AIRPORT

Council Body Approves Proposed $10,000 Grant for Griffith Field

The City Council's finance committee yesterday granted the request for an appropriation of $10,000 filed by the Community Development Association and the Chamber of Commerce for improvement of the municipal airport at Griffith Park.

The appropriation will obtain from the Federal government $250,000 worth of aviation equipment which has been set aside for the airport. This will be used by the aviation section of the California National Guard. With the port equipped the next step will be the placing of Los Angeles on the transcontinental air-mail route, planes bringing mail from Salt Lake City, Utah, direct to Los Angeles.

WAR DECLARED BY HI-JACKERS

Police Say Rival Gangs Seek Underworld Monopoly

Ocean Avenue Gun Fight is Seen as Skirmish

Hostile Outfits Said from Bay City, Cleveland

Police trailing the bandits who Saturday engaged in a gun battle at Ocean View avenue and Park View street yesterday declared they have information that the spectacular clash was the first engagement of a war between rival gangs of hi-jackers, each of which is fighting for the exclusive privilege of preying on bootleggers, hold-up men and gamblers.

The police say that they have learned also that each of the gangs recently started operations here, and that one gang is from San Francisco and one from Cleveland. Each is well organized, with a leader and has a fleet of speedy automobiles, they say.

BATTLE LOOMS

Startling developments in the war, which is expected to be to the death, like the well-known Kilkenny cats, are imminent, the police declare. The police further assert that the bandits, bootleggers and gamblers on whom the bandits prey are apprehensive of developments, and are in a quandary regarding measures to protect themselves.

Presence of the gangs has been suspected for some time, the police say, in reports reaching headquarters of the activities of the hijackers. Definite information tending to verify information already in the possession of the police came yesterday in confessions of three men held in the City Jail as robbery suspects.

The suspects are Joe Mackin, Walter Duncan and Guy Burrough. They were arrested last Friday by Detective Lieutenants Evans, Robinson and Hoy of the police robbery squad.

The suspects declared they were victims of one of the gangs, according to the detectives, and that the loot was nearly $700, which they had obtained by holding up a crap game at an automobile parking station on Hill street between Eleventh and Twelfth streets.

STORY OF SUSPECTS

The bandit suspects, according to the police, told their story as follows:

Last Thursday the three men were in a crap game at the parking station. Angered at the tactics of several in the game they returned in a few minutes and held up the game, obtaining close to $700. Five or six players were in the game, some of whom were salesmen who had not turned in their sales money for the day.

The trio took the loot to their rooms in a hotel at 213 East Fifth street and divided it. The next day they went to Venice for the day. Returning early Friday morning they were met in front of the hotel by three automobile loads of men.

Producing pistols, several of the occupants of the automobiles forced the three men into the machines, each in a different car, and carried them to a secluded place. The three men were forced to disrobe and were searched for their valuables. The gunmen obtained nearly $700, and gold watches from each of the men, then returned the victims' clothing and unloaded guns and gave each a $10 bill. The three men were thrown out of the machines and the high-jackers sped away.

TRIO ARRESTED

According to Detective Hoy, the police got wind of the crap-game hold-up and went to the hotel room occupied by the three men. They placed them under arrest.

With the information obtained by the three men, and with other reports reaching the detectives, they expect to be able to obtain more definite clews to the identity

PLANE CRASH VIEWS CLASH

Witnesses Differ on Supposed Reason for Plunge Killing Four; Inquest to be Tomorrow

Whether faulty design was responsible for the air tragedy at Rogers Airport Sunday afternoon when four persons were killed may be determined at the Coroner's inquest over the bodies of the four victims tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in the parlors of the Central Avenue Undertaking Company, 5600 Central avenue.

Osmond T. Belcher, designer of the machine, a five-passenger monoplane, his wife and 7-year-old son, Osmond T. Belcher, Jr., and pilot, B. F. Creeth, were killed instantly when the machine crashed to earth a half-mile from the airport at Western avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street within sight of thousands of spectators assembled to watch the christening and first public flight of the plane. It had been christened by Mrs. Belcher as the Belcher air liner "California."

Creeth was the son of Mrs. F. G. Creeth, 1324 Clark street Sherman, and a nephew of C. F. Kay, local general age nt of the National Life Insurance Company of the United States. He was 29 years of age.

Funeral services for Mr. and Mrs. Belcher and their son will be conducted Thursday.

Conflicting testimony as to the condition of the plane before the fatal flight was made and as to merits of its design developed yesterday among witnesses who have been summoned by Coroner Nance to appear at the inquest tomorrow.

Charles Killefer, 1120 Flores street, vice-president of the Belcher Aerial Manufacturing Company, which built the California, declared in a statement yesterday that both Belcher and the pilot, Creeth, told him that the plane was in perfect condition before they took off.

Other experts reported yesterday that there were serious defects in the car which had been noticed during the trial flights. These they said, were: First, defective ailerons, controlling the vertical stability of the ship; second, lack of a dihedral angle in the wing spread which has a tendency automatically to right the machine when the ailerons fail to function; third, the shortness of the wings which made it necessary to fly the machine at a faster rate of speed than would have been required had they been longer; fourth, the departure from the ordinary construction when both sides of the wings were made convex instead of the usual plan of having the lower side concave and the upper convex.

In a statement issued yesterday by G. G. Budwig, president of the Professional Pilot's Association, failure of the ailerons to function properly was blamed for the wreck. Ludwig declared he saw, just before the crash, both ailerons suddenly quiver and then cease to work. The right aileron stuck downward, the left stuck upward and the machine banked over on its side and crashed to the ground, he said.

The accident was not the first the plane had suffered, according to James Webster, manager of the Rogers Airport.

"Twice before, trouble with the ailerons was experienced," he said.

About three weeks ago when the ailerons failed to work Creeth succeeded in righting the plane and bringing it safely to earth, it was stated.

Truckman Evens Matters With Badge Bandit

Harry Dunlap, badge bandit, was knocked out late yesterday afternoon by a blow on the jaw, swung by a husky truck driver who had been robbed and whose sweetheart was the victim of an attempted assault. A short time before the figured in fistic hostilities with a newspaper reporter.

The two fist battles were the principal events yesterday in one of the most hectic days in the career of the badge bandit. The truck driver who won his battle by a knockout is Ray Durke of Taft, who had called at the County Jail to identify Dunlap as the badge bandit. Durke was the companion of Miss Hattie Zellner of Lankershim on the night of July 15, 1923, when he was robbed by a bandit who displayed a badge. Miss Zellner was the victim of a brutal attempted assault and Durke was struck on the head with a blackjack and left to die.

Durke called upon Dunlap at the jail yesterday afternoon. He was accompanied by John McCrary of Lankershim, and by Deputy Sheriff Walter Hunter. Dun-

MILLIONS ASKED IN DIVORCE SUIT

Mrs. E. B. Hennessey Demands $12,000,000

Mental Cruelty is Given as Grounds for Action

Travels With 'Other Woman' Charged by Wife

Award of community property valued at $12,000,000 is asked by Mrs. Edna B. Hennessey in a suit for divorce from Thomas M. Hennessey, filed yesterday.

Association with Mrs. Bertha B. Ross by Hennessey was asserted to have caused Mrs. Hennessey the mental anguish which is the cause of the suit.

Mrs. Ross was said to be the wife of Albert G. Ross, from whom she obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce which has not yet become final.

TRIPS ASSERTED

Hennessey and Mrs. Ross made trips together to New York, San Bernardino and other points, according to the wife's complaint. Numerous visits to suburban resorts, cafes and theaters were mentioned also, a cafe near Culver City having been a favorite rendezvous, Mrs. Hennessey declared.

The Hennessey home is at 311 North Arden Boulevard, according to the inventory of community property, in which it is given a value of $22,600. Aside from this and bank accounts totaling about $50,000, the bulk of the community estate, according to Mrs. Hennessey's figures, consists of "interests in railroads which, when finally matured and carried out to a final adjustment, will have a value of approximately $12,000,000." An income of $20,000 a year is received from the community estate, the wife declared, out of which she asked temporary alimony of $1000 a month. She demanded award of the whole community estate, the law permitting such an award, in the discretion of the court, when divorce is granted on cruelty charges.

GIFTS ARE CITED

Numerous valuable gifts, including an automobile and a $900 diamond, were given Mrs. Ross by Hennessey, according to the complaint. He also gave her several thousand dollars, his wife charged.

Hennessey's association with Mrs. Ross began before her marriage to Ross in 1923, when she was known as Mrs. Bertha Holman and lived at 526 Gramercy Place, Mrs. Hennessey averred. She once found them together there, sitting on a couch in an affectionate attitude, she said.

Her husband insisted on driving past Mrs. Ross's home when he took his wife out for auto rides, she declared, and would follow Mrs. Ross and her husband out, when they chanced upon them in their car. To his wife's remonstrances, Hennessey paid no attention at all, she said, with the result that she suffered deep humiliation and distress.

NEW JURY ORDERED

Member of Panel in Trial of Yegg Suspects Talked of Case

Because one juror in the case of the People vs. Jack Black and Homer France, asserted safe-crackers, talked about the case while at luncheon, Judge Collier, on complaint of Attorney Stutsman of the defense, yesterday dismissed the panel and began preparations for another. Attorney Stutsman told the court that while standing in the hallway at the noon luncheon hour he heard the jurors discussing the case, several of them expressing the opinion that the defendants were guilty.

Black and France are being tried on five counts.

NOT COMEDIAN IN HOME

There was nothing comical about Robert Dunn in his home, even though he was rated as a first-class comedian on the screen, Mrs. Ethel C. Dunn complains in a suit for divorce filed yesterday. He cursed and reviled her, she declares, and also struck her on some occasions.

COURTHOUSE IS DRY NO MORE

Water Gushes Forth When Tunnel Workers Hit Spring on Lawn

Fears of a possible water shortage at the Courthouse as the result of lack of rainfall last winter partially was dispelled yesterday when workmen employed in excavating for the tunnel from the Hall of Records to the new Hall of Justice uncovered a hidden spring.

The water gushed forth in the tunnel, directly in front of the Courthouse entrance, in such quantity that two men were compelled to man a pump in order to prevent the excavation from becoming flooded.

A large crowd gathered on the Courthouse lawn, some of the onlookers thinking the Sheriff and District Attorney were engaged in dumping illicit liquor. This delusion was dispelled, however, when an engineer in the crowd pronounced the fluid to be mineral water. Others present suggested that the county capitalize the spring and start a health resort at the Courthouse.

WILL HAYS LEAVES ON TRIP EAST

Will Hays, liaison officer of the eastern and western motion-picture producers and distributors, left here yesterday on the California Limited for New York. The film executive will stop off for a visit in Sullivan, Ind., his home town.

Departing, Mr. Hays was genial and cryptic. "Sorry to go, and always glad to come," he declared at the station. Of his work here, Mr. Hays was unable to go into details, but declared it has been composed largely of general conferences with the members of the California Motion Picture Producers and Distributors' Association, and with inspection of the studios.

Accompanying Mr. Hays east is Maurice McKinstry, his executive assistant. Fred Beetson, western representative of the Hays organization, saw the film chief off on his return journey.

WORKMEN'S HOTEL WILL GO UP SOON

Six-Story Hostelry to be Built at Washington and Central; Cost $450,000

Plans have been completed for a new six-story workingmen's hotel to be erected on the northwest corner of Washington and Central avenue for Henry G. Voeckell, at a cost of $450,000. Architect Julius W. Krause has been commissioned to supervise plans and construction work.

The proposed building, 130 feet wide and 142 feet deep, will contain ten stories, twenty-nine offices and 275 hotel rooms, finished on the exterior with terra cotta and pressed brick. Work on the new structure is planned to start during October or November.

An Even Cake

When pouring batter into the layer cake pans, fill the sides well and, if possible, leave a slight depression in the middle. The center of a cake always bakes first and in this manner a cake straight across the top is assured.

FORESTRY CHIEF IN SHARP REPLY

Redington Answers Criticism of Fire Fighters

Says Local Chamber Offical Conservation Enemy

Advises Him to Avoid Those Who Battle Flames

A vigorous answer was forthcoming last night from United States District Forest Supervisor Paul G. Redington of San Francisco in reply to the statement made public Saturday by George P. Clements, manager of the agricultural department of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, in which Clements criticised the forest fire fighting methods of the Federal men as "woefully weak and wilfully negligent," among other things.

"A man who would issue such statements, full of fabrication, is an enemy to forest conservation," Redington was quoted as saying in dispatches received from San Francisco. "Further than that, they don't deserve comment from me. It is very unfair to those of us who are trying to handle the forest-fire situation. Personally, I advise him not to get within reach of any one of the hundreds of loyal men who have been fighting the fires in the last few weeks."

Clements, in his statement, charged Redington with failing to accept the aid of troops when they were most needed and of refusing to co-operate "in the full spirit of the word" with the county authorities.

"We are firmly convinced that the Federal District Forestry Department in California has proved itself inadequate," read an extract from the statement.

Rich Woman Is Stricken in Sea; Soon Succumbs

Miss Carolyn Davis, 45 years of age, 980 Harcourt avenue, died suddenly yesterday afternoon following a seizure earlier in the day of severe head pains while at Santa Monica. She is a daughter of the late W. W. Davis, banker of Weatherford, Tex., and had resided in Los Angeles for the last three years.

With her mother and sister, Miss Davis had driven to the beach to go surf bathing. She had just stepped into the water when she was taken with a violent headache and was assisted to a bathhouse. Dr. A. C. Weaver was summoned and gave medical aid after which the patient was removed to her home.

Shortly before 4 p.m., Miss Davis took a turn for the worse. Two physicians were called, but she succumbed before they arrived. Circulatory trouble was assigned as the direct cause of death, according to L. A. Davis, a brother.

Pierce Brothers, undertakers, notified the Coroner's office, as the physicians were unable to sign a death certificate, not having attended the patient twenty-four hours previous to death.

Funeral services will be conducted from the family residence at 5 p.m. today.

Miss Davis leaves her mother, Mrs. W. W. Davis, three brothers, L. M. Davis, and R. W. Davis of the Davis Mortgage Company, Title Insurance building, and Dr. Frederick Davis of Madison, Wis., and two sisters, Mrs. William T. Rowland of Los Angeles and Mrs. J. Warren Turner of Denver, Colo.

Real Pluck

A spinster widely known in Indianapolis has occasionally a "little touch of rheumatism," as she admits to the members of her own family; but never to the public. "I'm entirely too young to have rheumatism," she always quotes.

But to the family doctor she was more frank. She told him of the twinges of pain she had. "Then I just say," she smiled to him, 'feet hurt if you have to, but whatever you do, don't dare limp and give some one occasion to say that I'm beginning 'to get old.'"—[Indianapolis News.

DUNLAP FELLED BY HIS VICTIM

lap had been lined up against a wall with several other prisoners for the identification. Durke was instructed to walk along the line, pick out the badge bandit, and say nothing.

The husky truck driver from Taft boasts of an excellent memory. He had told the investigators that he could never forget the face of the bandit who had "sapped" him. He paused in front of Dunlap. He declared Dunlap's face was the one he had been seeking for a year. His desire for revenge overpowered him. He drew back his mighty right arm with its fist clenched and let it fly straight from the shoulder.

Dunlap caught the huge fist on the tip of the jaw. Blood spurted from Durke's hand, cut by one of Dunlap's gold teeth. The badge bandit went down, flailing his arms as he sank. He struck the floor at Durke's feet—completely knocked out. Further infliction of injury upon Dunlap was prevented when Deputy Sheriff Hunter and several jail turnkeys seized Durke's arms. Dunlap's injuries consisted of a badly swollen jaw.

DUNLAP'S THREAT

"He won't live long," Dunlap threatened as he regained consciousness. And for several hours thereafter Dunlap's only remarks consisted of threats directed at Durke. Between oaths, he threatened:

"He'll get his, don't worry. If his name gets in the papers my friends on the outside will see it. They'll hunt him down—and they'll get him!"

The earlier scene of fisticuffs occurred in a crowded elevator in the Hall of Records, shortly after Dunlap, guarded by several deputy sheriffs, had left Superior Judge Crail's courtroom.

Dunlap, handcuffed, was airing his views of a Los Angeles newspaper which he declared had not given him a "square deal." Morris Lavine, a reporter representing the newspaper he was speaking about, stepped into the elevator.

"You're the guy I'm talking about," Dunlap is quoted as having said to Lavine. And, punctuating his remarks with repeated explosions of profanity, he told Lavine to keep away from him. But the jostling passengers shoved Lavine within an arm's length of Dunlap.

The latter immediately struck at Lavine. In the excitement that followed two versions of what happened resulted. One report was that Lavine was hit on the chin.

"He never touched me," Lavine stated later. "He tried to hit me but I ducked and the blow, a glancing one, struck Deputy Sheriff Peoples on the shoulder."

Durke was not held for striking Dunlap in the County Jail. He was questioned at length by Capt. Fright of the Sheriff's homicide squad and the chief investigator in Dunlap's case.

TOLD TO APPEAR

He was later questioned by Dist.-Atty. Keyes and, though no charge was issued against him, he was instructed to appear before the county grand jury next Thursday morning to tell his story of the robbery and the attempted assault upon Miss Zellner.

Durke insisted on being arrested.

"He had a sap and a gun when he laid me cold," he said. "I only used my fists. When he did stick me up, he was gentleman enough to give me $3.

"'You'll need this for your doctor bill,' he told me. Then he clouted me. And I've been paying the doctor ever since. Ever since Dunlap knocked me unconscious I've been troubled with terrible headaches.

"Sure I hit him. I couldn't hold myself when I saw him. I want to be arrested. I want to be locked up in the same tank with him."

Dist.-Atty. Keyes heard Durke's story. He also heard Durke's story of the events of the night of July 15, 1923. At the conclusion of his conference with Durke, the District Attorney issued the following statement:

"Dunlap is the most vicious, vile and confirmed criminal that I have ever come in contact with in twenty years of legal practice."

Dist.-Atty. Keyes added that Dunlap will be indicted next Thursday, when the county grand jury meets, on six or seven additional counts, which will include robbery, criminal assault and attempted criminal assault. An indictment charging the badge bandit with murder, robbery and attempted assault was returned against Dunlap two weeks ago. Since this indictment, many other persons claiming to be victims of Dunlap have visited the Sheriff's office and have told stories of crimes committed against them by Dunlap. These charges will be included in the indictment.

The trial of Dunlap was set for August 18. Attorney Golden, representing Dunlap, asked that the trial date be set for September 1 to enable Dunlap to locate his defense witnesses. His request was denied, but he was informed that if he can show legal cause why the trial should not begin on August 18, it will be postponed for a few weeks.

Dunlap appeared in Superior Court yesterday morning for the second time since his capture and return to Los Angeles from Detroit. In this appearance he lost his first legal battle. Attorney Golden had filed a demurrer to the grand jury indictment, asking that it be set aside because offenses of various kinds were charged in the same indictment. Superior Judge Crail overruled the demurrer, the trial date was set, and Dunlap was returned to the County Jail.

French in Extensive Survey

A thousand Frenchmen are making extensive surveys of the coast and waters of France this year. Three parties are dragging the channels of the large ports and approaches thereto. One, in Quiberon Bay, a second at Brest, and a third on the north and west coasts of Ile Cotentin in the Manche.

Two other parties are at work—one on the Algerian coast, and the other in St. Malo Bay—with the view of bringing up-to-date the data on charts. This summer's work will occupy seven parties in twenty-seven vessels. Other parties are employed in distant waters.—[Science Service.

QUITE RIGHT

The man in the dock was a regular customer at the local police court and he had spent quite as much time inside jail as out. His peculiar line was breaking into shops of the smaller tradespeople in the early hours of the morning. On this occasion he was charged with breaking into a jeweler's shop, and as he stood in the dock with a constable on either side of the magistrate asked:

"Any witnesses?"

"Course not!" replied the accused with a sneer. "Why, you silly old fool, do you think that when I goes out to crack a crib I takes witnesses with me?"—[Exchange.

HUSBAND JAILED IN ALIMONY CASE

Lillian Garver

Harry Garver fell in arrears in his payments of temporary alimony to his wife, Lillian Garver, and as a result he went to jail for two days yesterday on a contempt charge.

Garver was hailed into court by his wife, who was accompanied by Alice Tipke. Mrs. Tipke herself has filed suit for divorce against her husband.

Judge Thompson, who heard the contempt case against Garver, sentenced him to two days of servitude in jail after Mrs. Garver had taken the witness stand and declared her husband never gave her any money and apparently thought he could continue in the same conduct despite the court's orders.

"He didn't give me any money while we were living together but I guess he will have to give it to me now," she remarked.

Bond Issue for More Power Is Put on Ballot

The City Council yesterday adopted the resolution formally placing on the ballot at the August 26 State-county primary election the $16,000,000 power-bond issue. Councilman Mushet cast the only dissenting vote, declaring that he was opposed to any bond issue being given to the Power Bureau until its management had been placed on an efficient, businesslike basis.

Councilman Mushet based his objections on charges of mismanagement of the $30,000,000 spent by the power bureau so far with a result that it is able to supply only 25 per cent of the peak demand.

"If it has spent, or mis-spent, $30,000,000 to date and has only 25 per cent of the needed power at the peak demand, and if it spends $16,000,000, the proceeds of this bond issue, plus $9,000,000 so-called earnings, it will have sunk $55,000,000 in this enterprise," he averred. "And will it have more power? No, not one kilowatt. Will it need more power? Yes, probably twice as much.

"The best business in the world may be spoiled by poor management. I need, and the taxpayer ought to need, a great many questions truthfully answered before voting $16,000,000 more bonds to the same management."

Parents Assert Pupils Slapped; Quiz Demanded

Charges that pupils at the Woodrow Wilson Junior High School at Sawtelle were slapped by teachers were constantly "nagged for money," forced to give so-called I. O. U.'s, and were refused refunds on locker keys, were contained in a petition laid before the Board of Education last night and signed by scores of parents of the children.

The petition was referred to the board's committee on teachers and schools. The petitioners requested that the matter be investigated.

No specific instances are related in the various charges made. What is meant by "I. O. U.'s" the children were said to be forced to give was not known by members of the board. One charge was that ex-students were permitted to loiter about the school grounds smoking cigarettes.

As to the locker key fees, the petition stated that children were required to deposit 50 cents for a key and when they asked for the return of the money they were told it could not be returned "because there were no funds." A $300 deficit in the students' fund was cited, the asserted comment being that the deficit was merely to be carried over to the new Warren G. Harding School instead of being straightened out.

IGNORANCE AND ARGUMENT

The late Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz, the electrical expert, hated ignorance.

"Ignorance," he once said in a Schenectady address, "is an armor you can't pierce. A geologist one day found a laborer digging flints from chalk. Knowing the local legends and beliefs, the geologist said:

"'Do you think those flints grow?'

"'No, sir,' said the laborer, 'I don't think nothing about it. I know they grow.'

"The geologist laughed.

"'Take one home, then,' he said, 'put it on the mantel and see how much it grows.'

"'All right, I will,' said the laborer, 'and you do the same with a potater, and see how much it grows.'"—[Detroit Free Press.

DEFEATED BY "SILENT ZONE"

An old battle rule is "March toward the cannon fire." History records that in 1870 a French division at the battle of Forback was obeying this rule when, suddenly, it heard nothing more and marched back where it started.

There the cannon firing was heard again, but it was too late, the troops had been deceived by one of those strange zones of silence. Now it is thought Napoleon's defeat at Waterloo, due to the delay of his Gen. Grouchy, may have been caused by Grouchy getting into one of these zones.—[Kansas City Star.

and headquarters of the rival gangs.

In the gun battle Saturday, the rival gangs fled in two automobiles before the police arrived in response to calls sent in by terror-stricken citizens. The only clew found was a straw hat dropped by one of the gunmen in the flight. None of the gunmen was believed to have been wounded, although the street in the vicinity of the battle was literally covered with glass from the shattered windshields of the automobiles.

Later the detectives arrested C. J. (Irish) Hudson, who is said to have been implicated in the activities of the trio. He is being held also on a charge of suspicion of robbery. Hudson, when told his asserted companions had confessed, refused to talk, the police said.

DROWNING PLOT COUP NETS FOUR

derstanding with the authorities, ordered all passengers below decks because of a supposed heavy sea, created by running in the trough of the sea. By a prearranged plan, Mrs. Wiley suddenly told her husband that she had left her handbag on the upper deck and Wiley started for it. He was told by Capt. McAfee to be careful. Then Mrs. Wiley stood between her husband and the other passengers and spread out her cloak. As soon as she received a signal from her husband, she screamed and shouted that he was overboard. Wiley had thrown two chairs overboard on one side and his wife's handbag and his initialed straw hat over the other, to give the impression that a sudden lurch of the boat had thrown him out.

Capt. McAfee, knowing the plans, had only allowed ten passengers on his boat. In a moment everything was excitement. The boat stopped. Two young women from Pasadena declared that they saw Wiley come up and go down three times. Benjamin Doll, 744 East Forty-eighth street, foreman in the construction department of the Southern California Telephone Company, began to remove his heavier clothes, preparatory to diving and aiding the supposedly drowning man.

MANY TEARS FLOW

Mrs. Doll screamed wildly and asked someone to stop her husband. Mrs. Wiley, living up to beforehand plans, is said to have conjured a deathly pale face and numerous tears, which flowed for two hours. She is said to have been an actress. Capt. McAfee recovered Wiley's hat, the two chairs and the handbag. The handbag had been fixed so that it would float. After a search the launch returned to Avalon.

Wiley, in the meantime, had dropped into a hatch and hid in an unoccupied cabin. When the launch arrived at Avalon Detective King loudly told Investigators Riemer and Ramsey that the man had been drowned. Capt. McAfee took the Flyer to its anchorage, away from the dock and left the boat. Then his engineer took Wiley in a skiff to the island. Wiley disguised himself with a cap and dark glasses. He was always followed.

Then, followed by Riemer and Ramsey, he boarded a late steamer to Wilmington. There the investigators found George and Hughes waiting.

PLACED IN CUSTODY

All three were then arrested. Mrs. Wiley was followed by Detective King to her home. After her husband, Hughes and George were arrested, Ramsey and Riemer went to Mrs. Wiley and questioned her. She was then arrested and lodged in the County Jail. On the request of her husband, she made a full statement, and Wiley did likewise. She said that she and her husband opposed the plan, but that George insisted it was safe. It was then discovered that Wiley's right leg is wooden; he lost a limb during the war. It was stated by Mrs. Wiley that an insurance doctor had examined Wiley and had not discovered the wooden leg. The Wileys stated that George did not tell them that he intended to collect $10,000 additional for accidental death.

Mrs. Wiley stated that a Greek at Venice had been asked to stage the fake drowning, and then put Wiley on a rum-runner and land him in Canada, but that the Greek demanded $500 in advance, so the deal fell through.

It had been arranged that if Wiley missed the last boat to Wilmington he was to take an airplane. Riemer and Ramsey also had engaged an airplane.

But, as Mrs. Wiley says, her second marriage to her husband did not take place, for she is in jail and so is he.

You Read Them, Too

By FORD A. DERE, Chief Meter Reader

AN EXPERT can read a gas or electric meter as far away as he can see the pointers on the dial. He does not need to see the figures around the circles.

Our sixty meter readers take pride in the quality of their work, and strive to have the best possible record in the monthly bulletin of "errors", "locks" and "misses" which are posted in the department. One of our men, Mr. Blomgren, has a record of 23 consecutive months without an error in reading.

Among the more common difficulties which the meter reader runs into are vicious dogs, high fences, new lawns, and flowers and shrubs growing around the meter doors. Screens, windows, cracks and knot-holes which would be obstacles to an ordinary mortal, are not obstacles to a meter reader; they are conveniences!

L. A. SERVICE wishes its consumers all knew how to read their own meters, and has printed the instructions in a little book called "Gas Talk", which also gives other useful information. Your copy will be sent right away if you ask for it on a postcard.

Visitors are welcome at our Gas Works and Electric Works each Tuesday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock

You can bank on brick

ONLY the rich man can afford to use flimsy material in building his home. He is able to meet the constant drain of repairs and replacements, high insurance and painting charges.

If you are determined to make every dollar count and want to build for tomorrow as well as today—you will build your new home of brick, the fireproof, weatherproof, timeproof, expense-proof building material.

As an example of brick economy—the prize-winning house shown above can be built for slightly over $7,000—substantial, roomy, beautifully finished and appointed—yet the brick costs only $419!

Send today for a copy of our new home-builders handbook, showing over 50 interesting designs and floor plans of California brick bungalows for which we can supply working drawings ready for your contractor's estimate. A copy of the book will be sent you postpaid for 50c.

DECISION IN LUTHER SUIT IS DEFERRED

Trial Judge to be Given Motion to File Amended Complaint Against White

Judge Needham yesterday reserved a decision on a motion of Ray Howard, attorney to file an amended complaint in the suit for $100,000 damages brought by Ann Luther, film actress, against J. F. White, mining man and motion-picture producer, for asserted breach of contract.

Howard stated he wished to amend the bill in the action to set forth more details of the asserted contract, whereby White was said to have agreed to star Miss Luther in four pictures, to cost $100,000 or more. The attorney also said he wished to set forth a separate cause of action for damages on the ground that White, in breaking the contract, had caused Miss Luther to receive undesirable publicity in the press. He said that under the contract White would have been called upon to provide a certain amount of favorable publicity for the actress.

The motion was resisted by Leonard J. Meyberg, attorney for White, who said he wished to go to trial in the case August 4. If an amended complaint were filed, he said, it would necessitate additional expense, require the revision of depositions now on file in the case, and probably cause further delays in court.

Judge Needham reserved action on the motion so that Howard might place the matter before Judge Valentine, in whose department the case is scheduled to go to trial.

MRS. MAY IS RELEASED IN SANITY TEST

Charge of Husband in Alienation Suit Cause of Examination Order

Mrs. Bertrude May, 42 years of age, 3970 Brighton avenue, who was sent to the Psychopathic Hospital for observation five days ago following testimony of her former husband, Dr. H. Cameron May, 1336 Chateau street, was declared sane yesterday by the lunacy commission and ordered released.

Mrs. May's incarceration came within twenty-four hours after she had filed suit against Countess Josephine Perrier, asking $250,000 for alienation of the doctor's affections.

In an appearance before Judge Archbald, Dr. May testified that his wife suffered from hallucinations of persecution, was desperately jealous and had threatened violence many times to his female patients.

Yesterday Drs. Aaron J. Rosanoff and Martin S. Carter, alienists, testified before Judge Guerin that in their opinion Mrs. May was sane.

Mrs. May procured an interlocutory decree of divorce slightly less than a year ago.

WIFE ASKS DIVORCE OF FICKEISEN

Property Settlement is Provided for in Case of Wealthy Pasadenans

Margaret Louise Fickeisen yesterday filed suit for divorce against Algernon Gilliam Fickeisen, wealthy Pasadena business man. She charges cruelty.

Appended to the divorce complaint was a property settlement effected between the couple. This provides that the husband continue to pay premiums on two insurance policies of $25,000 each in favor of his wife and their two daughters, Eileen Elizabeth, 16 years of age, and Margaret Louise, 14; that he pay his wife $4000 a year and also that he pay the rent on their Pasadena home and their summer home at La Jolla.

In addition, the agreement provides that Fickeisen turn over to his wife one-third of all the stock he holds in various concerns and that another third be turned over to the children. He also agrees to send his two daughters to a boarding school in California and defray their expenses there and also pay all their traveling expenses. The agreement, however, becomes void in case Mrs. Fickeisen remarries after obtaining a decree.

Threat Is Laid to Husband in Alimony Fight

Charging that her husband had forced her at pistol's point to sign an agreement to marry another man named Miller, Mrs. Edna Elizabeth Thayer, who several days ago filed suit for divorce from Frank N. Thayer, yesterday petitioned Judge Thompson for alimony and custody of her two children.

During the hearing Thayer testified, and offered in support of his testimony that of a Long Beach detective, that his wife had confessed to him intimate relations with Miller. The detective, on the stand later, said that Mrs. Thayer had told him she loved Miller more than her husband.

Mrs. Thayer, in cross testimony, averred her husband was a gambler, had no visible means of support, and formerly was a gun runner on the Mexican border.

Judge Thompson ordered the children, who were sent to Arizona some time ago at the father's behest, brought before him this morning, indicating that he would place them in charge of a neutral party. He also will rule on the alimony question at today's session.

SECOND-STREET BORE SEES FIRST SPEEDER

The now famous Second-street tunnel saw its first speeder and first arrest yesterday. The speeder-prisoner was Mrs. Lillian Knight, an actress. She was halted by Motorcycle Officer Bandle while she was tearing through the bore at a twenty-five-mile-an-hour clip. In Police Judge Crawford's court she pleaded guilty. The court announced it would impose sentence tomorrow.

Woolwine Takes Turn for Better in Paris Illness

The condition of Thomas Lee Woolwine, former District Attorney, now seriously ill in Paris, was reported improved yesterday in press dispatches and cablegrams.

"Hemorrhages arrested. Hopeful," read a cablegram received by James Woolwine, a brother, from Mrs. Woolwine, who is at the bedside of her husband.

Press dispatches declared that physicians were hopeful that the crisis had been passed, and intimated that the patient's condition was better than it had been for several days. It was also announced after a consultation of two great French specialists with surgeons from the American Hospital, that his recovery seems assured.

The former prosecutor has suffered from a hemorrhagic condition. He has been kept absolutely immobile in care of his wife, two nurses and three specialists, Dr. Gilbert, chief liver specialist at Paris Central Hospital—Hotel Dieu—has succeeded in stopping the hemorrhagic condition and it is believed that the attorney can safely be moved to a hospital within a week, it was stated.

POISONED BEEFSTEAK DISTRIBUTOR SOUGHT

Wilshire police yesterday were searching for a man who for the past several nights has been distributing poisoned beefsteak in the Wilshire district. Complaints so far have been received from more than a dozen persons, including T. H. Harrington, 300-A South New Hampshire street; Mrs. R. E. De-Haven, 963 South Dewey street; E. H. Gillespie, 974 El Moreno street; Joseph Shamada, 1020 South Dewey street, and Lester Turner, 987 South Dewey street. No animals are reported to have been killed by the poison.

SOVIET FINANCE

The soviet government in Russia will recognize former obligations of Russia in exchange for a long-term loan for a fat sum. The leaders do not propose to pay anything, but if given another dollar now they will tell their grandchildren to pay the dollar already owed. Soviet finance is inclined to be casual and informal.

ON WHEELS

Even at the cut rate the revenue from motor licenses in this State has exceeded $6,000,000 this year and the gasoline tax will shine up several hundred miles of good roads. There are now 1,200,000 autos registered in this State, which is more than are found in New York, with a population nearly three times as great as our own. We beat the world on wheels—which is the decisive way.

CLIMBING FISH

Big Bill Thompson, former Mayor and political boss of Chicago, is leaving on an expedition to the South Seas in quest of those strange denizens of the deep who are reported as often leaving the waters for the treetops. He might as well stay at home to witness this wonder. There are lots of poor fish in Chicago who have had to take to the timber because of the exactions of the political machine.

SPLENDID SPENDERS

In the last eight years the American people have paid more than $100,000,000,000 in taxes. The heavy end of this vast burden of taxation was local and virtually applied by the people themselves. They vote tax obligations upon themselves that would stagger a Hercules. They will doll up the home town if it takes the last dollar in the sack. Every tiny tot in the cradle will pay $1 a month in taxes, even if it never learns the reason. We are the greatest mass of volunteer taxpayers the world ever knew. It is well enough to possess this courage and fortitude, but at the same time it is well to listen to the occasional voice raised in the name of economy and thrift.

WHY GIRLS LEAVE HOME

Why do girls leave home? The bureau of missing persons in New York traces an average of nearly 1000 wandering youngsters a month and about one-half of these are girls. Many of them leave because of what they call harsh treatment at home, but this is more apt to be carelessness than harshness. Flappers are growing up with the idea that they must live their own lives—whatever that is. They assert that they are not understood by their parents and, therefore, they cut the home tie by packing a suit case and slipping out the back way. When every child has a latchkey and there are no questions or restrictions over hours home gradually ceases to be home and becomes merely a filling station.

THE DEADLY CIGARETTE

Lucy Gaston Page deserts her text long enough to vent another thrill of warning. She assures our young folk that there are no less than eighteen different poisons in a puny little cigarette. One of these tiny tags may look harmless, but it is a potential Big Bertha, ready to blow America to shreds. Included in the eighteen poisonous perils of the puffs are furfural, which is declared to be fifty times more deadly than alcohol, and carbon monoxide, which is capable of conferring the sleep of death with hardly an instant's warning. The other sixteen may not be as fatal or obnoxious, but they are present and ready to claim their terrible toll. So it may be seen that the reckless wight who touches off a trifling tobacco torch is flirting with death. The flapper who indulges a cigarette may as well be measured for her shroud. Playing with rattlesnakes and pythons is innocent amusement when compared with smoking cigarettes. It takes 70,000,000,000 cigarettes to keep America going this year, but it can't go very far with eighteen brands of poison in its veins.

HELLO, KING!

It must have been a rather eventful day when 1000 or more amiable and well-caparisoned Americans shook hands with the King and Queen of England and the Prince of Wales. It must be understood that it is not the regular habit of a royal highness to press the fins of his people by wholesale. Handshaking is more of an American vogue than a British habit—at least in America it is carried to excess, while in England it is but courteous practice. But on this occasion, when an army of American lawyers and counsellors were gathered to meet their British confreres, royalty bade them all to the palace grounds for a friendly greeting and a cordial grasp of the hand. Men who had shaken the paw of John L. Sullivan became still prouder as they gripped the digits of England's King. It was really an international affair and should make for the further amity of our rumpled earth. In spite of some of the politicians, the relations between the English-speaking peoples on opposite sides of the seas are of the most fraternal character and there is definite respect and regard here for the British royal family. So far also as the Prince of Wales is concerned the Americans positively love him—especially the girls

TROUBLED OIL

Mariners found half a century ago that oil would calm troubled waters; but the world is still waiting for the genius who has invented a means to calm troubled oil. It is only within the present generation that the potentialities of petroleum have been appreciated.

Governments have recognized its uses, alike for national aggression and national defense. Oil is the new fuel of the navies of the world, and the country with great petroleum resources possesses a tremendous advantage over the one whose territory contains no considerable oil deposits.

Japan has been negotiating for months a treaty with soviet Russia which would include recognition of the soviet dictatorship. The prime motive of the Japanese is now recognized to be an attempt to secure oil-bearing territory.

Fate seems to have played Japan a scurvy trick. When the Japanese demanded and received the southern half of the island of Sakhalin they were not aware that the island contained great petroleum deposits and that they were all in the northern half. The southern part was richer in agricultural resources and it was for this reason that the Japs chose that part.

But it has developed within the last three years that the northern part of the island contains a great oil area. And the malicious soviets, in order to frustrate any Japanese aggression, gave a concession covering practically the whole of the territory to the Sinclair interests. One of the soviet diplomats told recently why this was done.

Japan still occupies the northern half of the island and steadfastly refuses to withdraw. The soviets look to the United States to protect the interests of its nationals. They felt that they were not strong enough to expel the Japs or to keep them from developing the oil districts of Sakhalin; but they figured that by giving the oil concessions to an American company they would enlist the support of the United States government in clearing the Japs out of the northern half of Sakhalin.

The Sinclair concession contains the provision that if the United States government should not have recognized the government of soviet Russia within five years of the date of signature the concession should be canceled.

President Coolidge's attitude on soviet recognition has caused the Moscow dictators to despair of obtaining this objective; so they have turned their attention again to Japan; and, according to dispatches from the Far East, they are willing to consider turning over, for a proper consideration, the northern half of Sakhalin. At the same time they are reported to have informed our State Department that, if it will recognize soviet Russia, the soviets in turn will refuse to grant to Japan any oil concessions or oil-bearing territory.

In his December message to Congress the President set forth certain things that the soviets must do before recognition would be granted. They included recognition of the obligations of the Russian government to the United States; restoration of and indemnification for American property confiscated or nationalized by the soviet regime and cessation of propaganda in the United States for a world revolution.

The soviets are not inclined to grant any of these concessions. There has been no progress toward conservatism in the Russian government since the passing of Lenin. According to late reports, it is inclined toward greater radicalism.

Under present conditions there is but scant prospect of American recognition. Meanwhile the Japanese army of occupation in Northern Sakhalin has expelled the representatives of the Sinclair interests and the Japanese government is reported to have subsidized Japanese companies preparing to develop the Sakhalin oil territory.

This is but one of many instances in which the United States government is urged to defend the rights of American investors in oil fields in foreign lands. The question of oil has caused more complications within the last three or four years than all other international questions combined, possibly excepting restricted immigration.

Needless to say, perhaps, the soviets could not understand the motives underlying the foreign policy of our government. They expected it to be motived by self-interest and they looked to the United States to enter a combination to keep the Japanese government from gaining possession of oil-bearing territory. The word justice has no place in the soviet lexicon.

CHARGE THEM TO PROHIBITION

Stand up, Prohibition, and answer to the following indictment and accept judgment on the truth or falsity of the charges.

You are in the first place accused of being responsible to a great extent for the problem of congested traffic that is today the bugbear of every large city government in America. Since the United States went dry the automobile industry has flourished here to such an extent that nearly 80 per cent of the motor cars in the world are owned and driven by Americans. Had you not abolished the saloon and diverted the millions of dollars from the drink traffic to the street traffic we might still be staggering on in our cups instead of trundling along in our cars.

You are also charged with the appalling attendance of a pleasure-loving people at the thousands of motion-picture theaters. To such an extent have you contributed to the dependency of the American family on the bright lights along film row that today the United States has an almost worldwide monopoly on the producing of moving pictures. Fathers of families who once spent their evenings and their wages at the corner saloon now escort their wives and children to the nearest picture theater. Thus you have made Hollywood possible and greatly worried many minds with the question of public censorship.

Another evil to be laid indirectly to your influence is the overcrowding of our schools and universities. Boys and girls, whose fathers were financially unable to give them an education in the good old beer and whisky days, are now attending the higher halls of learning and scholarship. These are democratizing our classic standards and robbing the university of its once-cherished tradition of exclusiveness, besides increasing the burdens of our teachers and professors.

Again you are indicted for aiding and abetting extravagance in the personal habits of our de-alcoholized citizenry. Millions of people, who never before had an extra dollar, today have surplus money in the handling of which they have little experience. Through the joy afforded by such unexpected prosperity the boys and girls of the nation have entered an era of jazz and merriment and open frolic that was impossible in the former wet period, when husbands and brothers took their revels in masculine inebriety over pots of Pilsener and three fingers of straight whisky behind accommodating swing doors.

Finally you have incurred the animosity of the internationalists by increasing the efficiency of American labor so that the European worker, freed from these shackles on his personal liberty, finds the world's markets are being gradually absorbed by his Yankee competitors. Moreover, in making American conditions so attractive you have caused bitter resentment in the heart of the alien who longs to be admitted to partake in the rigors and restrictions demanded of him by our Eighteenth Amendment. In addition you have produced the paradox that foreigners who declaim your interference with "personal liberty" are breaking their necks to enter the land where that "personal liberty" is denied them.

One more count. By enabling a multitude to invest money in homes and city lots, money that previously was absorbed by the licensed liquor interests, you have created a boom in real estate—especially in Los Angeles—causing excitement and confusion and so creating a new form of intoxication.

Gentlemen of the jury, you have heard the case against the defendant. Is there any punishment you can devise commensurate with the enormity of his many offenses?

EMOTIONAL AUTOISTS

Traffic safety is perhaps the most difficult problem in every city of America. Its solution depends not so much on laws and ordinances and restrictions and prohibitions as on the human factor in the equation. The mental quality of the average auto driver and pedestrian must, after all, determine the increase or decrease in the number of street accidents.

With this idea in view the George Washington University has conducted a number of tests to determine what qualities are most desirable and what defects most detrimental to a good auto pilot.

The tests included all those usually applied for deciding driver's licences. There were also physical, general intelligence and psychological tests on an enlarged and comprehensive scale. The conclusion was somewhat unexpected. The most important qualification, in the competence of an auto pilot, is his degree of "emotional efficiency."

Briefly, inability to control the emotions is more common in automobile drivers than any physical or mental defect. In this respect a greater number fell short than in any other single particular.

For this reason they held that a man is generally more reliable than a woman at the wheel of a motor car. On this point, however, there is room for argument. The old convention that regarded woman as essentially the emotional sex has received some pretty hard knocks since woman has entered into spheres of activity once considered the prerogative of the male sex.

Nevertheless, it would be well if both men and women auto drivers were trained to keep their nerves from jumping when they unexpectedly come up against a difficult traffic situation that called for cool and prompt action. Without a doubt the over-emotional individual, whether auto driver or pedestrian, is responsible for a great many of our too-prevalent street accidents.

A FAT ECONOMIST

According to the civil-service calendar, the government is in need of a senior economist at a salary of $5200 a year. It is not made altogether plain what a senior economist must do, but the pay gives forth a cheery sound. If a senior economist is showing Uncle Sam the way to economy he is doing fairly well by himself in a monetary way. It may be that we are expected to pay a stiff price for our economy. That is the way it usually works out. But being a senior economist is not a bad sort of a job, even in these days of bigger salaries. Maybe it would be a fine thing to start in as a junior economist and work up.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

Bohemia's Saviors

The famous Czecho-Slovak legionaries have had their first reunion. Prague has been filled with a motley crowd of warriors during the past week. For some of the veterans wore the uniform of the French chasseurs, others of the Italian bersaglieri and others again were garbed in the sheepskin coats of the Serbian armies. Many of the legionaries have only been home for a short time. Ever since the close of the war they have been trickling into Czecho-Slovakia, which they left when it was still the Kingdom of Bohemia. President Masaryk gave the legionaries a royal welcome. He rightfully pointed out that they had been instrumental in building the new republic on the ruins of the old Austrian Empire and made it possible for Czecho-Slovakia to be one of the first countries in Europe to regain prosperity after the war.

America's Renaissance

The time is not far distant when the United States will be a country of singers and composers, says the Indian baritone, Caupolican, and they will build up a real native music. Not Indian native, to be sure, for, as Caupolican himself explains, the Indians were not emotionalists, they were warriors. "They were never moved by a song of love. If an Indian wanted a woman he did not go and sing to her, he simply took her," he explains. A great German composer said more than twenty-five years ago: "Those Americans can do anything they want; some day they'll produce a greater music than we were ever able to create." Such movements must be spontaneous and spring from the heart and soul of the people, otherwise they would be artificial and wither away in no time.

At All Reliable Druggists'

"Thou shalt disembowel a yellow frog, mix its gall in a curd and take blood from a pig's heart and pour it into his (a man's) eyes." These words, puzzling in their original Babylonian cuneiform script, have been deciphered. They were written in brittle clay tablets found in Babylonian excavations and some of Europe's greatest philologists have spent months in rendering them intelligible. In addition to the above inscription there are 20,000 more tablets all covered with cuneiform writing and all of a medical nature, so reports tell us. From these findings it would seem that a certain classic writer, whose acquaintance we made in our school days, was somewhat wrong when he caused us to translate his observations to the effect that the Babylonians had no physicians. They seem to have had physicians, all right, but we would advise you to disregard their intricate, though interesting, prescription quoted above if your eyes should happen to trouble you.

RIPPLING RHYMES

MODERN MARVELS

The world is full of wonders I'm glad I've lived to see, before the Reaper sunders this happy life and me. I've lived to see men travel as swift as lightning stroke in cars that kick up gravel and leave a trail of smoke. And no one ever bothers to think of olden days that saw our patient fathers behind their plodding bays. The might of science reaches around me everywhere; I hear great songs and speeches come sifting through the air, the comic and the tragic, the spiel by frenzy warmed—I've lived to see the magic of radio performed. My good old Uncle Peter, he died long, long ago; the angels watch him teeter where Eden's roses grow; had any person told him such marvels would arise, I wonder who could hold him, for he detested lies. I often wonder greatly what long-dead men would say if they, severe and stately, could from the churchyard stray and hear the purring, sighing of countless motor cars and see the airmen flying among the clouds and stars? I often wonder vainly what sights my eyes might view if I should leave, insanely, my grave beneath the yew, when I've been calmly sleeping a hundred years or three; the outcome of my peeping would sure astonish me!

THIS IS THE DAY

Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution, known as the "Reconstruction Amendment," was proclaimed by President Johnson in the year 1868. It had been ratified by twenty-three Northern States. It was rejected by Delaware, Kentucky, Maryland and ten Confederate States. California did not take any action. Subsequently, under pressure by the "reconstruction" State administrations the ten Southern States ratified, thus giving the amendment more than the required three-fourths majority.

LETTERS TO The Times

A Popular Movement

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In my judgment, nothing of greater significance has transpired in recent years than the resolution of the moving-picture producers to furnish only clean and wholesome pictures for the screen hereafter.

This is the thing for which the right-thinking people of every community have been hoping and praying ever since moving pictures have been a factor in the life of the world.

Acknowledged to be the most potent agent in popular education ever devised, the moving picture, aided by every device that fixes the attention, charms the mind and enthralls the soul, has been so largely dominated by evil suggestion as to have rendered it, in the opinion of many, an instrument of harm rather than an agent of good.

If this new movement, brought about no doubt by the general and persistent protest of the lovers of virtue, truth and moral beauty, can be effectively realized the rising generation of this and every other country will receive an inspiration heretofore unequaled in the development of character through public educational channels; and our schools as well as our family circles will feel the power of a great moral and mental uplift.

THE MOSQUITO-FISH (GAMBUSIA AFFINIS)

BY DAVID STARR JORDAN

A good many little fishes will devour mosquito larva or "wigglers" whenever they find them, but most of them prefer to live in clear waters, while mosquitoes lay their eggs only in water which is stagnant. There is, however, one little top-minnow willing to meet mosquitoes on their own ground, as it were, devouring them with such great enthusiasm that it is appropriately called the mosquito-fish.

These little creatures reach a length of two and one-half inches, the males being smaller and relatively scarce. It is nearly plain greenish in color, with large scales, a flattish head and small mouth. The top of the head usually shows a small silvery spot or streak. Several different species are known, swarming in every small pond, sluggish brook or gutter in the lowlands from Southern Virginia to Southern Illinois and to the warmer parts of Mexico. The name gambusia is a modification of the Spanish gambusino, which expresses the most trifling sort of fish. When an angler catches nothing at all he is said in Cuba to be "fishing for gambusinos." In the southern lowlands, where little top-minnows, killifishes and gambusinos swarm, there are several much smaller than gambusia, some barely an inch long, and generally very brightly colored. As this whole tribe are very hardy they are becoming more and more valued as aquarium fish, being much more lively and interesting than the conventional goldfish. The gambusia and several of the others are especially interesting, as their eggs are hatched internally and the young are born alive, six or eight to the brood, as a rule, each little one within a couple of days ready to go after mosquitoes.

Some twenty years ago Hawaii was sorely beset by mosquitoes, not the sort which bear malaria, but the annoying big singing kind brought over by whalers in water barrels from Alaska. The government set aside a considerable sum for a search for mosquito killers. I was asked to direct this work and to that end I sent a Stanford student, Mr. Alvin Seale (now superintendent of the Steinhart Aquarium at San Francisco) to New Orleans to try out certain species of fishes.

There was yellow fever in New Orleans at the time and Mr. Seale went to Galveston instead. I instructed him to test a big "killifish" (fundulus grandis,) six inches long; a very handsome "top-minnow" (mollienesia latipinna) with a banner-like dorsal fin colored like a peacock's tail; and the little dull-colored gambusia. Being very hardy, all of the lot reached Honolulu safely and were put in aquaria, each with a lot of mosquito wigglers.

The fundulus showed but mild interest, eating mosquitoes leisurely, as he would angleworms. The mollienesias was also not excited and showed a vegetarian disposition. The gambusias leaped instantly on their quarry, clearing the aquarium almost at once and demanding more of the same. They had found the joy of their lives.

From Hawaii they have been introduced into Formosa and the Philippines and no doubt into Southern China and Japan. The Japanese have a little top-minnow in their rice ditches, a fish they call medaka. It eats mosquitoes, but apparently the gambusia could "give him 100 and beat him every time."

The State Fish Commission has now a pool of gambusias at Sacramento and will soon be prepared to distribute them. In garden lily pools they are indispensable. They devour not only mosquitoes, but other insects. I have seen them leap out of the waters to seize flies creeping along on the margin of their preserves.

with the caption "Outings for a Dime." The text set forth the multitude of rides to the various parks and resorts in the Windy City that might be had for a nickel out and a nickel back.

Perhaps the Los Angeles Railway might develop some very good business by a similar advertising campaign, particularly if they were able to work out a plan whereby through cars at stated intervals might run over the various lines thus obviating the transfer that is so annoying to the parents with several children and the usual basket of eats. Very truly yours,

Wants Teeth in It

LOS ANGELES, July 23.—(To the Editor of The Times:) The writer assumes that there is no acute need for the conservation of power. To an uninformed person like myself there appears to be no real effort to enforce such conservation. If I am correctly informed small shop owners in outlying districts have been forced to cut their window lights during evening business hours, while in the downtown sections no restrictions seem to be enforced.

If authority exists to enforce conservation it should be impartially enforced. If no such authority exists conservation should be made by public sentiment.

"BEBE," THE PET
JAY AT MT. LOWE

Probably the best-known bird in the world is "Bebe," a mountain jay, who lives at Mt. Lowe, California. Bebe is truly a wonder, not one that has been caught, confined and tamed, for lives in the trees or bushes about a half-mile from Alpine Tavern and helps himself to his meals and rear his families, just as any other jay. But he depends for his living upon the peanuts fed him by his friends.

He is a gorgeous fellow, with brilliant blue plumage, except on his breast and part of his back, where his feathers are a soft gray. He is not crested. Despite the fact his name his family bears, he is quite able.

About four years ago some one had the patience to stand still and coax him a little nearer each time to eat the peanuts scattered for him until finally he lost all fear of the human and would eat from the hand stretched hand. Now all that is necessary to bring him in to a point on the trail near his home and call, "Bebe! Bebe!" with one's hand outstretched with the shelled peanuts in it.

If he is not very hungry he will call and call in answer to his call, then fly a little nearer and light on a bush, then a little nearer and nearer, calling all the while, and flying to one's shoulder and then alighting on one's hand, where he stays until he cracks his bill full. He will then fly away to feed his mate, his half-grown sisters, the birdies in the nest, or bury the nuts and come back for more. If it is his first meal of the day, however, he comes with a whirl of blue wings, and a call, lights immediately on the outstretched hand and eats greedily as long as the food lasts.

The hostess of the tavern is proud of Bebe's accomplishments and greets every clear morning. Most mornings are clear in Southern California. Guests return year after year, and over a day or two usually succeed in coaxing him to their hands, and if they are quiet either he or Bebe is hungry they soon succeed, so that in a year's time crowds of people see him eat his meals and scores feel that he has friends in every part of the world, who remember him in many ways. One woman said that on her fourth visit to Mt. Lowe she would always look forward with great pleasure to feeding Bebe.

Other jays, seeing Bebe get such titbits every day, become quite tame near, but Bebe flies at them in fury and chases them away. He is very jealous.

Mt. Lowe is a well-known mountain resort in the Los Angeles National Forest Reserve, where for many years no hunting has been allowed. In fact, a gunshot is never heard. Bebe is a wonderful example of what tame our little friends of the air become when encouraged and not frightened by firearms.—Written for Jane McIlwaine in Outdoor Animals.

No more polishing!

For Women

How often do you scour and rub the polished metal surfaces in your home? They soon get dull and spotted. But in homes where Izen is used housewives need polish but once a year!

Think how much tedious labor Izen could save you. It takes only a few minutes to finish your silver plate, loving cups, bathroom fixtures, door plates, chandeliers and other polished metals with Izen.

Izen dries in 10 minutes. It forms a transparent, invisible protective film for polished surfaces. Tarnish and corrosion penetrate an Izen finish. Izen will keep everything with undimmed brightness and beauty.

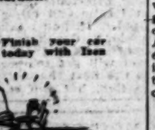
Use 75c for a bottle of Izen and a fine camel's hair brush. Then you would buy polish. The Izen eliminates the need

For Men

What does it cost to keep the bright metal—at your home, on your car and in your office—shined up? Think of the hours of tiresome polishing. Save that expensive time by finishing all those bright metals with Izen. Then there will be no need of polishing for a season or more!



Salt air can't corrode Izen-ed metal.

Izen forms a hard, transparent finish on shining surfaces. It defies salt air, rain or heat. It prevents rust and tarnish.

Finish your car today with Izen

Try Izen today on your car. A 75c bottle, with free brush, will cover all the nickled parts. Then they won't get rusty and dull and need frequent polishing, as before.

Then protect all other metal surfaces at your home or office. Brass name plates, musical instruments, light switches—once you apply Izen they will need no polishing to keep them shining.

Why polish? Izen will keep it bright for a year!

MAYOR VETOES NEW MILK RULE

Extra Sanitation Plan Held Sure to Boost Price

Danger of Boycotting Some Dealers Also Seen

Council is Expected to Trim and Return Measure

The new milk ordinance enacted by the City Council last week to force the adoption of more thorough-going sanitary measures in the handling and sale of milk and milk products was vetoed yesterday by Mayor Cryer. The action was taken by the Mayor on the grounds that the new ordinance would increase the price of milk and milk products here, which, he said, already are higher than in some Coast cities, and that it would serve in effect to boycott some milk dealers.

Particular objection was expressed by the Mayor in his message returning the ordinance to the Council to the provision requiring that all Grade A pasteurized milk must be pasteurized twenty-four hours after production.

This requirement was found by Mayor Cryer to be unnecessary. It also would tend, he said, to exclude from the city a large available supply of milk. Such a restriction, too, he said, no doubt would result in increasing the price of milk and its products.

Passage of the ordinance was urged by City Health Commissioner Powers. Because of the importance attached to it by city health officials it is expected that the Council will eliminate the provisions to which the Mayor objects and resubmit it for his ratification.

The ordinance vigorously was opposed before the Council by delegations of San Joaquin and Imperial Valley milk producers, who declared that it would drive them out of the local market.

Mayor Cryer yesterday also signed the electrical contractors' ordinance aimed against irresponsible operators in this business. The new ordinance provides that contractors must post a bond of $1000 before engaging in business here. The bond is to be posted with the City Engineer, thus giving this official greater control over such contractors.

Mrs. John Willard Clawson (right) and Grace Travers

THE delightful experience of seeing the brain-child of her son given life on the stage was enjoyed by Mrs. John Willard Clawson at the Morosco, when she saw a performance of "The Cat and the Canary," the work of her playwright-son, John Willard.

Mrs. Clawson, whose husband, a portrait painter, recently came from San Francisco to establish a studio at the Ambassador, was at the performance as a guest at a box party in her honor.

Following the matinee she went back-stage to meet the members of the company and to congratulate them on their splendid work in her son's play.

The picture shows her shaking hands in congratulation of Grace Travers, still in make-up, on her striking enactment of the role of "Mammy" Pleasant.

FATHER RICARD FUND CAMPAIGN ARRANGED

DETAILS OF $40,000 DRIVE BY KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS ARE COMPLETED

Details of the campaign for $40,000 to be raised in Southern California as part of the $100,000 fund sought for the construction of a new observatory for Father Ricard, "Padre of the Rains," were completed last night at a meeting of Knights of Columbus councils of the Southland.

The new observatory is to be erected at Santa Clara and all the Knights of Columbus councils of California will co-operate in the campaign to raise the fund.

Rev. Edmund J. Ryan of the University of Santa Clara and Joseph O'Connor of San Francisco, vice-chairman of the Knights of Columbus State memorial observatory committee, were present at the conference here last night. They left for the north after the meeting.

STORE ROBBED OF DRUGS

The theft of a large quantity of narcotics from the Owl Drug Company store at 5500 Santa Monica Boulevard was reported to Hollywood police yesterday. Burglars gained entrance to the store by cutting a panel from a rear door. A complete check of the merchandise in the store will be necessary, it was said, before an accurate estimate could be made of the loot obtained by the thieves.

CANE HELD OLIVE TWIG OF HUSBAND

Wife Says He Smashed Windows and Struck Her Son Over Back

When Albert B. Davis visited his wife's home to reconcile their domestic difference he went about the matter in a brisk and business-like manner, Mrs. Minnie V. Davis told Judge Hollzer at the hearing of her motion of alimony pending trial of her divorce suit.

"He broke three panes of a French window, came crashing into the house and smashed a cane over my boy's back," Mrs. Davis related.

Mrs. Davis lost a previous divorce suit last spring. It was after she had filed a second suit that Davis decided to reconcile his family so that it would stay reconciled, according to her story.

Davis's stand was that, her suit for divorce having been denied, he had a legal right to enter his home. Therefore, when his wife refused to let him in, he said, he got in the simplest way, which happened to be by way of the French windows. Their wreckage was merely incidentals to his realization of his legal right to take his ease under his own vine and fig tree, he explained.

As one step in his proposed program of reconciliation Davis promised to choke his wife "until her eyes stuck out," she declared.

"Well, I couldn't afford to support two homes, so I decided we would all live together and save expense," Davis said.

Davis is a Long Beach postoffice employee. Judge Hollzer ruled he might live in a house on the rear of the lot and ordered him to pay his wife $50 per month pending trial. Davis being temporarily out of funds, Judge Hollzer offered to advance him $25 for the immediate needs of his family, to be paid back $2 per month, but Davis's counsel said he would see that his client made a temporary loan elsewhere.

NEW PHONE STATION IN OPERATION

Delaware Office to Serve Subscribers in Southeastern Section

DElaware office yesterday became a part of Los Angeles' rapidly growing telephone city. The new office in its new concrete and steel building at Santa Fe and Saturn avenues eventually will serve virtually all the telephones in the extreme southeastern section of the city. N. R. Wowley, commercial superintendent of the Southern California Telephone Company, yesterday announced that the company's investment in the new building and its equipment totals more than $800,000.

Preparation is being made in the new office to serve many factories with the comprehensive type of telephone service such large establishments will require. That telephone company officials predict that this central office will eventually be one of the largest private branch exchange centers in Los Angeles is proof of their faith in the industrial future of this section of the city.

Mr. Powley said that the transfer of telephones from AXridge and HUmbolt offices to the DElaware office is being carried out by districts. Subscribers in the territory affected will continue with their present numbers until a telephone representative visits their premises and assigns them a DElaware designation. Not all the telephones in the southeastern section will be connected to the new office at once, it was said.

The next Los Angeles County telephone directory, to be distributed in September, will contain thousands of the new numbers, according to Mr. Powley.

The eleventh new central office to go into service in Los Angeles in a year, DElaware office is part of the telephone company's expansion program, which will cost more than $19,000,000 this year. The "33 level" has been assigned to the DElaware office in the Los Angeles numbering plan. It will be noted that both "D" and "E" correspond on telephone dials to the "3." Thus when two threes are dialed, a connection is completed to the new office. The prefix "DElaware" was chosen because of its remarkably good telephonic properties. It is easily pronounced and understood and cannot be confused with other prefixes or combinations.

Two Youths Are Jailed on Charge of Auto Stealing

Leo E. Peters, 24 years of age, and Joseph H. Santon, 22, both of 835 West Ninth street, were lodged in the Hollywood Jail early yesterday morning on charges of grand larceny following their arrest at Santa Monica Boulevard and Highland avenue by Officers Uhlik and Vermeilen. The car in which the men were found was reported stolen by Dr. A. R. Dickson from a downtown corner, according to police.

As Officer Uhlik stepped from the door of a garage at Selma and Highland avenues after calling the station, he repeated to his partner the number of a stolen automobile which he had just received from the desk sergeant over the telephone.

"There it goes," declared the second police officer, as a large machine flashed by their car. They chased the machine to Highland and Santa Monica Boulevard and placed the occupants under arrest. Santon is said by police to have confessed stealing the car.

Man in Hospital Petitions Court to Remove Irons

Declaring he was being subjected to inhuman treatment in the prison ward of the General Hospital, George Maynard, bandit suspect, who was wounded in a pistol battle with harbor police two weeks ago, yesterday petitioned Presiding Judge York of Superior Court for a writ of habeas corpus to compel the Sheriff to unshackle him.

The petition, which was prepared by Attorney George S. Shreve, did not ask that Maynard be set at liberty. Maynard, who is being held on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, asserted he was being held in irons in the prison ward contrary to the State constitution. He declared the shackles were breaking through the flesh on his ankles, but that his request that the irons be removed had been ignored. Judge York granted the petition, making it returnable before Judge Hardy next Thursday.

CARS ARE ORDERED BY REDBANKS ORCHARDS

VISALIA, July 28. — Fruit will be sent from the Redbanks Orchards Company houses at the rate of four or five cars per day, starting this week, according to indications from an order given for 100 express cars. This order was received by M. H. Lockwood, superintendent of traffic and transportation for the American Railway Express Company in Fresno. Mr. Lockwood states that this order is the largest asked for by the local fruit company. Work in the fruit has been held up by the cool weather, which has delayed sweetening of the fruit. Pickers started working last Wednesday and a few packers have been busy several days. A full crew is expected to be working from now on and much fruit will be shipped to eastern markets.

F. B. JOYNER AWARDED COUNTY ROAD POSITION

F. B. Joyner, former County Road Commissioner and ex-State highway engineer, was appointed Assistant County Road Commissioner in charge of road construction and maintenance by the County Board of Supervisors yesterday. The appointment forecasts an active road construction program in the county the coming year. More than $1,000,000 already has been received for that purpose from the State as part of the county's share in the 2-cent gasoline tax.

JUANA NEAD LEVY

Among the many charming visitors who are planning a visit in the near future to Los Angeles, is Miss Eleanor Seavey, the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Seavey of Boston and Hamilton, Mass., who will arrive next Monday and will be the guest of her fiance's parents Mr. and Mrs. George P. Griffith in Orchard avenue. Miss Seavey's engagement to Richard M. Griffith was announced in The Times several weeks ago. Miss Helen Matthews of Scranton, Pa., sister of Mrs. Griffith, will meet Miss Seavey on the way out and they will both arrive here together. During Miss Seavey's visit of a month here, there will be numerous charmingly arranged affairs given in her honor.

Engagement Announced

A charming event of Friday afternoon was the beautifully appointed luncheon, showey, and bridge which Mrs. Clarence Van Graham of 1003 North Normandie avenue entertained at the Sunset Canyon Country Club for a small number of intimate friends of Miss Vivian Peters of Hollywood, who announced her engagement to Judson Roblee, the wedding to take place the 17th of next month. Yellow daisies, delphinium with a profusion of ferns and tulle were lavishly used on the tables, the place cards and favors carrying out the motif of the coming event. Those included were Mrs. Van Graham, Miss Peters and her mother, Mrs. Maude Lewis, Mrs. Bertha Spear Roblee, Mrs. E. J. Neville, H. Sheldon, T. W. Dunn, G. D. McDonald, William A. Graham, Gertrude M. Smucker, Miss H. Rosyron and Miss Mary Burnett of Waukegan, Ill. Miss Peters is an alumna of University of Southern California, while Mr. Roblee was graduated from the Case School of Applied Science, Cleveland, O. They are planning to pass their honeymoon in the Yosemite Valley.

For Bride Elect

Several delightful affairs are being given in honor of Miss Ione Mitchell, the beautiful young daughter of Mrs. Edna Campbell, formerly of Chicago, whose wedding with Holland W. Clarkson of Hollywood will be solemnized Wednesday. Last week Miss Mitchell was honor guest at a most attractive tea and linen shower at which Mrs. C. S. Shade, sister of the bridegroom, entertained at her home in Beverly Hills. Tiny Betty Shade, as Cupid, greeted Miss Mitchell as she arrived. Another affair was the buffet supper given by Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Heine at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Brown, both Miss Mitchell and Mr. Clarkson sharing the honors. During the serving of the supper there was a surprise in the nature of a handkerchief shower in which the honor guests shared equally. Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Ellert of Hollywood were hosts at dinner honoring the prospective bride and her fiance, the table decorations being effectively carried out in novel motif. Several friends of Mr. Clarkson gave a stag "farewell" dinner in his honor at the University Club Friday evening, while Saturday evening a dinner dance was given by Mr. and Mrs. John H. Clarkson at the Encino Country Club in honor of the young couple, the decorations being carried out in pink and white and the place cards were sweetheart roses and miniature bridal party.

Visiting Here

Mrs. John Wayne Richards of Lake Forest, Ill., is receiving a warm welcome from her many friends in Southern California. Mrs. Richards is making the Alexandria her headquarters but is dividing her time between her friends and her sister, Mrs. Lucile Gibson Pleasants of 1186 Crenshaw Boulevard. Early next month Mrs. Richards will be joined by her husband and her son Randolph Owsley.

Church Wedding

The marriage of Miss Evelyn Louise Kleinsorg, the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Kleinsorg of 1017 Fourth avenue, to Albert Whitley Gilbert, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. C. Gilbert of 209 West Fifty-fourth street, was solemnized last evening at 8 o'clock in St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Rev. Jesse W. Ball officiating. The bride wore a becoming costume of chiffon and white lace and was given in marriage by her father. Her veil of tulle was held in place by orange blossoms and she carried bride's roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Adelaine Kleinsorg assisted her sister as maid of honor, wearing peach-colored georgette with lace trimmings, and she carried sunburst roses and ferns. The bridesmaids, Miss Edith Rowley and Miss Muriel Enner, wore gowns of orchid and yellow georgette respectively, elaborately trimmed with lace, and their bouquets were yellow roses and orchid-toned sweet peas with sprays of maiden-hair fern and tulle. Fred Winter served Mr. Gilbert as best man and the ushers were William Henry Kleinsorg, Jr., and Tom Scott. Little Marjorie Mae Kleinsorg, sister of the bride and Jacqueline Gilbert, niece of the bridegroom, were flower girls. A reception for a hundred guests followed the ceremony. Both Mr. Gilbert and his bride formerly attended University of California, Southern Branch, the latter being a past president of the Kappa Delta Rho Sorority.

Adams-Tayler

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Vivian Adams of 324 West Avenue Fifty-five to Clarence Tayler, Tuesday evening the 22nd inst., at Westlake Presbyterian Church, Rev. G. A. Briegleb officiating, the double-ring ceremony being used. Ferns, daisies and pink roses were combined in the elaborate decorations. The bride, given away by her father, wore a gown of white georgette with lace and pearl beads, the bridal bouquet being of brides roses and lilies of the valley. A reception followed the ceremony, Mrs. Eugene Talmage of 938 Victoria avenue and the Westlake Philathea girls being hosts. The house was decorated with pastel shades, beautifully arranged in butterfly effect, brides roses in great bowls and vases being used in the different rooms. Mr. and Mrs. Tayler are motoring through the Yosemite Valley and will make their home in Berkeley after their return.

Engagement Announced

Mrs. Leland Earl Dye of 1049 Fairview Boulevard, Inglewood, entertained Saturday afternoon with a card party, the affair proving to be a happy surprise for the forty guests. After an afternoon of cards with the serving of refreshments, little Dotty Jane Lee passed to each guest beautiful paper roses in pastel shades, and tucked deep in the heart of each rose was the announcement of the engagement of Miss Marguerite Pfiester to J. Howard Johnson. Miss Pfiester, who possesses a beautiful contralto voice, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Pfiester of Chicago street. Mr. Johnson is from San Francisco. He is a member of the Orpheum and Enterprise Male Quartette. The wedding will be one of the events of next month. Among those included were Misses Nellie Bright, Kay Adams, Sara McGraw, Ruth Holdridge, Leila Wagy, Grace Williams, Evelyn Crist, Lillian Shattuck, Mmes. Milton Prinke, Fred Wolcott, Earl Lee, Lyman Johnson, George Thomas, Curtis Taylor, William Schlinger, Hobart Pierce, Milan Maclosky, Herbert Horn, Harry Hancock, Wayland Giessinger, Claude Frame, Ted Fletcher, Mark Custer, Jay Lloyd, Reed, Thurlow Culley, J. Harold Craig, Leslie Claxton, Russell Burke, J. Harold Anderson, William Beckman, Vardeman Bailey, Sue M. Adams, Stanley Benjamin, George Pfiester, Adelaide Brewer, Ross Mitchell, Esther Swift, George Herstman, Florence Simms, Randall Boyd and Harold Wright.

Wedded in East

Mr. and Mrs. T. Arthur Thompson announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Margery Cromwell Thompson, to Guido Chiari of Florence, Italy, the ceremony taking place at the Church of the Ascension, New York City, the 19th inst. Mr. and Mrs. Chiari will sail for Italy August 23, where a home is all prepared for their occupancy at Florence. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson are returning to Los Angeles in the very near future, continuing their residence here.

LONELY LAD IN COURT

Mother Charged With Abandoning 5-Year-Old Boy

Abandoned by his mother, according to the Juvenile authorities, Harold Ames, a golden-haired boy, 5 years of age, was brought before Judge Archbald's Juvenile Court yesterday on a petition to have him declared a ward of the court on the ground he had no parent capable of exercising proper control over him.

Harold was asserted to have been left by his mother with a Mexicon family residing at 2122 East Second street, with the request that he be taken to Juvenile Hall. The boy's mother, according to juvenile probation officers, is Mrs. Marguerite Ames and her last known address was 912 Hammond street, Sherman. Police officers who were dispatched to this address, yesterday reported they could not locate the woman.

PLUM MARMALADE

Split five pounds of washed plums, place in a preserving kettle, add one cupful of water and simmer until soft; rub through a collander to remove the stones and add to them one and a half cupfuls of sugar, six peeled, cored and sliced apples, and the strained juice and grated rind of one orange. Cook and stir slowly until thick and smooth. Pour into hot glasses and seal.

MACARONI AND CHEESE

Plunge half a pound of broken macaroni into boiling water, add one tablespoonful of butter and cook fifteen minutes, add one teaspoonful of salt and cook until tender, drain well and keep warm. Place in a saucepan one cupful of meat stock, one cupful milk, one bay leaf and half a cupful of sliced onion; bring to a boil and strain into a clean saucepan; blend six tablespoonfuls of butter with three tablespoonfuls of flour, add the strained stock and stir and cook until it boils; add to the sauce the cooked macaroni, half a cupful of chopped, cooked ham, one cupful of grated cheese, and a teaspoonful each of salt and pepper. Pour into a greased earthenware baking dish, cover with grated crumbs and dot over with bits of butter and bake in a moderate oven fifteen minutes.

MOANA COCKTAIL

Mix in cold bowl one teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls sugar, one tablespoonful of chopped preserved ginger, one teaspoonful of paprika, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, one cupful of orange juice and two tablespoonfuls of olive oil. Beat well for two minutes, set on the ice to cool and beat again. Fill stem glasses two-thirds full with bottled sauce, add avocados and fill with cracked ice. Serve ice cold.

TOMATO SAUCE

Place in a saucepan two tablespoonfuls of butter, add one cupful and sliced carrot, one teaspoonful sliced onion, one peeled white turnip, two cupfuls of strained and sliced tomatoes, six whole pepper corns, one blade of mace, one bay leaf, and six sprigs of parsley; stir and cook ten minutes, add four level tablespoonfuls sifted flour and cook three minutes, add two cupfuls tongue stock; stir and cook until it comes to a boil, add a teaspoonful of salt and simmer slowly ten minutes, rub through a sieve, reheat and serve.

POTATO CAKES

Place in a frying pan two tablespoonfuls of butter, add one cupful of onion and cook until the onion is golden brown; skim out the onion and lay in the pan two cupfuls mashed potatoes made into cakes half an inch thick, brown nicely on both sides and serve.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.A.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

B. J.—Ring worms are caused by a fungus growth, that is, one of the lowest types of plant life. They are contagious, so be careful not to pass them on to others. You should remove the scales with soap and water and then apply iodine, or sulphur ointment or ammoniate of mercury ointment. In fact, most any ointment that contains some antiseptic will cure them. Common ink (usually a solution of tannin and iron sulphate) has cured cases; so has vinegar in which a copper coin has been soaked.

Ring worm in the scalp, if it gets a good start, is much more difficult to cure because the fungus grows deep down in the hair pits and each hair is a separate focus for the disease. The patches should be scrubbed with soap and water (tar soap is a good brand) and then the hair cut short or shaved, or better yet, pulled out from the patches and for one-quarter of an inch around them. Whatever is used for the medication should be worked thoroughly into the scalp. The official sulphur ointment which you can get at any drug store is considered one of the best. Apply this every day, scrubbing the patch with soap and water before applying. Jackson says that he has found that the best way to use the iodine is to rub one teaspoonful of the crystals into one ounce of goose grease. A child who has ring worm of the scalp must not wear another child's hat or use other people's brushes or towels, or sleep with another child. He should also be taken out of school.

Mrs. L. S.—There is nothing that will dry up the lumps you describe. See your physician, please.

E.—You are ten or fifteen pounds underweight. You probably undereat and it is possible that the catarrhal condition you speak of is caused by your not getting sufficient vitamins and mineral salts and other elements you need. If you take very hot copious douches, four or five quarts, as hot as you can stand you will get temporary relief. It is the heat that allays the inflammation, but you can add one tablespoonful of boracic acid to a quart of water for its curative qualities. Have a thorough medical examination to determine the cause of your trouble. I cannot answer your other questions in this column. Sorry.

F. B.—Overfatigue and nervousness in the young would account for what you speak of are probably responsible for the gritting of the teeth. But what is her health habits?

"Dear Doctor: I have greatly benefitted from your advice. A year ago I weighed 140 pounds, now weigh 146 pounds, which I believe is still too much, as I am 5 years old, five feet and one-half inches tall. Isn't that much for my height? My waist form is thinner but my hips and neck are large. What can I do to get a thin looking hips and neck? I diet right along and am always hungry. Am I overweight, or is it just natural for me to have a full moon face?—Mrs. C."

It is a change to get a report stating that the hips and neck are too large even after losing so many report the opposite, the face business is a matter of heritance. However, if you weigh too much, lose weight according to the rule of 110 pounds for five feet in height and five and one-half pounds for every inch over, you should weigh about 140. So you are over twenty pounds over weight. Now when you get rid of that extra moon will be time enough for you getting suffering from hunger. Diet and do you not have plenty of food very thoroughly, and you will have you hungry. Drink water freely.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

A Tip to the Carver

Joints of duck will be found much farther toward the back of the fowl than those of chicken or turkey.

Making Sweet Milk Sour

If a recipe calls for sour milk and you have none, put a little vinegar in fresh milk and it will cause it to curd and answer the same purpose.

Removes Tarnish

Tarnished gilt braid will look like new if a little alum is rubbed into it. Rub rather vigorously and leave it for a few hours. When brushed off the braid will shine as of yore.

Doughnut Cooking

The temperature of the fat should remain the same when cooking doughnuts. If the fat is too hot the doughnuts will brown before they are really cooked. If too cold, the doughnuts are likely to absorb some of the fat and be soggy.

To Clean Marble

If you wish to rejuvenate that old marble mantelpiece, try this: Dissolve one ounce of soda in one-quarter pint of water and add whiting until it is the consistency of a paste. Rub well into the marble and let dry. Wash off with clear water.

Keeping Cheese

Any strong-smelling cheese should be wrapped in tinfoil, then in oiled paper and kept in a covered crock. It should be kept in the refrigerator to avoid danger of tainting the other foods.

Helpful Hint

Add a few drops of ammonia to the water in which the dishes are rinsed.

Iron the round table cloth from the center to the edge instead of folding.

Fold a cloth wrung out of water around the bottom of cup or mold of jelly and the contents will slip out easily.

The Little Girls Frock

Patch pockets on your little daughter's frock are very attractive but they are very apt to be caught on things, and then the little dress is spoiled in a moment. Try putting the pocket on the side instead for the young hoyden, for the chief, on the bloomers, and put the knee on the right hip. The square pocket will be well protected place and not easily torn off.

A Home-Made Mop

How often when we are in the vacation we wish we had a mop for our mussed curls! Get a newspaper and roll it from the center to hang it by the handle. It is a very satisfactory substitute.

Avoid Dangerous Powder

Don't let the baby have talcum powder containing stearate of zinc. The can should not be tightly closed, as the baby might inhale some of the powder. Stearate of zinc is very irritating to the nose and mouth and the baby is likely to prove it.

Prominent Hollywood Dentist tells why he bought offices in the Guaranty Building.

Mr.Hal C.Hardin
Guaranty Building and Loan,
6364 Hollywood Boulevard,
Hollywood,California.

Dear Mr. Hardin:

I am very well satisfied with my purchase of Rooms 1206,07,and 08 in the new Guaranty Building to be used by me in my practise of Dentistry. The degree of satisfaction may be brought out more clearly with the three following reasons.

First; It has always been my desire to design,equip,and practise in an ideal,and efficient Dental Office. Up to the present time such a desire has been impossible to fulfill in Hollywood,owing to the absence of a Class A Building of this character. It has also been impossible in the older buildings to arrange partitions,and plumbing to the best advantage,with the suit being many poorly arranged and inefficient Dental Suites. The new Guaranty Building, however,offers the professional man the same opportunity in designing his suite as he would have if he were building a separate building to meet his individual requirements. Added to this,he has every convenience of the most modern office building.

Second; The Guaranty Building is the finest and most centrally located building in Hollywood.

Third; I consider it a good investment.

These are three outstanding features which I believe should appeal to all professional men. I could elaborate on the above,and also give numerous other features,such as-- Pride of Ownership,Unsurpassed View,and Elevator Service,all of which make this building most desirable.

Sincerely,

N. Louis Beesemyer
D. D. S.

Good News for Buyers

The Guaranty will be ready for occupancy about September first—one full month ahead of schedule!

Offices still available on LESS-THAN-RENT basis

But—don't wait too long! We've made more sales in the past two weeks than in our entire previous sales record. Interest is running high as building nears completion. Best locations will soon be gone. We've sold several suites to prominent realty firms—men who know how to pick good investments.

Investigate NOW!
Get something for your money besides worthless rent receipts

Pay $500 down on a $5000 office; balance $60 a month, beginning October 1st. In fifteen years you will not only own your own office, but a valuable interest in a fine business property in the heart of Hollywood. Weigh this against fifteen years rent receipts.

Drama League Closes Year's Work

The Drama League will close for the summer with a garden party at the home of Mrs. Margaret Barbrick Gillette, 879 Fifth avenue, tomorrow at 2 p.m. The business session for the election of officers and directors for 1924-1925 and to hear the reports of officers will be followed by a reception and tea to which all Drama League members and their friends are invited. Miss Bird Bundy will give a report of the national convention. Mrs. Gillette will conduct the meeting and install the new officers.

Opera Reading Club

The second meeting of the newly organized Opera Reading Club of Los Angeles will be conducted today at the home of Baroness Von Ryhiner Morrill, 2351 Thomson street.

THE LAST WORD.

BY ALMA WHITTAKER.

THE GOLF LEG

The little town was celebrating the opening of its first golf course.

"Ugh!" snorted the plain practical man who is comfortably assured that he enjoys a monopoly of all the sound common sense 'round those parts, "can you tell me why a fellow who has never seen a golf ball in his life before, goes and decks himself out in those fancy golf pants and stockings and feels he has to make that sort of a show of himself in order to knock a fool ball around?"

"For the same reason that a person about to learn to swim decks himself out in a fool bathing suit, perhaps," I suggested mildly. "He could swim just as well in his B.V.D.'s but it isn't being done this year."

"Rubbish!" exploded the plain practical man. "Not the same at all. There is no reason in the world why a man can't play golf in decent ordinary pants."

"Oh, there is nothing indecent about golf breeches and a well-stockinged male leg," I defended.

"There is too. It's just plain foolish. Look at that idiot over there. Fancies himself, don't he?" he said witheringly.

"I think he looks rather well myself. He has what Beau Brummel would have called a 'pretty leg.' I feel sure he will play twice as well in that becoming rig-out myself. Sort of gives him something to live up to. It is all right for a dub to wear long pants, but a fellow in that stylish attire knows he must positively make a good showing or chaps like you will condemn him without a trial," I teased.

"Can't argue with a woman. 'Pretty leg,' eh. Ugh! Where do you get that stuff. That's about the size of it—just showing off he is."

"Why should he conceal his charms? Shouldn't men help to make the world beautiful too? Fancy having a shapely leg like that and never showing it! But maybe you are right to the extent that only men with well-shaped legs should wear golf pants. Those of you that can't afford to are very sensible not to," I beamed.

And while he was still sputtering indignantly I added, "Anything the matter with yours?"

"What a question! Gosh, that's just like a woman. Because a man doesn't want to make a show of himself, she thinks he's deformed. I . . . I . . . No, there isn't anything the matter with mine," he raged.

"Well, we can see for ourselves that his are all right. He doesn't have to reassure us. Rather a fine contour, don't you think? Those stockings are a clever plaid . . ."

"Women make me tired," gasped our sensible irate friend. "Gosh, what are we coming to? Want us all to dress up like fool manikins . . . ?"

"Oh, no. But we like to see men wear suitable clothes for suitable occasions—and make the most of their opportunities. But, of course, some men are just pre-Adamite. Any new idea makes them explosive. Especially if its one they could not adopt with success themselves. Men can be so absurdly jealous . . ." I murmured.

"Jealous! Jealous!" yelled my common-sense friend. "Couldn't I—are—couldn't any of us wear those fool things if we wanted to?"

"Well, that is more a matter of adequate evidence," I grinned.

That cooked my goose. He left me snorting.

That was three weeks ago. They tell me my sensible friend looks perfectly stunning in his new golf knickers and fancy stockings. He says he finds they help his stance. And have some valuable bearing on his "follow through." And his wife says he even wore them down to his office the other day, although she didn't think he was going out to the links.

Narcotic Charge in Court Fight on Back Alimony

Love letters, charges of narcotic addiction and other marital incidents played a part in Judge Thompson's court yesterday where Mrs. Vivian H. Kornickle was endeavoring to collect arrears of alimony from Jerome V. Kornickle.

Her husband, testifying, averred that his reason for being in arrears was that whenever he gave her money she spent it for narcotics.

Mrs. Kornickle countered by the introduction of several letters. A paragraph from one of them, written by her to him, follows:

"I suppose I was too proud and sure and would have gone through life without any understanding of evil, therefore you were sent to teach me both sides of life so that I could really live and know the meaning of life in this world."

CASTAIC LAND ENTRY HELD OIL PROSPECT

TIMBER AND STONE CLAIM APPEAL REJECTED AT WASHINGTON

Land in the vicinity of Castiac in the Santa Clara Valley has a prospective value for oil and gas, in the opinion of officials of the United States Land Office. Because of the likelihood of oil being found there, a timber and stone claim filed by Henry Chamberlain to 160 acres west of Castiac has been denied by Register Valentine and Receiver Smith of the local Land Office. That action was affirmed by the commissioner of the general Land Office at Washington, according to a report received yesterday.

After Mr. Chamberlain filed his entry in October, 1919, field agents of the Land Office reported the land was not valuable for timber or stone and that it held little value for grazing or bee culture. At the hearing relative to the Chamberlain claim, Henry Robertson, geologist and petroleum engineer, testified the geological formation of the territory in question indicated the possibility of oil.

It was shown that one 3000-foot well, drilled in the neighborhood of the Chamberlain entry several years ago, disclosed signs of oil, although the well did not produce a flow.

PENALTY WANTED IN PAVING FALSEHOODS

Councilman Gregory yesterday declared he hoped laws could be changed so as to provide that salesmen for various types of pavement would be guilty of a felony when convicted of misrepresenting the cost and qualities of pavements to property owners. The new specifications, which will be discussed by the City Council next Friday afternoon, permit various forms of patented pavement for Los Angeles streets. The present specifications permit only Warrenite. Representatives of the Willite pavement, which is admitted under the new specifications, yesterday asked Councilmen Gregory, Mallard and Baker to make an inspection trip over Willite pavements. The Councilmen declined. "I am in favor of the city permitting all patented pavements or none," said Councilman Mallard, and Councilman Gregory said that was his position, also.

GIRL ADMITS FORGERY

Dorothy S. Mills, pretty but forlorn, pleaded guilty to a charge of forgery yesterday before Judge Hardy. According to evidence, a love for fine clothes induced her to cash checks at several local department stores when she didn't have money in the bank. A hearing on a request for probation will be conducted on August 1.

OFFICER PAPST RITES SET FOR TOMORROW

FELLOW-POLICEMEN WILL BE PALLBEARERS FOR CRASH VICTIM

Funeral services for Motorcycle Officer George Papst, 28 years of age, who was killed accidentally Sunday morning while pursuing a speeding motorist, will be conducted tomorrow at the Progressive Masonic Lodge, Echo Park and Sunset Boulevard. Fellow-officers of Papst will act as pallbearers, attending the services in a body.

They will be Motorcycle Officers Bert Lynn, George Allen, Ralph Davis, Frank Conkey, Charles Leonard and William Snider.

Officer Papst was killed near the intersection of Pasadena avenue and Sycamore Grove. His machine struck an uncompleted manhole while traveling at racing speed and he was hurled to the ground with such force as to cause almost instant death. He leaves a widow, mother and father and three sisters.

OLD SOLDIERS UP IN LIQUOR BEATING CASE

Two old soldiers, inmates of the Veterans' Home at Sawtelle, were charged with battery yesterday in a complaint issued by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Hill. They are declared to have beaten up H. G. Coleman, another old soldier, on the 16th inst. because they believed that he had revealed to the governor of the Home the source of their moonshine supply. Coleman, however, declared that he was an innocent victim of the two aged veterans' fury. He knew nothing about the moonshine supply, he declared.

JACKIE COOGAN TO BE HOST TO SCOUT AIDES

More than 1000 Boy Scouts, who have been active recently in a campaign for canned milk and old clothing which Jackie Coogan, juvenile star, is to take to the Near East, will be guests at the California Theater Saturday morning at a farewell reception to the lad. A detail of them later will conduct the boy star on farewell trips to local institutions. "Jackie" leaves Saturday for New York, where he will embark on the relief ship.

MORE CASH IS REQUIRED FOR LIBRARY

Additional $114,000 Now Needed for Purchase of Flower Street Frontage

The City Library Board yesterday notified the Finance Committee of the City Council that an additional $114,000 will be needed to purchase the Flower-street frontage of the library site. The voters in June a year ago authorized $500,000 in bonds to acquire this frontage and to purchase furniture for the building.

It was pointed out that the closing of the deal for the purchase of the Flower-street frontage will have nothing at all to do with the progress of completing the building or of financing that end of the entire project.

Secretary Perry of the board, in giving the history of the Flower-street frontage, said that early in 1923 the board asked the City Council Finance Committee to authorize a request for a bond issue of $1,000000. At that time, he said, that committee declared Flower-street frontage could be purchased at $1000 a foot nd allowed $300,000 for that purpose.

Appraisers appointed to fix the value of the Flower-street frontage set the value at $614,000. This was $114,000 more than the entire bond issue and made no allowance for furniture. The valuation was fixed as of March 1, 1923. The increase in the price is said to have been accounted for largely by the opening up of Fifth street.

Around the City Hall it was said that another bond issue probably will have to be resorted to.

"In the meantime the Library Board is going ahead with its building plans. Bids for putting up the building complete will be opened by the board on August 13. The Flower-street frontage for the present will be given over to walks, fountains and landscaping.

Man Who Led Police Chase Is Sentenced

Fred L. Main, convicted of violation of the State Corporate Securities Act and who led officers a merry chase for the better part of four years before his capture, yesterday was sentenced to from one to ten years in San Quentin prison by Judge Hardy in Superior Court.

Main, indicted in 1920, was arrested in New York in 1922, but jumped his bail bond. He finally was picked up in Oregon last January. Immediately after sentence was passed his attorneys filed motion for a new trial, August 1 being set as the date of hearing. At the same time Main will plead to another charge of criminal conspiracy which has been filed against him.

CRACK PISTOL TEAMS WILL MEET ON RANGE

The Hollywood police division's crack pistol team, headed by Lieut. A. G. Graham, captain, will meet a squad of picked men from the county motorcycle officers' force Thursday morning in a 2500-point match. It was announced yesterday. The match will be held on the Hollywood range in the old Grauman Indian Village along Cahuenga Pass. Members of the Hollywood team, who have been putting in hours of practice during the past few days, are Lieut. A. G. Graham, C. C. Johnson, Willard Queen, E. E. Hasle, W. W. Holman and C. A. Anderson.

City Requested to Grant Shrine Convention Fund

Motley H. Flint and Louis M. Cole of the local Shrine organizations appeared before the City Council's Finance Committee yesterday and requested a "liberal" appropriation for the entertainment of the national Shrine meeting here next June. The Shriners said that Kansas City had spent nearly $400,000 entertaining the Shrine this year, and San Francisco had spent $330,000 two years ago.

They pointed out that the convention will be an advertisement of tremendous value to the city, and that there will be at least fifty bands and fifty patrols here in addition to thousands of members of the organization, arriving in Los Angeles on 150 special trains.

"It is the biggest show in the world," said Mr. Flint, "and Los Angeles should entertain the visitors properly." The committee took the matter under advisement, in order to ascertain if it is legally possible for the Council to make an appropriation of perhaps $25,000 toward the $400,000 to be raised here for street decorations and entertainment for the Shrine gathering.

PETITION FOR RUM'S RETURN WILL BE ACTED UPON THIS WEEK

Hearing on a petition of J. Langford Stack, advertising man, that liquor seized by Federal prohibition agents at his residence, 411 South Ardmore street, be returned to him was continued yesterday by Federal Judge Bledsoe on motion of Asst. U. S. Atty. McGann. Counsel for the petitioner announced he was ready for arguments but, when the government counsel asked further time, Judge Bledsoe took the case off the calendar with the understanding that it could be restored by consent.

A continuance until next Monday was asked by Attorney McGann, but, as the court will be on vacation at that time, it was agreed the hearing would be had some time this week.

Mr. Stack filed his petition after Stephen G. Long, United States Commissioner, recently quashed the search warrant on which the petitioner's residence was searched. It was held the warrant was void because it was not supported by an affidavit asserting illegal sale.

HIGHWAY PLAN RECEIVED

The City Council yesterday received from President Workman the major highway report, prepared by the Traffic Commission's experts, recommending a systematic development of streets so as to eliminate congestion. The report was referred to the Public Works Committee, which will report before September 1 as to ways and means of getting the street development program under way.

WOMAN TAKES LIFE IN HOTEL

Body Found in Annex Starts Effort to Identify

Discovery is Made by Man in Room Across From Hers

Poison Causes Death; Money is Found on Person

The body of a woman about 45 years of age, whose identity still remained unsolved last night, was found by detectives yesterday in a room at the Rosslyn Hotel Annex. She had killed herself by drinking the contents of two bottles of poison.

A roomer in a hotel on the opposite side of the alley had looked out of his room yesterday morning and had seen the woman sitting upright in a chair near the window of her room. Her head had fallen on her breast and she remained immovable. The strange position of the woman's body caused the roomer to notify the hotel management.

Police were summoned and Detective Lieutenant Craig entered the room to find the woman dead. She had apparently killed herself twelve hours or more before. There was nothing in the room to give an inkling to her identity. She had registered at the hotel Saturday under the name of Nanda Simon, of Sacramento, but police are positive that that name was fictitious.

The woman's body was removed to the Peck & Chase mortuary. She was dressed in a plain black dress and black shoes, and wore on one of her fingers an old wedding ring, with no inscription.

The woman was five feet, two inches tall and weighed 175 pounds. She had bobbed hair that originally had been partially gray and then dyed black. Laundry marks had been removed from the clothing. In the handbag she had brought to the hotel was found a little more than $31. Police are attempting to establish the woman's name and locate her relatives.

DRAMA CLASSES TO GIVE PLAYS

French and Spanish Comedies Selected

Mignon Callish; right, Marie Pope Wallis

TWO one-act comedies will be presented by the drama classes in the auditorium of the University of California, Southern Branch, 855 North Vermont avenue, Wednesday afternoon and Thursday evening, the 30th and 31st insts. The curtain will rise at 2:15 and 8:15 p.m.

The first offered will be a French comedy by Edmond Rostand called "The Romancers," the story dealing with the love of Percinet, portrayed by Harold Fakeman, for Sylvette, in the person of Mignon Callish. The young folks believe they are deceiving their parents. The father of the boy and of the girl are life-long friends and the marriage of the young couple is their dearest wish. In order to stimulate interest they pose as bitter enemies, their attitude attaining the desired end. Bergamen, the father of the boy, is played by James W. Clark. Pasquinot, who is the father of the girl, by Leonard Muller, and Straforel, a servant, is in the hands of Charles Cooper.

In "The Cradle Song," a Spanish play by Sierra, the everyday life in a convent is shown, and the thwarted mother-love of the cloistered sisters is given opportunity for expression in the upbringing of a child placed in their care.

The cast includes Ursula McClune, La Verne Jensen, Nova Lawsen, Harriett Colman, Edna Henley, Mary B. De Witt, Emma Drugg, Eleanor Smith, Marie Pope Wallis, Elsie F. Chichester, R. E. Onions and Eugene Stone. Dr. Charles Von Neumayer of Berkeley is directing the work of the drama classes and, with the assistance of Richard Onions, is putting on the two plays. Special sets are being built by the classes in stagecraft under the direction of Prof. Roger Sterrett.

NOSE DIDN'T KNOW

But When His Wife Toppled, He Sensed She was Drunk, Says Man

Having lost his sense of smell, Henry De Vries could tell that his wife had been drinking only when he would see her topple to the floor, he told Judge Thompson yesterday when his suit for divorce was heard.

His wife, Mrs. Maud De Vries, not only drank too much, but went out at night with a man named George, De Vries testified. Finally she left him altogether, he said, explaining in a note that life with him was "unbearable." He obtained a decree.

CLASS IN SALESMANSHIP

Inauguration of a free school in salesmanship for high school pupils and university students next Friday evening in the Symphony Hall was announced yesterday by Victor Girard. The first lecture will be given by Dan Farrell on insurance salesmanship. The school will be conducted without obligation, for the purpose of training youths for the many salesman positions which are available in Los Angeles, according to Mr. Girard.

NOTE FROM SEA MAY SAVE TRIO

Confession in Chapman Case Found in Bottle

Writer Says He Fired Shot to Scare Assailants

Three Tried, Convicted and Sentenced to Hang

A sprawling, misspelled note written in pencil on a bit of cheap paper and washed onto the beach at Long Beach sealed in a bottle, may prolong the lives of three men awaiting hanging for the murder of a Los Angeles man last November.

The note, dated December 25, 1923, and purporting to be a confession of the murder of which the three condemned men have been sentenced to pay the death penalty, is signed by Waldo Waterhouse (or Walterhouse) who characterizes himself as "a water rat." It follows:

"To the Los Angeles Police.

"If this is found before it is too late, a sole confession that there is three young men held for the shooting of a man on South Park in November, and this is Xmas Day and I cannot stand it ennie longer. They did not do it, I did. I saw them scuffling and I thought I would scare them, so I shot tord them and one fell. There was only three that I saw. The papers did not tell it as it was. I am here to tell you that I did it in fun. They did not do it of corse I do not know anything about these fellows, but believe me, they did not kill this fellow. Kindly I did it as ever a water rat.

[Signed]
"WALDO WATERHOUSE,
(or "Walterhouse.")

NOTE MOUND AT BEACH

The note was found yesterday noon by E. E. Epperson, 617 Orange avenue, two blocks east of the foot of Orange avenue at Long Beach.

The murder referred to was that of Charles A. Chapman, an insurance salesman, living at 321 North Reno street, at a point near Slauson on South Park shortly after midnight, November 27, 1923. Jack Ferdinand, "Smoky John" Geregas and John Sears are sentenced to hang for the murder.

Chapman was killed by a shot in the back while two bandits were searching his pockets after he and Mrs. Catherine Bohmer, 933 East Forty-ninth street, had been ordered from a parked car in which they were sitting. Within a few hours deputy sheriffs and postoffice inspectors engaged on another crime job, arrested Ferdinand, L. R. Robertoy and Harold Field. Two of the three men were positively identified by Mrs. Bohmer. The trio were indicted the same day for the murder.

TWO EXONERATED

A week later Fields and Robertoy were exonerated when Geregac and Sears confessed to being Ferdinand's accomplices in the crime. At the trial, which began here January 15, all three were positively identified by four occupants of a small touring car which had been commandeered by the bandits on the night of the murder for the purpose of traveling back and forth on the avenue on a hold-up expedition. Those who identified the men were Mrs. Margaret McArthur, Mrs. Etta Jones, F. J. Davis and Fort Andreola.

Testimony showed that the bandits rode in this car for some time during which they perpetrated two additional hold-ups in the vicinity of Slauson and South Park.

CONVICTION APPEALED

Nathan Goldberg, counsel for Geregac and Sears and S. S. Hahn, called into the case by Ferdinand's relatives after the death sentence had been passed, appealed the conviction to the Supreme Court.

While there is little question but that the murder referred to in the note cast up by the sea is that of Chapman, the police are inclined to regard the document with skepticism. No confession was obtained from Ferdinand, specifically charged with the shooting, but identification and circumstantial evidence made the case against the trio ironclad, according to the authorities.

Detective Sergeant Fitzpatrick of the Long Beach police, is conducting an investigation.

MAN IN MAGAZINE FRAUD SENTENCED

Federal Judge Frank H. Kerrigan yesterday sentenced J. D. Austin of Hollywood to serve four years at Leavenworth on a charge of using mails to defraud. A jury in Judge Kerrigan's court convicted Austin last week. The evidence in the case showed Austin had operated as the Standard American Circulation Company in soliciting subscriptions to magazines and thereby obtaining notes which were discounted by California and Oregon banks. It was shown that the magazines were not delivered and that the money obtained by Austin on the notes amounted to approximately $4000.

NOT GUILTY PLEAS BY FOUR IN OIL INQUIRY

Charles H. Kirkpatrick, W. O. Kirkpatrick, Willis A. Cates and E. O. Tilburne, charged with conspiring to use mails to defraud, pleaded not guilty yesterday before Federal Judge Bledsoe. The case was continued until September 8 for hearing. The four defendants were indicted recently following investigation of the activities of the Kirkpatrick Brothers' Syndicate, through which oil units were sold a year ago to local investors. Mr. Tilburne, formerly president of the College of Applied Science, acted as lecturer for the syndicate before prospective unit purchasers.

THE TEA AND COFFEE HABIT

Tea and coffee are commodities that seem to be growing in popularity. With the report that the American people are using more coffee now than ever before comes the announcement that the British people have never bought so much tea. It is reported that last year the British people used eleven pounds of tea per capita, and Americans used thirteen pounds of coffee. Drinking tea or coffee is as much a social as a personal habit and of late years has been stimulated by extensive advertising on both sides of the Atlantic.—[Cleveland Plain Dealer.

SEEK DOGS TO MOTHER LIONS

Dam Devoid of Nourishment on Bringing Four Lusty Cubs Into World

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, July 28.—Nature slipped an important cog when the magnificent lioness Princess, at the San Diego Zoo, brought four lively cubs into the world last night without any provision having been made for their nourishment. The lioness, apparently a normal animal in every respect, is totally devoid of milk, with the result that the cubs, minus their lunch, set up a chorus of puny roars. Zoo officials, alert to meet the emergency, sent out a hurry call for milch dogs, and in the meantime resorted to bottled milk.

PLANE GETS MULISH AND KICKS MAN

Man Nurse in Ambulance Ride on Day Off After Cranking Bout

George (Tony) Schamm, Receiving Hospital nurse, rode in his own ambulance while off duty yesterday.

The reason is found in his pet airplane, a speedy Thomas Morse scout wind wagon that furnishes him with considerable diversion during his leisure moments.

It seemed that yesterday the plane's motor developed something of the temperament of a Ford with the spark lever pulled way down. When Tony was ready to take a spin he set the various doo-dads on contact and gingerly stepped to the front of the plane. Now a kicking Ford and a kicking airplane should hardly be mentioned in the same breath, for the heavier-than-air contraption packs a wallop, Tony says, that makes the lowly flivver turn its head in envy.

At any rate, the propeller no sooner had been grasped by Mr. Schamm with a firm hold than it whirled in the opposite direction, depositing the aviator on the turf several feet away. When he came to, he found he had a wrenched back, cuts and bruises.

"Luck was with me," he said to Mrs. Dodge and Manning at the Receiving Hospital. "The propeller missed my head by a fraction of a millimeter."

A witness to the accident was Dorothy Grieve, 109 South Commonwealth avenue, who was to have been a passenger. She will get a ride later on, Schamm said.

Huntsberger's Funeral to be Here Thursday

Funeral services for Isaac Newton Huntsberger, who died Saturday at Battle Creek, Mich., will be conducted Thursday at 2:30 p.m. at the West Adams Methodist Episcopal Church, West Adams and La Salle streets.

Isaac Huntsberger

Mr. Huntsberger was born in Smithville, Wayne county, O., February 24, 1858. He was educated in the public schools and was graduated from the University of Wooster and in law from the University of Michigan. He practiced law in Toledo for twenty years where he was a member of the board of education, a trustee of Toledo University and counsel for the Toledo and Ann Arbor Railroad and the Craig Shipbuilding Company. He had practiced law here since 1905, latterly as a member of the firm of Westover and Huntsberger.

Mr. Huntsberger was professor of admiralty law in Southwestern University, and was a member of the University Club, the California Country Club, City Club and a trustee in the West Adams Methodist Episcopal Church.

He leaves a widow, Elizabeth Jane Huntsberger, and three children, Mrs. Maud E. Peck, Toledo; Paul Huntsberger and Mrs. Vernon Spencer of Los Angeles.

Telephone Girls Convalescent in Ptomaine Attack

Several Southern California Telephone Company girls taken ill Sunday, shortly after they partook of a meal in the company's cafeteria at the South Hill-street exchange, were reported on their way to recovery last night.

Some of the girls were treated at the Good Samaritan Hospital after they became ill, but all had been discharged last night with the exception of Miss Gladys Hill, whose condition was reported not serious.

Ptomaine poisoning is blamed for the sickness, but company officials who are investigating had not learned just what food was its cause, they declared.

MANAGER OF LEGION WEEKLY HERE TONIGHT

Robert F. Smith, general manager of the American Legion Weekly, will arrive in Los Angeles at 8 o'clock tonight on the Santa Fe from New York, according to a communication received from him yesterday by his father, Philip J. Smith 5213 Monte Vista street. Smith intends to remain in Los Angeles until Thursday, and will register at the Biltmore, he stated in his letter. He plans to visit San Francisco after leaving here. The manager of the American Legion Weekly is a Los Angeles man and accepted his present position when John R. Quinn was named the national commander of the American Legion.

REAL COURTESY

As an example of real Spanish courtesy, Senora Merry del Val, the wife of the Spanish Ambassador to the Court of St. James, tells a charming little story concerning a lady in Madrid, and a certain world famous performer on the piano, who had accepted an invitation to dine at her house. Some time after dinner, when the evening was far advanced, the pianist, wishing to please the association at not having asked him to play, seated himself at the piano. Greatly to the surprise, however, not a note issued from the keys when touched. "The instrument unstrung, my dear monsieur," exclaimed the hostess, "that you might not deprive us of the pleasure I promised myself in your presence at my house, the pleasure of hearing you." Convenient Typewriter Desks in Oak or Mahogany

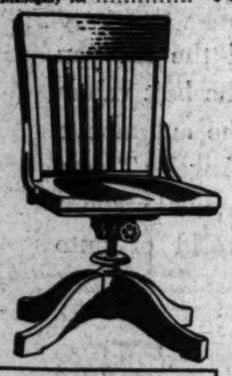
As an example of the unusual values now offered in this store, here is one of the famous Hoosier Desks—nationally known for their excellence. It has been sold to some of the largest corporations in Los Angeles for $78.00. If you act quickly you can save $23.40—for this desk now sells for $54.60. Choice of Oak—60-in. long by 34-in. deep or Mahogany tops and panels—60-in. by 32-in. deep.

"Y & E" Efficiency Desks

A desk for the busy man. Everything at your finger tips. Capacity equal to ordinary desk and file combined. Top 60 in. by 34 in. File cards and letters right in your desk. A few days ago this desk would cost you $92.00. Then we reduced the price to $88.50. And now, especially for this sale, we offer this famous desk, in Oak or Mahogany for $66.50



Typewriter Chairs That are Built to Last a Lifetime!

No detail of workmanship has been slighted in the making of this chair. Experienced craftsmen assembled the parts. Other chairs are built to look like this one—but a year or so of hard usage sends them to the repair shop. You can depend on this chair to outlast ordinary office furniture. Recently a chair of such high quality would have cost you $17.10. Today you can get these chairs at the Pierce Desk Co. for only $11.97

Oak or Dark Mahogany. Side chair to match, was $5.60—now $3.92

This is only a partial list of the genuine bargains on display.

IT IS not a policy of this company to hold sales. Since 1912 we have sold office furniture on the basis of finest quality and better service. But now we find ourselves heavily stocked—with new fall shipments en route from the factory. We must reduce stock at once. So on every item in the store—from fine office suites to little accessories—drastic price reductions have been made. But only for thirty days! You must make selection now — for prices go back to former levels in a month.

Luxurious comfort! Sit on one of these imitation leather chair pads. Thick, soft, yielding—yet substantially made for long wear. Only $2.25 during this sale—while they last!

Gooseneck Desk Lamps

Put your light right on your work. Flexible tube enables you to tilt light at any angle. Portable. Relieve eye strain and cost much less than ordinary desk lamps. Formerly sold for $5.00. A few left for only $3.50

Prices Reduced on Executive Desks

Built to last for generations. A handsome, elegantly finished desk which adds dignity and beauty to the office. Used by many prominent Los Angeles business men. Former cost for 60x30-in. size, $55.00. Reduced to $38.50
A 60x34 Hoosier Desk for $44.80

Famous Horrocks Desks Also Reduced

Since 1912 the Pierce Desk Co. has sold Horrock's fine quality office furniture. Many bank and executive offices have been fitted with a Horrocks suite—selected because no finer furniture could be found. For richness, elegance and fine workmanship, the Horrocks line is unequaled. Like every other article in the store, all Horrocks furniture has been drastically reduced in price. A visit to the Pierce Desk Co. display rooms will reveal many remarkable savings in office furniture of all kinds.

Really Comfortable Office Chairs

Skillfully made by experts, this chair eliminates the fatigue and discomfort which characterizes most office chairs. It is comfortable at all times and it is built to stand up after many years of hard usage. Ordinarily this chair would cost (Oak and Mahogany) $21.15. At reduced sale prices, you can now buy the chair for $14.80

Plain arm chairs, to match, cost $15.30. During the sale you pay only $10.71

ORPHEUM STANDARD

JOHN STEEL WINS AUDIENCE WITH LOVE SONGS

By Grace Kingsley

If you like good vaudeville be sure and go to the Orpheum this week; if you dont, go anyway, because the Orpheum is a nice, cool place to be, and the seats are still comfortable, even if they are all done up in their summer chintzes.

John Steel is the bright, particular star, and he fairly outdid himself in charm of voice and manner yesterday. When John sings an Irish song you feel that life is just an empty void if you weren't born in Ireland, and when he sings a love song—well, you just know, even if you are fat and forty, and not fair, that there's nothing in life worth while except love. Not wild, hot, jazz love, to be sure, but the moonlight stuffo.

I couldn't help wondering whether Claire Windsor were there, anywhere, and whether that were why John was so transcending himself. But Patsy Ruth Miller, who was with me, assured me scornfully, as one who knew a woman's heart as only an ingenue can, that of course she wouldn't be.

Lou Holtz is still a wow-o, with his "O Solo Mio" song and banjo, not to mention his snappy line of conversation. He works behind a blackface make-up.

Patsy Ruth Miller was all carried away with Harry Carroll's Revue. Patsy got almost angry because I said that I thought that sweet Linda, the dancer, was double-jointed. You would have thought Patsy owned stock in Linda. I love those old songs of Carroll's, which his feminine quartet is singing.

In the amen spot is the skating and dancing team of Anderson and Yvel, who are graceful and entertaining with their burlesque Egyptian dance done on skates a distinct novelty.

Jack Joyce is here again with his solo leg, his pleasing smile and his songs and talk. He should get some new conversation.

Patsy Ruth Miller insisted that in the team of Donald Kerr and Effie Weston, billed as the Flip and the Flapper, that Kerr is a flip, all right, but that she suspected Effie of not being a flapper. At any rate, their singing and kidding are effective, and Russel Hird at the piano makes a big hit.

The Parisian trio opens the bill with some good acrobatic and comedy material. But the woman evidently got mad at one of the men who seemed to be trying to crab her act. "Don't get fresh," she was heard to murmur as she turned her back and turned her smile off simultaneously.

HARRY LANGDON HIT IN MISSION COMEDY

Harry Langdon is surely the wiz boy when it comes to the quiet comedy. There is nobody like him. He gets the laughs with the blink of an eyelash, the gesture of a hand. And he has a deeply pathetic appeal, like Chaplin, along with the comedy. He is always the poor little man that an unkind world is doing comical things to.

Langdon is at the Mission this week in "Flickering Youth," which is very comical, with the burlesque scenes on the simple country maiden and the city slicker particularly funny.

This comedian's charm and quiet fun win you ere you are aware, and once he wins you he can't lose you.

"A Woman Who Sinned" was written and directed by Finis Fox. There are many fine and true-to-life things in it, but there are other things not so good. For instance, there is vital truth in the longings of the woman, married to the ascetic minister, for the spontaneous physical expression of his love. She didn't want to be kissed on the brow, she wanted to be kissed on the lips. But the story would have been more convincing, also vastly less hackneyed, if the villain had won her gradually and smoothly instead of using the old kidnaping, cave-man stuff.

After all that fighting with the villain she certainly was a husky girl to be able to swim to shore—it looked a distance of five miles or so—and then walk fifty or more miles home, as she must have done, since the boat was going all night. Unless, indeed, the boat happened to be one of those which carries passengers to Catalina.

There is something of a thrill in the son and mother meeting after all the years they have been parted. But how come she didn't know her own son's name? There was nothing to explain he had changed it, and he was a famous preacher, and she was seen reading about him in the papers! Also, didn't he ever see a picture of his mother in his home?

The scene in the church between mother and son should have been strongly built to and effective, but somehow it wasn't, and a big opportunity was lost.

But the acting is superb. Those players almost make you believe the thing. Mae Busch gives a wonderfully well-shaded performance as the erring wife. Oh, that the story were worthy her genius! Irene Rich, of course, is deeply sincere as the unhappy wife.

And then there is Rex Lease, a juvenile, who plays the young preacher, and who brings fine appeal and a sense of spirituality to the role that might do credit to a much older actor. I understand this is his first real role. He will distinguish himself later, I know.

Lucien Littlefield gives a fine rendering of the ascetic minister, and Morgan Wallace was just another of those ha-ha villains, his part calling for nothing more. Dickey Brandon is a darling child.

The color pictures of the Yosemite make you catch your breath with their sheer loveliness.

Mother Says Lois Isn't Engaged

Despite cabled dispatches confirming rumors that Lois Wilson has become engaged to Barney Baruch, Jr., son of the famous New York financier and politician, while abroad for three weeks as Paramount's selection of the typical American girl of the screen, her mother, Mrs. A. K. Wilson, with whom Lois lives in Hollywood, says she is hardly ably to definitely believe it until she hears from Lois herself.

"Lois met young Baruch while in South Carolina on location a year ago when "Pied Piper Malone" was being filmed and in which she played the lead with Thomas Meighan. Since then, according to her mother, Lois has not corresponded with him.

But when she stepped aboard the Aquitania the 9th inst. a guest of the American Bar Association, which had chartered the entire ship to attend a convention abroad—there was young Baruch aboard.

LEGION GIVES MUSIC SHOW

"Oh, Boy," a musical comedy, sponsored by the American Legion, Pacific Post No. 290, made its initial appearance last night at the Grand-avenue Theater, opening for a week's run. The money raised will be used for the construction of a new club building and school for disabled veterans.

Produced under the personal direction of James F. Fulton, New York actor, the play consists of dialogue, songs and dancing, with a simple plot running throughout. The old situation of a groom of but a few hours being innocently drawn into a love affair in which he will appear as a guilty party to his bride, is the theme of the plot.

With a cast headed by Marguerite Evans, Joe Kemper and Frank Confer, the action takes place in the groom's apartment a few hours after his secret marriage. Others who appear are Clarence Arper, Patia Power, Florence Johnson, Grace Long and Marie Gordon. There is a specialty dance, too, by Eva Martella.

The services of both players and director are being donated for this benefit performance, as well as the theater itself. All are entering into their work with a spirit worthy of praise, and that promises pleasure for the audiences that attend.

Perhaps, the smooth ocean voyage, moonlight nights, Paris, etc. One can never tell.

At any rate, her mother says Lois has yet to fail to let her know of anything important occurring which concerns her. And further, that Lois won't marry in haste and repent at leisure.

"Tangerine" Is Featured at Pantages

Husbands and prospective amateurs in the game of matrimony should take the excellent suggestions offered in the light musical comedy, "Tangerine," on the boards at Pantages this week, and success may be theirs. If the author's idea adapted in the production cannot be used to advantage, persons witnessing the tidal wave of alimony encountered in the play will benefit considerably from the whims and entertaining features as exposed by the various characters.

This play, while not amusing to the nth degree and gorgeous as it could be, has been well directed and the slow-moving plot rejuvenated by characteristic individuals who lead the fun to tumultuous heights in spite of a seeming quietness in the lines. A snappy chorus of sprightly female singers and dancers brings the necessary culmination to a happy close, while a number of specialty presentations are a favorable addition to the show.

"Tangerine," as presented by Walter Windsor and adapted by Guy Bolton from a play by Philip Batholomae and Lawrence Lagner, is headed by two comedy stars, Ferne Rogers, a charming blonde portrayer, and Sam Critcherson, a young man with simple, boyish features. These two players are featured in a cleverly selected cast including Mario Valani, Jay Flewood, Lorna Dunn, Hughie Mack, Oscar Sidney and Jesse Creager. A contortionistic dancer, Bebe Moffe by name, introduces a series of loose wiggles with a technique de luxe.

All about a group of divorcees, it is decided by them that a visit to the Isle of Tangerine in the South Sea Isles would be a restful place because there the women must do all the work according to law. After their arrival some bewitching moments are had as a result of the queer customs. As a finale the natives of the island learn American ways and protest their primitive manners and teach the alimony payers that the American way is best.

On the photoplay program is "Three Miles Out," featuring Madge Kennedy. Jack Dempsey takes the lead in the third of a series of fight-and-win pictures titled "West of the Water Bucket." Dempsey is seen in his best performance of the series.

JACKIE COOGAN NIGHT

Tonight will be celebrated as "Little Robinson Crusoe" night at the Ambassador Hotel's Cocoanut Grove in honor of Jackie Coogan, who will be the guest of honor of the evening. The management has arranged to have the diminutive star in person and this will be the last opportunity the public will have to see him, as he sails for Europe August 3.

CAMEO THEATER MAY OPEN FRIDAY NIGHT

Night and day shifts of artisans have been put to work at the Cameo (formerly Clune's Broadway) to complete the renovations which have been going forward for the past three weeks, so that the showhouse management may hope for a gala opening for "The Signal Tower" Friday evening.

No definite promise can yet be made that the renamed theater will open on that date, but it will be set in a day or two. O. D. Cloakey, manager of the house, desires his opening to be a part of the "Greater Movies Week" celebration.

The theater has been completely redecorated, several mural artists having put in wall-panel paintings of great beauty. Cabinet makers have carved ornate grills and the lobby is greatly enlarged.

Elaborate plans for the opening night are now being completed. They call for the presence of Clarence Brown, who directed "The Signal Tower;" a number of Universal stars, including Virginia Valli, who essays the leading role in the picture, Wallace Beery and others.

MacLEAN COMEDY NEXT CALIFORNIA FEATURE

Douglas MacLean is coming back to the California Theater next Saturday in his latest comedy achievement.

"Never Say Die" is an adaptation of Willie Collier's stage success of the same name which kept Broadway laughing for a year and also played for three successive seasons on the road. The play has been presented in London, Australia and other world centers, where it swept audiences off their feet and broke attendance records. The screen version is said to be even funnier and more thrilling than was possible on the stage.

In the supporting cast are Lillian Rich, who will long be remembered for her work in Strongheart's "The Love Master;" Helen Ferguson, Hallam Cooley, George Cooper and Lucian Littlefield.

WILLIAM TELL STUNT IN "COVERED WAGON"

William Tell had nothing on two characters in "The Covered Wagon" when it came to sharpshooting.

One of the most amusing scenes of the picture is when the two old cronies, Sam Bridger and the scout, Jackson, accidentally meet at old Fort Bridger and, to celebrate their reunion, indulge long and copiously in pre-Volstead firewater.

To prove "a friend can trust a friend" Bridger and Jackson play the William Tell stunt, shooting tin cups from each other's heads. They don't miss, and the situation is filled with laughs provoked by the ludicrous actions of the men. Ernest Torrence plays the role of Jackson, while Tully Marshall portrays Sam Bridger, the founder of old Fort Bridger.

TRIO OPENS TOMORROW

Adler, Weil and Herman, a trio of syncopaters, will open a limited engagement at the Plantation tomorrow evening.

Comedy, Drama Headlined on Hillstreet Bill

Be your tastes comic or serious there is something of interest for you on the new Hillstreet program. The week brings two headliners, as well as an entertaining group of supporting acts.

The serious possibilities of vaudeville have been all-too-long neglected. Richard Kean does something to remedy this condition with his presentation of famous characters from famous plays. In proof of the fact that audiences in variety theaters are just as willing to be entertained by masters of the dramatic art as they are by the clowns of the footlights, Kean receives one of the biggest hands of any act on the bill. His substantial-looking setting adds materially to the charm of his presentation.

Providing some of the most hilarious laughable material on the bill Olsen and Johnson close the program with a lot of nonsense that comes little short of throwing the house into convulsions. They also stage an afterpiece in which all the other artists on the bill appear. There is a standing prize for anyone who can tell where Olsen and Johnson's act ends and the afterpiece starts. But then, nobody cares particularly for everyone is laughing too hard.

Jean Granese springs a surprise when she introduces Brother Charles and Tito De Flora into her song act. Miss Granese has a sympathetic voice well suited for the type of songs she sings and the two assistants provide a number of laughs and smiles.

Dance and song comprise the presentation of Niemeyer and Morgan and Company, recruits from the musical comedy stage, whose act is presented speedily and which is well received. Bernt and Partner on the opening spot is the other vaudeville offering.

The screen features Harry Carey in "The Night Hawk" this week, with an Aesop's Fables cartoon and another picture of the "Telephone Girl" series completing the program.

Alexander Is Popular at Bowl Concert

With Arthur Alexander as guest conductor and Ettore Campana as soloist, a highly entertaining popular program was heard Saturday evening at Hollywood Bowl. Increasing appreciation for summer symphony concerts was attested by the fact that large audiences have become the rule and splendid attention has been maintained throughout the program.

Mr. Alexander conducted with verve, precision and animation. He shows excellent musicianship and unbounded enthusiasm, and his interpretations are pleasing. The second concert of the season as guest conductor, he gave evidence of a better control of the orchestra and more freedom in matters of dynamic shading.

Suppe's "Light Cavalry" overture, Saint-Saens's symphonic poem, "Phaeton," and Chabrier's scintillating rhapsody, "Espana," were the enjoyable musical bill of fare for the first half of the program. An impressive hearing was given Bach-Goumod's "Ave Maria" for strings and harp. The "F Sharp Moment Musical" by Schubert was pleasing, and the last brilliant number was Lalo's "Le Roi d'Ys" overture.

Mr. Campana sang the prologue to "Pagliacci" with fine effect. His voice carried very well and he held the attention of his audience nicely. His voice is pleasant in quality, although not a great voice. Comment should be made regarding the accompanying of the orchestra in parts of this: the brasses were held down admirably in most instances, and this is particularly difficult with voice. In the "Toreador Song," an encore, the strict tempo was adhered to so severely that the soloist had little leeway in matters of vocal display.

All in all, this may be regarded as one of the most interesting and satisfactory popular concerts which has been heard at the Bowl this season.

KOSLOFF BALLET IS FORUM ATTRACTION

Theodore Kosloff, motion-picture actor, ballet master and producer, is the busiest man in Los Angeles just now. Besides running the Kosloff Ballet School and taking care of his motion-picture activities, he is personally directing the prologue in which twenty-five of his artists take part in connection with the showing of Clarence Brown's "Butterfly" at the Forum Theater.

Mr. Kosloff is in personal charge of the prologue at every performance of "Butterfly." Not only did he arrange and direct the act, but the costuming, scenery and all properties were designed by him and created in his own art studios. The Kosloff prologue is being hailed as one of the most beautiful stage presentations in Los Angeles.

BALLOONS TO CARRY PASSES TO MILLER'S

A balloon chase will start at 11 a.m. today in front of Miller's Theater. More than 2000 assorted colored balloons will be set free from the roof of the theater. Those who succeed in catching the balloons will be admitted to view Johnny Hines in "Little Johnny Jones," the current attraction at the theater.

Hat Roach's latest "Our Gang" comedy, "It's a Bear," is included on the bill.

NEW DANCE ORCHESTRA

Los Angeles has another famous recording orchestra to its credit. Glen Oswald and his Victor dance-record artists are playing a summer engagement at the Cinderella Roof while Herb Wiedoeft's band tours the eastern cities. Oswald's ten syncopators are noted for their perfect rhythm. They were chosen to make records from a selection of thirty-five other well-known jazz orchestras in America. Their first record, "Oh, Peter!" and "Go Your Way" is having a tremendous sale in the Northwest and will soon be released here. It is said to be one of the five best dance records of the year.

SHOW "EVOLUTION"

A preview of "Evolution," produced by Louis Tolhurst and Ransome Sutton, will be held for the Presbyterian Synod meeting here at the Davidge Film Corporation, 6701 Santa Monica Boulevard, at 4 p.m. today.

CONTEMPT FOR AMERICA SEEN

Sculptor Says Europe Thinks Dry Law is Farce

Edstrom Predicts Prohibition for Northern Nations

End of Saloon Declared Boon to This Country

European contempt for American disobedience of the National Prohibition Act is the strongest impression brought back from a visit to Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Belgium and England by David Edstrom, Los Angeles sculptor, who returned to his home here yesterday after delivering two lectures at the National University of Sweden.

He believes, however, that the judgment passed on America by the peoples of the North is founded on a misapprehension of facts—a misapprehension shared by many Americans. Prohibition in the United States, he believes, does prohibit. The Prohibition Act, he predicts, never will be repealed and, in all the countries he visited, he found the sentiment and thought of statesmen and far-sighted observers of manners, morals and economic forces leaning more and more to the acceptance of prohibition for their own peoples.

"Except for their wealth and their material strength," he said, "Americans are not respected in Europe and they are not liked. One soon learns to distinguish between the attitude of the European who is seeking to win American money or American sport for his enterprise of the moment and his personal attitude toward the individual he is approaching.

SEE LAW AS FARCE

"We promise too much and perform too little. We enact laws and don't enforce them. We are too easily satisfied with a word and a gesture. We redeem the world in too many different kinds of ways too many times a day. They think of the League of Nations, of our faddist religions, or ologies and isms—and particularly of our experiment in prohibition.

"They believe — and who can blame them?—that prohibition in the United States is a farce. Anybody who reads our periodicals and newspapers would think so and they have no other foundation for their belief. But they forget, as many Americans forget, that our great newspapers and our most widely circulated magazines, the purported disseminators of information and mirrors of opinion, are themselves published in relatively small centers of wet sentiment.

"New York, Washington, Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco, do not reflect conditions in the country at large and do not express the sentiment of the people as a whole on prohibition. In Texas, in the Middle West, in many States and cities of the South, prohibition is an actuality. Liquor is almost impossible for the stranger to obtain.

"My observation of America in traveling back and forth across it, is that the people expressed their true and deep-seated desire when they decreed prohibition and that what we read about their behavior since then has its origin, not perhaps in any desire to misrepresent, but in circumscribed experience. A man can only describe what he has seen and the truth is that most of those who sneer at prohibition don't know what they are talking about.

"It struck me with the force of a shock to see in the streets and bars of London the puffy, bleary faces that I suddenly remembered I no longer saw in the cities of America. The American workingman is stronger, cleaner, more alert, more self-respecting in his appearance than his fellows in the cities of Europe where free drinking is habitual. I realize now that in every way he is a better-looking citizen than he used to be. The change has been so gradual that I hadn't noticed it until the contrast was forced upon me.

"Even in London, though, drinking is under severe restrictions. There are no saloons that keep open twenty-four hours a day, and seven days a week, as they used to do in many cities of California. In Sweden and Norway there are no saloons at all. A man may buy one drink of spirits with his meals, not more, and only a limited quantity of liquor for consumption at home. If his family or his neighbors complain of his behavior, even that limited quantity is withdrawn.

DOOM OF "PUB"

"I don't know that absolute prohibition will come soon in the northern countries, but I can see that the tendency since I was last there in 1915 is all toward restriction, and I know that the best opinion of intelligent men inclines toward no drinking at all. Public health is better and all manifestations of the social evil are more easily controlled where strong drink does not undermine and aggravate them.

"Workers of every description, book-keepers or blacksmiths, are more efficient without it. The nations that drink heavily are coming to realize that unless they reform they cannot keep up with more temperate peoples. In England, I believe the doom of the open drinking bar, the pub, is as good as signed, though execution of the sentence may be long delayed."

Mr. Edstrom lectured at Upsala, the seat of the Swedish National University, on the philosophy of life expressed in his two monuments, "The Passing of the Gods" and "Man Triumphant." The Olaus Petri Foundation, which invited him, was established to honor world-renowned philosophers and theologians who have contributed to cosmic thought, and Archbishop Soverblom, his host, told him that he was the only layman, so to say, who had ever appeared before it.

While in Upsala he was a fellow-guest with the archbishop and Minister Bliss, the American diplomatic representative, at a dinner given by Count Douglas, Governor of the province.

AUTO DEATH TRIAL OPENS

H. L. Holdsworth, a local business man, went on trial yesterday in Judge Keetch's court on a charge of manslaughter preferred against him as a result of the death of Juan Velasco, who was asserted to have been run down by an automobile operated by Holdsworth. According to the District-Attorney, the accident occured March 13, last, as Velasco was alighting from a street car.

MURDER TRIAL IS BEGUN

Leonard Lewis, negro, went on trial yesterday in Judge Avery's court on a charge of murder growing out of the fatal shooting April 24, last, of C. C. Barnes, also a negro. Lewis is asserted to have shot Barnes during a street altercation.

INVERTED CITY SEEN FROM SHIP

Mirage in Red Sea Shows Arab Boys Playing Marbles in Street, Captain Says

Capt. T. H. Dobson

A mirage of an inverted city, so sharply defined that Arab boys could be seen playing marbles in the streets, was sighted by passengers aboard the Dollar round-the-world liner President Monroe, while she was in the Red Sea last month, declared Capt. T. H. Dobson on arrival at this port yesterday. The ship brought ninety-two passengers and 3000 tons of cargo from ports around the world.

The city hung in the sky several miles ahead of the ship, said Capt. Dobson, while the mosques, temples, waving palm trees and crowded streets could be plainly seen—all hanging upside down. The illusion is believed to have been a reflection of the city of Ismailia, Egypt, about fifteen miles from the coast.

James T. Skelly, vice-president of the Hercules Powder Company, arrived on the President, Monroe with Mrs. Skelly and their three children.

Miss Peggy O'Neill of New York, who numbers Irene Castle and Norma Gould among her dancing pupils, came in on the liner. She is here as the guest of Miss Gould.

A score of New York school teachers made the trip around via the canal, while a passenger when the President Monroe sails for the Orient tomorrow night will be Capt. Robert Dollar, veteran-founder of the Dollar Line, and his family.

Thirty passengers will board her at this port, while 2000 tons of Southern California products will also be loaded aboard for Far East delivery.

BUILDING OF MACY SPAN SPEEDED UP

City, County and Railways Agree on Viaduct Project; Bids to be Sought

The city, county and the Santa Fe and Salt Lake and Los Angeles railways stipulated to the State Railroad Commission yesterday that the city should be authorized immediately by the commission to advertise for bids for the construction of a part of the proposed Macy street viaduct, pending the decision of the commission on the allocation of cost among the parties.

The stipulation was requested by Assistant City-Attorney Bryan, who declared the city was eager to proceed with the construction of at least a portion of the bridge. It was said at the conclusion of the hearing that the commission was expected to act favorably on the stipulated request.

Two plans, which combine the same specifications except for the length of the west approach to the viaduct, were submitted to the commission. One plan was submitted by the city and calls for a rearrangement of the Santa Fe tracks to eliminate a grade crossing. The alternate plans are those of the Santa Fe which propose a longer bridge that would span the present trackage without change.

According to Mr. Bryan the city plans to let contracts for construction of the viaduct except for this western approach, which will be held in abeyance pending the commission's decision.

December 4 was set as the next hearing date when plans and specifications of the third Los Angeles River viaduct will be submitted. According to Bridge Engineer Butler the Seventh-street bridge probably will be next discussed.

BLAZE ON DYNAMITE SHIP FORCES RETURN

EXCITING VOYAGE OF FEW HOURS REVEALED IN COURT HEARING

How a vessel loaded with gasoline and dynamite and bound for Mexico caught fire a few hours after leaving Los Angeles Harbor and was compelled to return to this port was revealed yesterday in Judge Keetch's court when Tony Parrino was arraigned on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

R. P. Carrey, attorney of record for Parrino, failed to appear and Judge Keetch asked John L. Bisher, Carrey's associate, the reason for the latter's absence.

Bisher then told the court Carrey was on the ill-fated boat and had not sufficiently recovered from the nervous shock accompanying his experience to be in court.

Parrino pleaded guilty and was fined $25.

DOUBLE SALE CHARGED

Charles C. Champ is accused on two counts of obtaining money under false pretenses and one count of selling real property twice in a complaint issued yesterday by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Ham. According to the complaint, Champ sold the same piece of property to Mrs. Anna Schaeffer of 900 East Twenty-eighth street and Verda Vansandt. He is declared to have obtained $230 from the first sale and $450 from the second.

BEACHES TO HAVE LIGHTS ON SUNDAYS

Allowed Normal Supply of Power for Sabbath Pending Further Notice

Pleasure seekers at the beaches Sunday nights will be given a taste of the old-time gaiety as a result of an order lifting the ban on electricity on Sundays. The order went into effect Sunday.

Power Supervisor Butler has given instructions, it was said, that the normal supply of power to beach resorts shall be permitted on Sundays until further notice. Mr. Butler said that electricity generated from additional steam plants, which is consumed in other uses on week days is now sufficient to permit of normal usage on Sundays.

Along with the order, however, the supervisor issued a warning that no waste of electricity would be permitted and Edison district managers have been advised to report any violations. Theaters and amusement parks in other cities of Southern California participate in this greater Sunday latitude, Butler said. But in other respects the conservation program must remain strictly in force because of the danger on week days of overdraft on the water supply in Huntington Lake.

Mr. Butler was advised that Long Beach is contemplating the issuance of orders for rigid conservation of power.

Furniture Mart Opening Adds to Local Industry

With an opening attendance of some 500 dealers, the Los Angeles Furniture Mart yesterday formally opened its new headquarters in a building at 324 North San Pedro street.

With its opening, Los Angeles, it is said, became the largest wholesale furniture clearing center west of Chicago. It is expected that several score of national manufacturers will maintain exhibits here as a result of the new enterprise.

"The organizing of the Mart places Los Angeles on a par with Chicago as one of the largest furniture distributing centers in the country," R. C. Cross, president of the mart, said yesterday. "It means not only the bringing of larger revenues to the city through the business channel, but establishes a central point at which all the furniture dealers of the Pacific Coast can in one day and one place compare prices on all of the various products listed."

MANY ARRIVING FOR FILM FETE

Leaders of Industry Flock to Witness Pageant

Parade Will Incept Greater Movie Season Friday

Mayor and Visitors Will be in Reviewing Stand

Motion-picture producers, distributors and exhibitors from all over the United States are arriving here for the inauguration of Greater Movie Season next Friday. These figures of the film world will participate as spectators and interested co-workers in the observance which is planned to be the greatest thing of its kind ever attempted.

From New York will come a special train carrying the heads of several producing organizations, including men high in the ranks of Paramount, First National, Metro-Goldwyn, United Artists, Universal, and others. Leading theatrical managers are turning their posts over to assistants and are coming here, it is stated, in order to view the huge street pageant which will mark the public opening of the season.

In the reviewing stand during the parade, theater men and film men from Chicago, Detroit and other eastern-key centers will watch the parade with Mayor Cryer and the official family.

Comment on the observance plans are reported to be pouring into headquarters here.

Indications are that more than 1000 of the chief figures in the film industry will be here for the inauguration of the week, it is announced.

The parade Friday will start at 11 a.m., from Eighteenth and Hill streets and will proceed through the business district to Hope and Ninth streets, where it will disband.

Clients Explain Operation Plan of Broker Weist

The brokerage operations of Harry C. West, who is asserted to have operated a bucket shop at his offices at 714 South Hill street, were explained to Deputy Corporation Commissioner H. A. I. Welch yesterday by six of the broker's clients. This was during a hearing to which Weist had been cited to appear to show cause why his license should not be revoked.

A formal complaint was made out against the broker several days ago by Floyd L. Eddy. The broker's books and records also have been seized.

Yesterday's witnesses testified they first had been approached by representatives of the broker in telephone conversations.

Miss Margaret Doherty was one of the witnesses. Other witnesses were Miss Anne Schaffer, motion-picture actress; Otis H. Castle, attorney; N. W. Warman and Otis Fry. The hearing will be resumed today at 10 a.m.

FILM EXHIBITORS TO HAVE ANNUAL OUTING

The third annual outing of motion-picture exhibitors and exchangemen of Southern California will be conducted August 7 at Ocean Park. A large number of producers, film celebrities and others associated with the motion-picture industry are expected to attend the outing. A minstrel show in which a number of film luminaries will take part will be one of the features of the celebration. Proceeds of the show will go to the benefit fund of the exchangemen.

CITY EMPLOYEES TO PICNIC IN SEPTEMBER

The All City Employees Association will hold its annual picnic and reunion at Sycamore Grove on Admission Day, September 9, it was announced yesterday. Coffee will be served free by the association, members bringing their own lunches. The day will be given over to speeches, music, and field sports, including races for the young and old, the fat and the lean.

Judge Attacks Patriotism of Local Attorney

R. W. Henderson, attorney for Louis J. Morris, asserted radical, was reprimanded severely yesterday by Superior Judge Crail for statements made in court on behalf of his client, which were declared by the judge to be un-American.

Defending his client in the case, which was on appeal of a fine of $250 administered to Morris by a Los Angeles Harbor police court, Henderson declared copies of radical newspapers distributed by Morris were not a violation of the anti-Wobbly injunction. These articles in the Industrial Worker, published in Seattle, urged direct action in the campaign of the I.W.W.'s and expressed the belief that all workers would join when the final "gigantic battle" came.

"A lawyer who upholds such statements," declared Judge Crail, "has lost his sense of values and his Americanism in his zeal for his client." Judge Crail denied the appeal.

AUTO DAMAGE CASE JUDGMENT REVERSED

APPELLATE COURT DECIDES EVIDENCE OFFERED IS NOT SUFFICIENT

Judgment of $738.73 which was given Louis W. Scellars for asserted damages to his automobile while it was being washed by the Universal Service Everywhere, was reversed yesterday by the Second District Court of Appeal, Division Two, on finding that evidence presented in Superior Judge Wood's court was not sufficient to sustain the verdict.

According to Scellars, he drove his machine to the service station on May 27, 1920. On returning two hours later he was advised that the car was broken, it is said, costing him $735.75 in repairs.

Judge Craig, in reversing the decision, found that the evidence not only failed to show a want of care on the defendant's part, but that evidence was presented by Scellars to indicate that there were other causes which might have produced the same result which the defendant was not responsible for.

The court in session yesterday admitted John H. Hutchinson, Colorado; C. L. Whitehead, Louisiana, and Hiram R. McTavish, Manitoba, Can., to practice law before the California bar.

CIVIL SERVICE JOBS OPEN

The United States Civil Service Commission announced yesterday open competitive examinations for the following positions: Associate mechanical engineer, associate marketing specialist, agricultural economist, associate agricultural economist, junior telephone operator at Washington, D. C., clerk repairman at Washington, D. C., junior metallurgist, opener and packer in the United States Customs Service at Los Angeles, laboratorian in Roentgenology at Palo Alto. Applications should be made with Edward Tynan, Room 618 Federal Building.

Watts Doctor Is Arrested in Dope Sale Case

Dr. T. F. Moore, 44 years of age, a physician with offices at 946 Compton avenue, Watts, was arrested yesterday by Inspectors Earle and Roberts of the State Board of Pharmacy, and was lodged in the County Jail on a charge of violating the State Poison Act.

The specific charge against Dr. Moore is that he gave prescriptions for narcotics to addicts without reporting it to the State Board of Pharmacy as required by law. Bail was set at $1500.

REALTY LICENSE LOSS IS AFFIRMED BY COURT

The Second District Court of Appeal, Division Two, yesterday denied the Carl Coffman Realty Company's petition for a writ of review of the recent action of Real Estate Commissioner Keiser revoking the company's license for alleged dishonest conduct in transacting its business. Commissioner Keiser found the company had negotiated with Joseph J. Crosby and David Mitchell for the purchase of property valued at $10,100 and had paid a first installment of $850. When the purchasers later decided to cancel the order their request for a refund of the $250 was refused. The company's license was revoked on May 26, last.

BY CHEF A. L. WYMAN, M.C.A.

BRAN MUFFINS

O. N. B., Los Angeles, has trouble in baking muffins and wants recipe for cornmeal and bran muffins and white-flour muffins.

For the bran muffins sift two cupfuls of sifted flour with one cupful of cornmeal, six level teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one teaspoonful of salt and two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Add to these one cupful of bran, two well-beaten eggs, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter and one and three-quarters cupfuls of milk. Beat smooth, fill muffin tins two-thirds full with the mixture, brush with melted butter and bake in a moderate oven thirty minutes.

ONE-EGG MUFFINS

Sift three cupfuls of sifted flour with one teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, six level teaspoonfuls of baking powder and beat into them one well-beaten egg, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter and one and a half cupfuls of milk. Fill buttered muffin tins two-thirds full, brush with melted butter and bake in moderate oven twenty-five minutes. Both recipes will make one dozen large muffins.

ABALONE STEAK

R. F. S., Long Beach, asks that we give instructions for cooking abalone steak and making abalone chowder.

Place in a frying pan three tablespoonfuls of olive oil, add a slice of onion and simmer three minutes; lift out the onion and lay in the prepared abalone steaks that have been dipped in seasoned flour. Fry slowly until tender. Lift onto a hot platter and serve with tartar sauce.

ABALONE CHOWDER

Cut the white part or foot muscle of the abalone in strips and run them through the fine knife of a meat chopper. Cover with cold water, bring to a boil and simmer slowly twenty-five minutes. There should be three cupfuls of the chopped abalone. Place in an iron pot one cupful of diced salt pork, heat, add two chopped onions and cook until the onion is a light golden color. Add to the pot four cupfuls of hot milk, the cooked abalone, four broken crackers, a seasoning of pepper and salt and two teaspoonfuls of finely chopped parsley. Simmer five minutes and serve.

NUT BRITTLE

Three of our readers want recipes for making brittle nut candies, and if they will follow the following directions we think they will have success: Place in a sauce pan two cupfuls of sugar, add one cupful of golden syrup, half a cupful of water and one teaspoonful of corn syrup; cook until it starts to thicken and bubble; add two tablespoonfuls of butter and two cupfuls of shelled nut meats; cook until the nuts start to brown, remove from the fire, stir in four level teaspoonfuls of baking soda and one teaspoonful of lemon extract; stir quickly until it foams; turn out on a cold plate that has been well buttered, roll out thin, and cool.

ENGLISH TAFFY

E. D. H., Fillmore, asks for a recipe for a brittle English taffy.

Melt one cupful of butter in a saucepan, add three cupfuls of brown sugar, one cup of golden syrup, and one tablespoonful of water. Heat slowly until the sugar is dissolved, stir frequently, bring to a boil, add one teaspoonful of corn syrup and boil until a little dropped in ice water will become brittle or until it is 300 deg. Fahr. by the sugar boiling thermometer. Remove from the fire and stir in one teaspoonful of vanilla extract and one teaspoonful of lemon extract. If liked can be poured over walnut meats, place on a well-buttered plate and sprinkle with finely chopped nut meats. Before it sets mark in squares with a knife.

NOODLE RING

E. W. B., Los Angeles, requests a recipe for a noodle ring that will serve eight.

Slightly beat four eggs, add half a teaspoonful of salt and enough sifted flour to make a stiff dough, about two and two-thirds cupfuls; knead well and let stand half an hour, divide into four parts, roll out each part very thin and let stand one hour. Roll up like a jelly roll, and cut in quarter-inch slices with a sharp knife, toss lightly and spread on a board to dry.

For a noodle ring pudding drop the noodles in boiling salted water and boil five minutes. Drain in a collander and place in a saucepan with three tablespoonfuls of melted butter, stir and cook until the noodles have absorbed the butter. Pack half of the cooked noodles into a well-buttered ring mold, spread with one and one-half cups of good tart jelly or jam, sprinkle with three-quarters of a cup of sugar mixed with two teaspoonfuls of cinnamon and one cupful of finely chopped walnut meats; fill the mold with the remaining noodles, sprinkle with one cupful of sugar mixed with one cupful of finely chopped meats and two teaspoonfuls of cinnamon. Bake half an hour in a moderate oven, unmold on a hot plate and serve with a jelly sauce.

GERMAN PANCAKE

G. M., Los Angeles, lost her recipe for German pancake given in this department some months ago and asks that we repeat it.

There are three different mixtures that are called German pancakes, the plain German pancake, baked in the oven; "puffer" o potato pancake, and the German apple pancake.

PUFFER

Peel, grate and drain two potatoes and add to them two well-beaten eggs, half a teaspoonful of sale, two tablespoonfuls of sifted flour and one grated onion; beat well, drop from a spoon onto a well-greased griddle and bake a nice brown on both sides.

APPLE SCHMARREN

Beat the youks of three eggs with one tablespoon of sugar until light and lemon colored; add one cupful of thin cream and beat smooth; add half a cupful of sifted flour and beat smooth; add two peeled, cored and finely chopped cooking apples and the grated rind of one lemon; mix well, fold in the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs and pour half of the mixture into a hot well-buttered omelet pan, bake a nice brown on both sides, place in a hot plate and sift with sugar and cinnamon. Bake the balance of the batter, place on top and sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon.

GERMAN PANCAKE

Beat one egg with one teaspoonful of salt and beat well, add one-third of a cupful of milk and beat smooth. Continue beating and beat in two-thirds of a cupful of sifted flour, beat well and beat in one-third of a cupful of milk. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter in a thick iron frying pan, pour in the mixture and set in a hot oven until baked. Slide out onto a hot plate and sprinkle with sugar and lemon juice.

GLOBE A1 FLOUR MILLS

WANDERER'S TRUNKS SET NEW RECORD

He and They Travel 76,000 Miles Without Losing One; Far Places Covered

The carrying of fourteen trunks without the loss of a single one on 76,000-mile journey that included the South Sea Islands, the jungles of Borneo, Sumatra and the hinterland of China, probably constitutes the record for safe transportation of traveling paraphernalia.

The man who achieved this feat is Chester A. Doyle of Honolulu, globe trotter, lawyer, criminologist, humorist, bon vivant, bachelor, man of the world and for more than thirty years official Japanese interpreter of the Hawaiian government.

Mr. Doyle is now in Los Angeles, being a guest at the Biltmore. He explains that he devised a unique system of protecting his baggage, the painting of large triangles in violent green and red all over each truck.

"When an oriental baggage smasher saw the gaudily colored luggage he knew all the pieces belonged together and took pains to keep them so," said Mr. Doyle.

The world traveler is in Los Angeles on a brief vacation. He has been a globe trotter most of his life, but his longest journey, which included Hawaii, Japan, Korea, North and South China, Cochin China, the Straits Settlement, Burma, India, Java, Ceylon, Australia, Tasmania, Tahiti, New Zealand and a few other outlying districts, was undertaken in behalf of the Biltmore Hotel Corporation of New York.

"I visited every town and city of any size in these countries to establish reciprocal relations between the foreign hotels and the Biltmore chain of hotels in America," said Mr. Doyle. "During my wanderings, which covered a period of two years, I employed every means of transportation known to man, at one time or another, from elephant back to sedan chairs carried by coolies."

Mr. Doyle was born in Massachusetts, but at the age of 6 accompanied his father to Japan, in which country he lived until manhood. He states that he learned Japanese before he learned English and he also speaks several Chinese dialects fluently.
